

The Origin

The biggest and the best

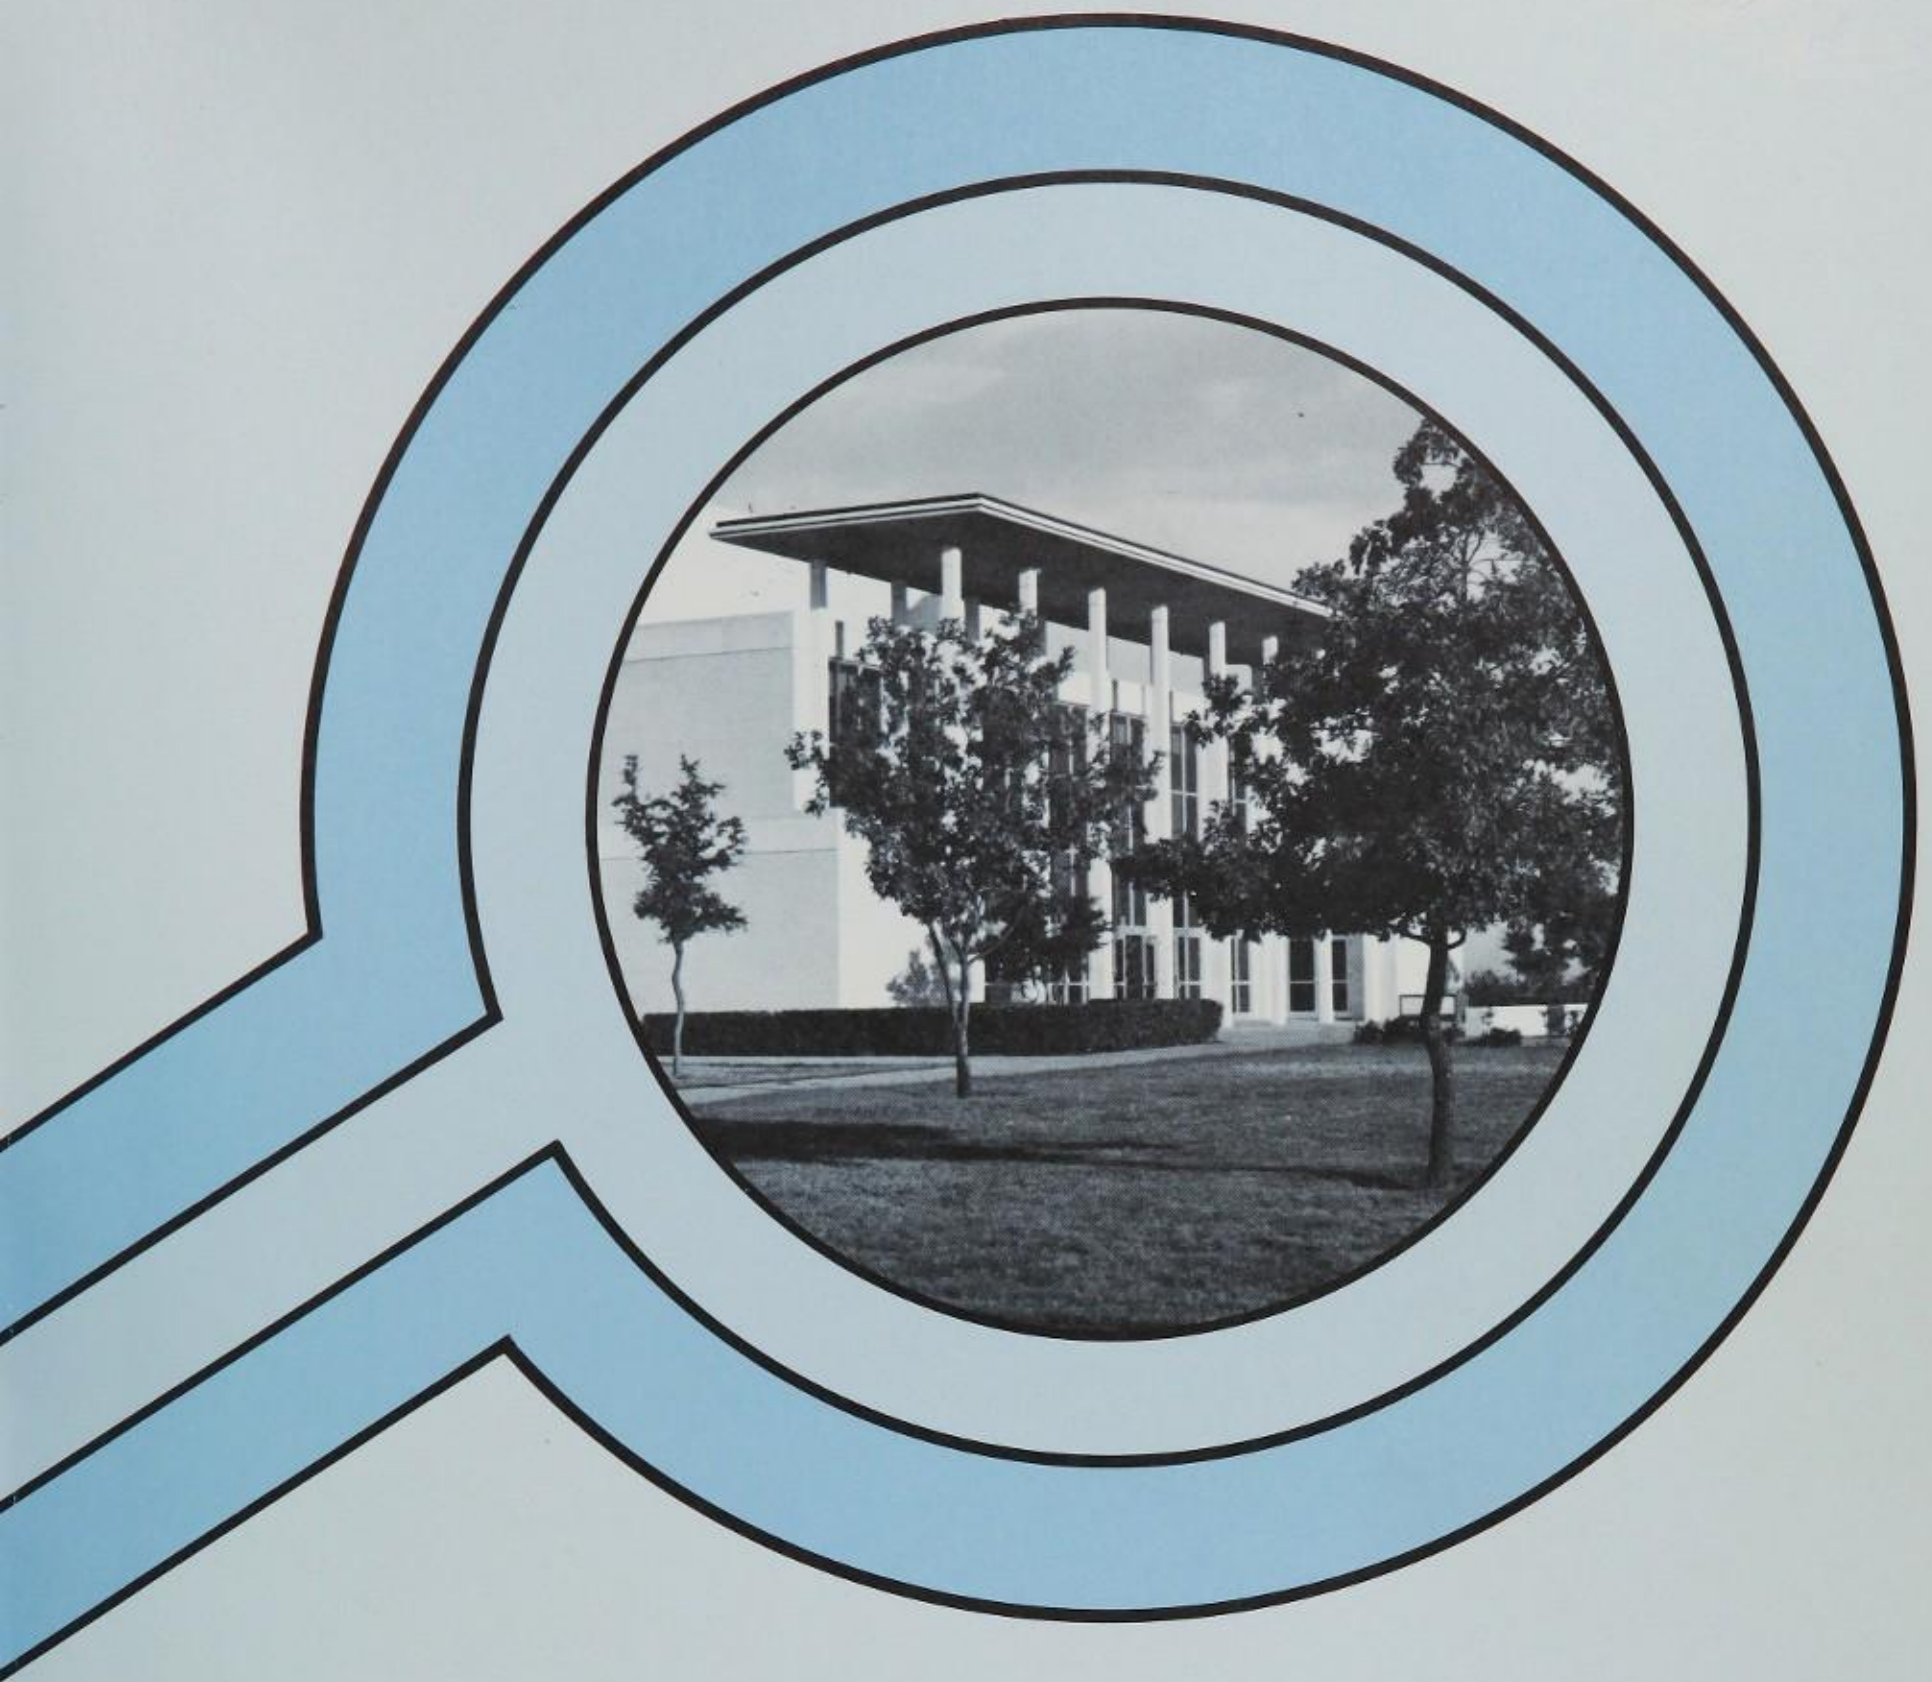

LoVERNE SHEFFIELD

Skyline students have always thought of Skyline as the biggest and the best. Last year the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges confirmed their belief, reporting that Skyline is the largest four year high school in the United States. Since over half the student body comes to Skyline by choice, this belief must be city-wide. Everything about Skyline, the immense campus, the famed career development program, the large number of students and faculty involved in the activities at the school, completely verifies the certainty that Skyline is truly the biggest and the best.

1979 Origin Staff dedicates its work to Sandy Lucaa

Ms. Lucaa shows interest by attending orientation.

Because of her expertise as a teacher and volunteering weekends and summer months to Skyline activities, Sandy Lucaa stands out among teachers at Skyline.

As speech teacher and National Forensic League (NFL) sponsor, Ms. Lucaa was the first Skyline teacher to advance a speech student to national competition.

Though Ms. Lucaa is small, her devotion to Skyline is an enormous example of her dedication to teaching. Besides the NFL, Ms. Lucaa has sponsored the Senior Pub, the Alumni Association and the cheerleaders.

During her 16 years teaching, nine of which she's spent at Skyline, Ms. Lucaa has dealt with students in each grade, as well as those in special education.

Because of her sympathy and empathy with those under her leadership, her welcomed sense of humor, and her unceasing efforts to reach students, faculty and parents, Ms. Lucaa certainly demonstrates and conveys the theme, the biggest and the best. We dedicate our efforts to her.

Ms. Lucaa recounts the experience of National Speech competition with Ricky Rush.

Being chosen as dedicatee doesn't mean Ms. Lucaa is lax on discipline.

Correct pronunciation and facial expression is an important part of communication. Ms. Lucaa and speech student Brian Joyce work toward perfection in delivery.

Ms. Lucca's cheerful attitude is contagious to her students. In such a comfortable atmosphere, the student's desire to learn and discover is stimulated.

Faculty makes education top priority

The faculty at Skyline has the same pride in the school as the students; and because of this pride, education is the top priority.

The Skyline staff is among the most highly educated in the city of Dallas. They demonstrated their spirit, sense of humor and interest on a daily basis.

Their attentiveness to Skyline and its students leads one to know why Skyline is the biggest and the best.

Vic Ashley, art teacher and rodeo sponsor, explains the rodeo schedule.

A dominant figure in the Skyline family, Principal Frank Guzick appears to tower above all around him.

Patsy Niedecken, Honors English teacher, is exemplary of the educational desires of Skyline teachers as she works on her doctorate at the University of Dallas.

Attendance of football games is not mandatory. Teachers show their enthusiasm by attending whenever their schedules permit.

CDC provides Skyline many successes

The career development program at Skyline is one of the reasons why the school is so unique. Its success was indicated by the spin-off magnets, which have had their birth in Skyline, but whose removal from Skyline as magnets has diminished neither the number of students nor the standards of the program.

The 26 clusters, many of which are multi-faceted, prepared students for careers ranging from aeronautics to engineering to politics.

The pre-cluster program, initiated in 1978, had proved successful in bringing students to Skyline.

Boundless campus gives students room to grow

The looming pillars that give Skyline a monumental aire are the threshold into the world of clusters, activities, and opportunities that no other high school offers.

The immense size of the Skyline campus makes it stand out among all other schools. Spread across 80 acres and dominating the horizon from all sides, its towering pillars and phenomenal facilities cause it to be labeled "the showcase of Dallas."

Though sometimes confusing and difficult to conquer, the pleasant atmosphere the campus presents is a constant reminder to those who attend of the advantages and opportunities that only Skyline has to offer.

Becoming a part of Skyline entails learning to appreciate and master one's surroundings as well as grasp the knowledge that is disclosed within the classrooms.

The talent of the students in the Horticulture Cluster is exhibited in the landscaping of the grounds surrounding A-building.

Quality, quantity make Skyline stand out

Aside from being the biggest four-year high school in the United States, the features of Skyline's campus make it stand out from all the rest.

The 80-acre campus, the career development program and the involvement of the community, make Skyline truly unique, the school the downtown administration uses as an example of what all schools should be.

Student life

Whether they were getting oriented, attending assemblies, keeping up with the latest fads, or participating in the everyday activities that make up student life, Skyline students showed a uniqueness that set them apart. Student Life captured these students participating in the varied activities that dissolved their differences without crushing their individuality. This section is devoted to those students who illustrated the theme, the biggest and the best.

Rituals form student's daily activities

Although Skyline students came from different parts of town, they all participated in the daily rituals that made up student life. The average school day promised an intense study of the basics coupled with free time for primping, socializing, smoking and procrastinating.

Sleeping, skipping, eating in class and touching in the halls were discouraged but indulged in by many. The every day activities of Skyline's students were as varied as the students themselves.

College Night, Sept. 18, marked the beginning of decision making for many Skyline students. It provided them with a mini-course in hype while demonstrating the competition and rivalry that exists in the adult world.

Flowers, pens, decals and other assorted paraphernalia were handed out by representatives from over 50 universities to the college bound students. Those goodies, along with the standard brochures, helped Skyline students make their final choices.

All the things that students love to do because they aren't allowed, come under the heading of forbidden pleasures: anything from going to Whataburger to "courting in the halls" to ducking out of third period study hall. Those are the things that make life exciting.

Forbidden pleasures are easy to recognize following Mr. Guzick's many morning announcements: picking up and turning around cars in the Chariot parking lot or the "24 communicable diseases" one can catch kissing in the halls.

Forbidden pleasures give excitement

This year Skyline was painted inside and out. Inside Skyline was getting its classrooms repainted yellow and beige, forcing students to attend classes in such places as B and F buildings as well as the library.

Outside the painting was of a more artistic nature. W. T. White paid a visit late one Wednesday night in October to leave such messages as "W. T. White #1" and several hand painted Longhorns in brilliant orange. Sandblasting removed all traces a few days later, costing Skyline over $6,000.

Lockers not lacking in personality

The locker was not just a place to put books but the only place in school which was entirely the student's to do with as he wished.

The locker often represented the student's personality from simple to extravagant, from meticulous to haphazard, from private to communal. A student's locker was his castle to decorate as he pleased and Skyline's students seemed to find many ways to shine.

Clusters create career opportunities

Known throughout the United States for its unique learning opportunities, Skyline provided students with the chance to investigate their chosen careers.

By creating three hour time blocks called clusters, Skyline helped its students further their interests in both academic and vocational occupations. These clusters ranged from auto mechanics and aeronautics to standard English and math.

Being in clusters gave students the chance to share their ideas with others interested in the same career. While exchanging these ideas, Skyline students grew closer together and learned that working hard can often be fun.

The sponsors and performers learned the folk dances that they sometimes performed for students in the lunchroom and the student center as well as area schools.

AP history stages “meeting of minds”

The meeting of the minds held in Cathy Baratti’s advanced history course showed that the knowledge of one student can be used to enlighten the entire class.

Students who participated in the project wrote biographies on major people in history and chose two subjects on which they would like to speak. The wide range of topics, which included world peace, political assassinations, abortion, sex education and religion, illuminated the change of thought throughout history.

Students had to dress and talk in character, according to what they had learned of their historical figures, remaining in character throughout the meeting. Such notables as Susan B. Anthony, John Wilkes Booth, Ann Hutchinson, Einstein, Roosevelt, and Madelyn O’Hare attended.

Hawking, barking keep groups in green

Sales at Skyline were big business if one judged by the amount of money that changed hands.

From the beginning of the year, students could be caught in the halls by Silhouettes hawking spirit ribbons and on their way through the student center, they were assailed from both sides. On the left, horticulture students sold house plants or sausage, choir members and coaches sold tickets; and on the right, the D.E. students waved sheets of notebook paper or lifesavers.

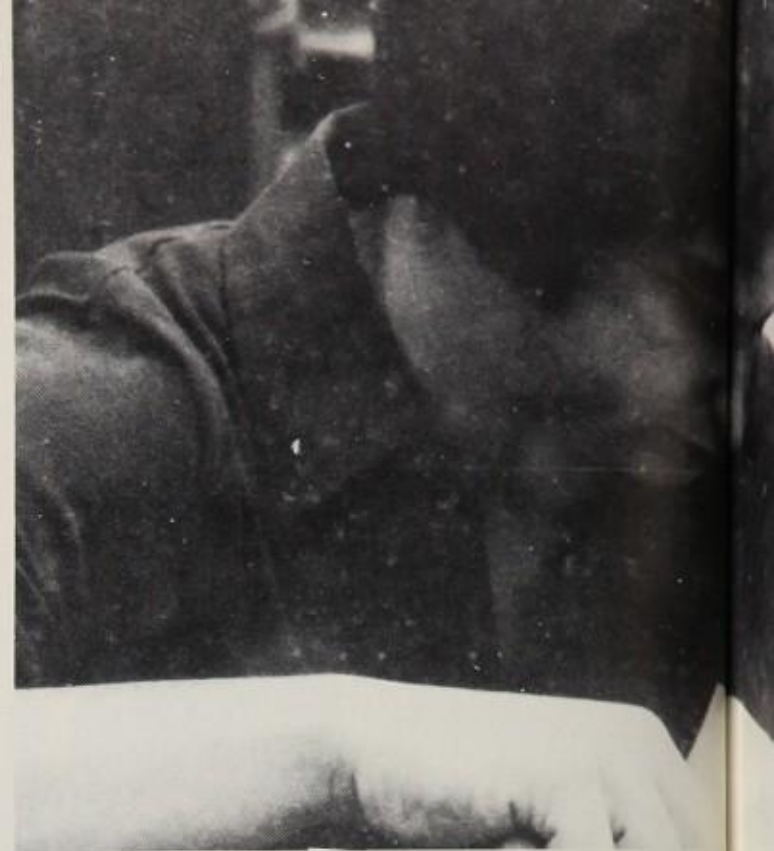

Once in class, the student had the opportunity to buy NHS' M and M's, band candles, French club mugs, or the choir's shampoo.

All of these two week selling seasons were choreographed by office 104 so they would not overlap.

Bachelor Survival has been one of the most popular courses since it started at Skyline nine years ago. Now retitled Home Management and Consumer Education, the name was changed when girls were integrated with the boys, the course hopes to teach young adults how to survive once they leave home.

In the first quarter, students were required to do a demonstration, with a partner, in front of the class. Units on microwave cooking, renting apartments, buying houses and insurance were studied after the beginning measurements and cooking terms were learned.

Second quarter began with units on checking accounts, meats and ended with a section on careers. Students were given a chance to shine individually by making pies before they worked together on a turkey dinner. The quarter ended with concentrated study on responsibilities.

For the students that remained through the third quarter, the reward was a full dinner of their choosing. Table settings, menu planning, manners, and vegetables were studied before the big day. The meal, a smorgasbord, celebrated the end of a learning experience that marked the beginnings of independence.

Shirts, jackets espouse club, cluster pride

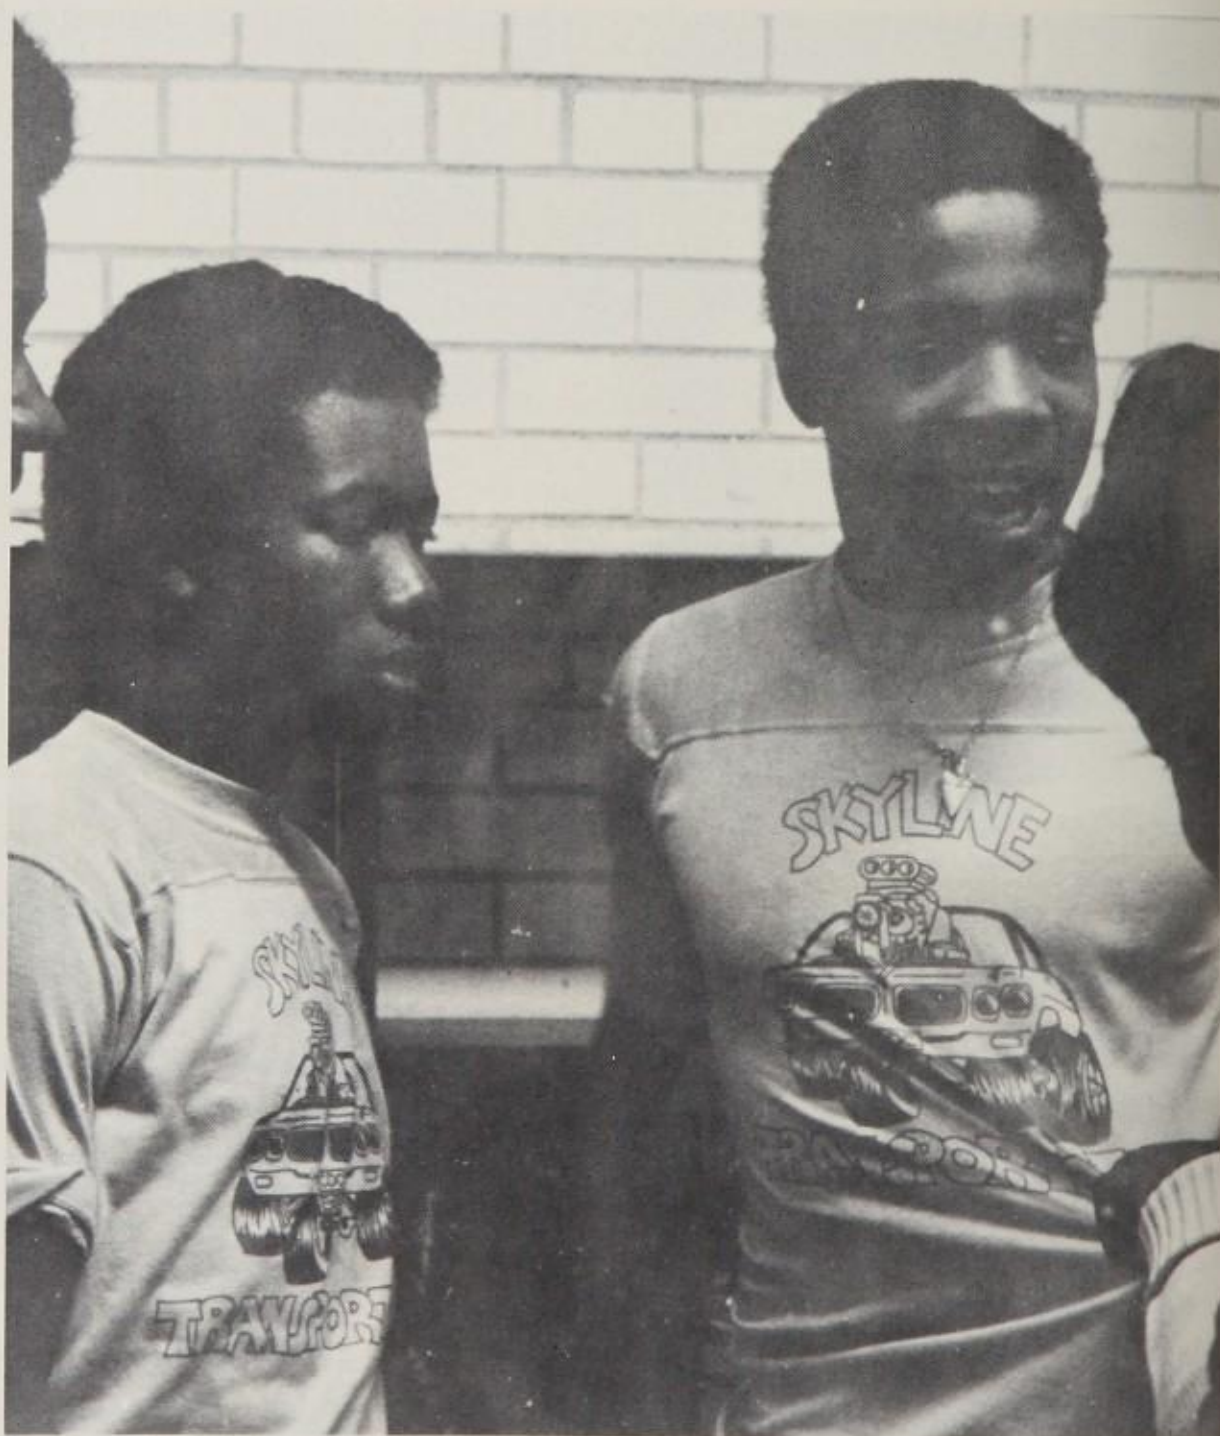

The pride of Skyline students was reflected by their attire as members of Skyline clusters and clubs. Jackets and shirts espousing symbols and names of the organization including the National Honor Society's Bookworm and Man and His Environment's "I'm in deMAND" were only two shirts commonly seen in the halls.

Cluster jackets are quickly becoming as popular as club T-shirts and letter jackets.

The German Club's "Cozy gathering" shirt picturing a beer stein is retained year after year by club members.

Transportation students, along with students in child-care, commercial art, journalism and TV arts, wear shirts promoting cluster pride.

Fashions, fads appear

Each year students dressed in whatever fad apparel that had come into being over the summer. Old standards such as jeans and such were still seen but even these were adapted to make a new fashion. Almost anything could become fashionable. Running became a national pastime and jogging suits soon became acceptable wear in school. Double pierced ears, spike heels and rolled, straight leg jeans appeared on the scene along with a brief show of leather shoulder holsters.

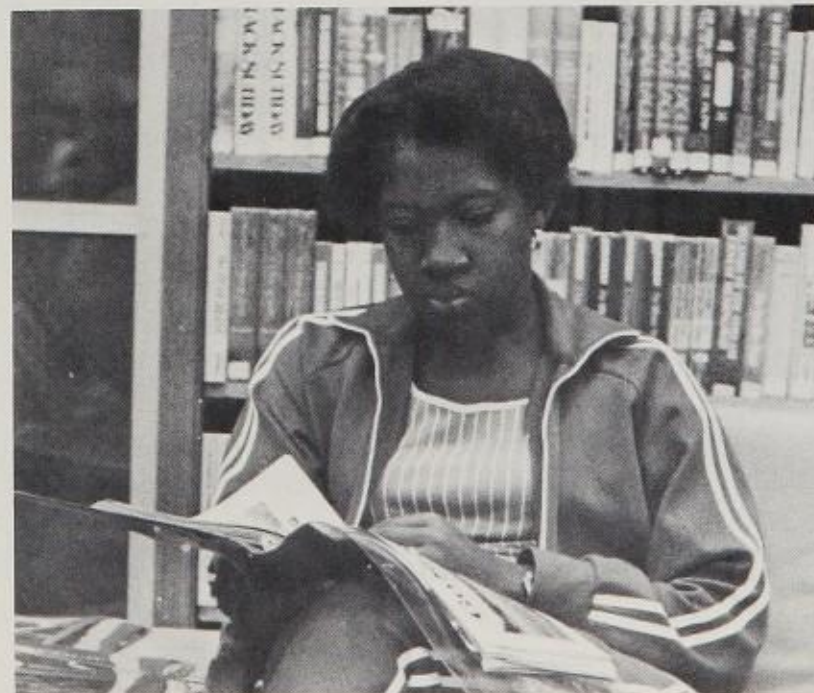

Shoulder holsters to carry "stuff" are popular.

Posters promote dances, sales

The sign on the glass wall of the cafeteria announces Skyline's ninth homecoming.

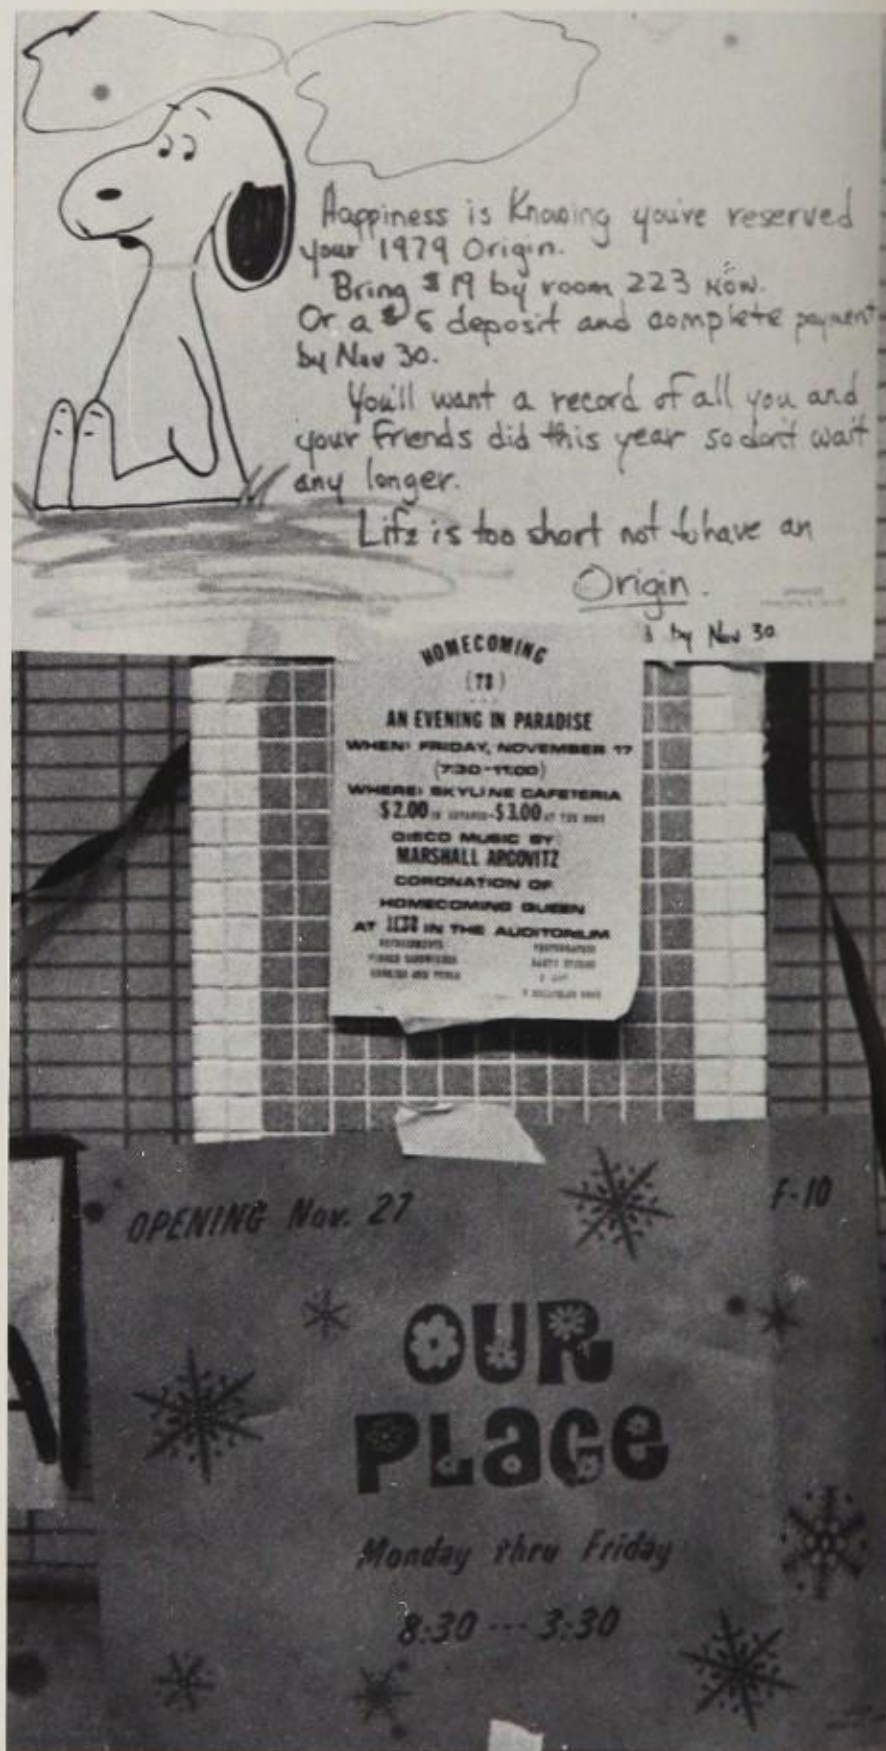

Posters were one of the primary ways to communicate to the students. They told of upcoming dances, social functions, elections and other school activities. Posters were placed on pillars in the student center or in the stairwells or in the hall, striving to get everyone's attention through glitter or flashy slogans. During election time not one inch of space was left bare with each candidate for student senate and class officer fighting madly to come up with a truly original poster.

Juniors leave seniors behind

A warm October afternoon saw a strange gathering on the Skyline football field for the senior/junior girls' football game. Both teams had outside coaching from various football team members.

The senior squad with Leah Matthews as quarterback was helped by Richard Wade, Keith Dodd, and John York.

The junior girls were led to victory by quarterback Kay Moore with help from the sidelines by Kyle Beavert, Les Durbin and Raymond Rogers. The final score was 20 to 6.

Skyline's drama department joined the musical scene this year with a rendition of You're a Good Man Charlie Brown. The department's first musical was based on Charles Schulz's comic strip, Peanuts, and combined typical comic strip situations with music.

Shown Feb. 8 and 9 with sets designed by Robert Batson of the architecture cluster, Doy Steele's classes proved that they could tackle and accomplish harder tasks than their annual UIL one-act play competition.

The play showed the difficulties and frustrations of Charlie Brown, played by Marcus McFaul. These frustrations parallel many of those experienced by everyday people. Charlie worried over saying the right things, receiving the affection and respect of his friends and being embarrassed. Snoopy, Keith Daniels, fought the Red Baron and danced for his food.

Other characters were Lucy, played by Eva James, Jeff Cochran as Linus, Kathy Rhodes as Patty, and Armando Orta as Schroeder, and the supporting class included Tamara Manning, Ramona Richardson, Dawn Morin, Pam Garrett, and Orlando Orta.

The music department's traditional spring presentation was Hello Dolly, the story of Dolly Levi, an irrepressible busybody and matchmaker. Dolly, played by junior Shelley Miller, attempts to catch Horace Vandergelder, a half-a-millionaire from Yonkers, New York, played by Greg Cox.

The musical was presented on May 3, 4 and 5 under the direction of Dan Peavy.

Other leads were played by Linda Hicks as Irene Malloy, Steve Bardin as Cornelius Hackl, Shari Petty as Minnie Fay, Kyle Self as Barnaby Tucker, Gretchen Jones as Ermengarde Vandergelder and Kendall Downs as Ambrose Kemper.

Pompeii exhibit makes Dallas cultural scene

Big time culture finally hit Dallas in 1979 with the opening of the Pompeii Exhibit that was on display from Jan. 2 to March 18.

The Dallas Museum of Fine Arts displayed mosaics, relics and pictures that depicted life as it was 1900 years ago in the Roman city.

Lectures, films, slide shows and seminars were conducted as well as a massive advertising campaign all during the exhibition.

The exhibit showed various aspects of life including the people, homes, cults and beliefs, work, leisure and the death of the town. The dramatic ending of the town and the exhibit were found in the eruption of the volcano. The exhibit showed films of eruption in the background with the death casts of a dog and a young girl, in the foreground, as they were overcome by the ash and bitter fumes.

World shocked by mass suicide rite in South America

The U.S. people were shocked upon hearing the news of a slaying of a U.S. congressman and three newsmen. This shock was soon diminished as the people of the world were slowly informed of the largest known mass suicide in history.

Jonestown, Guyana was the site of the suicide of 911 members of the People's Temple. The residents of this jungle commune, on the order of their leader, the Rev. Jim Jones, drank a potion of cyanide and kool-aid. Some parents poisoned their children and then drank it themselves.

Others, although how many is unknown, may have been forced by the armed guards to drink the brew.

The story of the suicide was slow in unravelling with the reports of the number dead vastly underrated since bodies were stacked as many as three deep.

All of the dead had to be transported back to the U.S. The government later sued the People's Temple for $6 million as compensation for the cost of returning and burying the many unclaimed bodies.

Worst ice storm in 30 years turns Dallas off

Dallas was struck by the worst storm in 30 years Dec. 30, 1978 making New Year's Eve celebrations difficult and closing school for two days.

Tree limbs weighted down by ice fell onto power lines all over the city shutting off electricity to over 75,000 homes. Power and sanitation workers, as well as fire departments were swamped with calls for help. Crews from all over Texas came to help the power company restore electricity to the 250,000 people who were without.

Shelters were set up for stranded motorists and people whose homes were too cold to bear. For over a week, some people were without power, and road conditions prohibited travel.

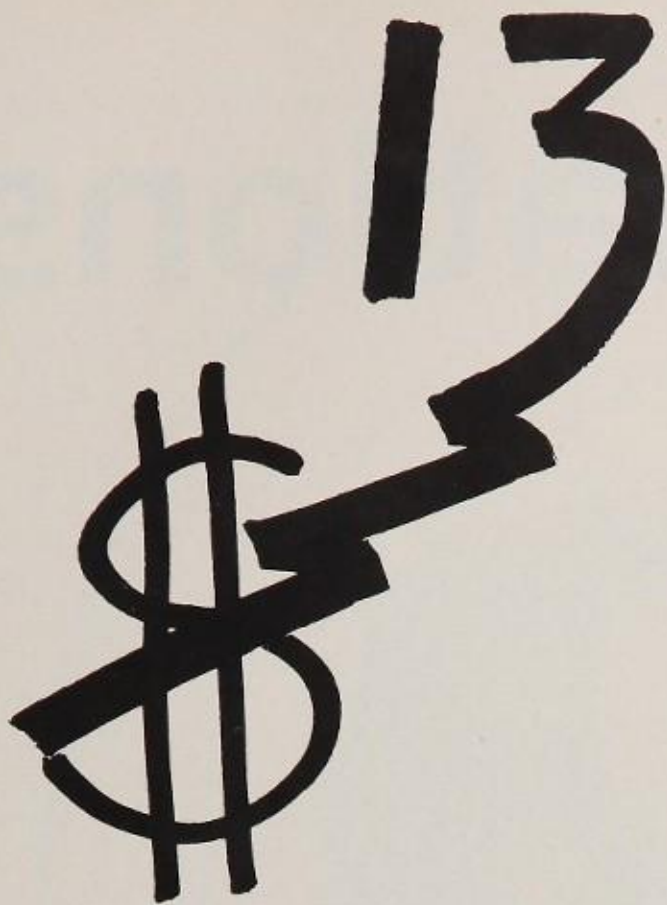

People with chain-saws and pickup trucks ran all over the city collecting the next two winters' worth of wood.

DP&L officials, worried about the bad publicity, broadcast numerous commercials citing the power workers' unflagging devotion and 24-hour service hoping to avert any repercussions after the crisis was over.

Year brings new life, death

Proposition 13 zaps California property taxes

Government bureaucrats got a kick in the pants June 6, when California voters approved Proposition 13, slashing property taxes. The leader of the taxpayer revolt was Howard Jarvis, a California state representative who with 13's passage was escalated into the national limelight.

Supporters of Proposition 13 argued that government and waste would be eliminated when incoming revenue was reduced. Foes of Proposition 13 argued that the public safety would be endangered by massive police and fireman layoffs, as well as other government workers and teachers.

Immediately following the election, Jarvis embarked upon a nationwide speaking and lecture tour to encourage other states to pass tax-reduction bills similar to Proposition 13.

104 year dynasty ended

For the first time in 104 years, Texas elected a Republican governor. Gov. Bill Clements of Dallas defeated the Democratic candidate John Hill and was inaugurated into office Jan. 16.

The two candidates waged the highest priced campaigns ever with over $10 million spent between them.

For the first time in over 12 years, Republican senator John Tower also felt pressure as Democrat Bob Krueger barely missed unseating him. Several days passed before Krueger admitted defeat.

Test tube baby born

Rarely does an infant born of non-famous parents make headlines in newspapers all over the world. Baby Louise did, however, when she became the world's first test tube baby July 25, in London. Legal as well as moral questions arose when news of the baby's unusual conception outside the womb was released. The whole world waited as Mrs. Lesley Brown was delivered by caesarian section a healthy five pound girl named Louise Brown.

Before the end of the year, two more babies, one in Edinburgh, Scotland and another in India, were born of the same new process.

73 days see 3 new popes

In a span of 73 days, the world saw three popes in Vatican City.

Pope Paul VI died in his sleep Aug. 6. Catholics and non-Catholics grieved over his loss.

The College of Cardinals elected a new pope, the former Cardinal Albino Luciano of Venice on Aug. 24. He picked the papal name of Pope John Paul.

Pope John Paul served only 34 days before dying of a heart seizure Sept. 28. Although his reign was short, his humor and warmth endeared him to many.

Oct. 17 marked the picking of the third new pope in 73 days and the choice of the first non-Italian pope in 455 years. He picked the name of Pope John Paul II. The pontiff was a robust man of 58 from Krakow, Poland.

Steelers take super bowl

Super Bowl XIII, between the Dallas Cowboys and the Pittsburgh Steelers may be billed as the greatest Super Bowl ever. A game characterized with big plays was won by the Steelers 35 to 31.

Many records were shattered in the game, which was decided in the wanning moments.

The see-saw battle was directed by MVP, Terry Bradshaw, Steeler quarterback, who broke two Super Bowl records, most yards passing and most Super Bowl touchdowns passed.

The Cowboy loss could be attributed to several plays, Randy White's fumble on a kickoff and Jackie Smith's failure to control a pass thrown to him in the end zone.

The Pokes made a monumental effort to come back after being down 18 points in the fourth quarter. Two touchdowns in the last six minutes reduced the loss to four points.

Begin, Sadat win prize

The Nobel Peace Prize was co-awarded to Prime Minister of Israel, Menachem Begin and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt following their meeting with U.S. President Jimmy Carter at Camp David.

Organizations

Skyline's variety of organizations inspires participation because they appeal to all types of students. They attract the talented, the spirited, the leaders, and the competitors. Participating in these groups gives an individual a chance to show special gifts or talents that he may possess. Becoming involved in organizations adds more to a school and clearly supports the statement that Skyline is the biggest and the best.

Early in the year, the Origin staff looks for ideas from other annuals at Taylor Publishing Company.

The 1979 Origin aims for biggest and best

Biggest and best aptly describes the 1979 Origin staff. The staff's dedication and efforts were combined to make the annual entertaining from cover to cover.

Thirty-nine members make up Skyline's biggest yearbook staff to date. Their size did not dilute the outcome, but drove the Origin closer to perfection.

The staff took their book to a big 9x12 inches in size, with more pages than any other high school in Texas. Nothing is more fitting for the biggest four-year high school in the country.

The Reflections staff began work early in August to produce the first issue of the newsmagazine in September. Sales of advertising, covering beats, collecting information and writing stories were only a part of the long road in producing their first issue.

Charles Windham, a second year journalism student, used much time and devotion to help design a good looking and interesting paper for the students and staff. New editors Risa Anderson, Belinda Bratcher, Kay Gerlach, Dorsey McBride and Vornadette Simpson learned and took advice from "old-timers" Roger Campbell, LaCracha Facen, Angie Ottmo and Cathy Silverberg.

The group learned quickly and produced a newsmagazine to compete with the one produced by the prior staff who had placed seventh in state.

Sponsor Judy Babb said, "I wasn't worried about quality loss with this group, they are both talented and dedicated."

Dorsey McBride and Belinda Bratcher proofread galleys of type set by the graphics cluster for the magazine.

Cathy Silverberg figures how much advertising is needed.

Pub staff changes format

The Pub Staff changed its traditional format for a more modern look. Greg Busby, co-editor, said, "We're starting a revolution!" Indeed, the Pub was different in style, going to a larger magazine format. The theme, Some System, poked fun at the school system.

The staff concluded a year of preparation in May with its delivery. Inside, students found I.Q.'s and satires on their personalities as well as satires of a number of organizations.

Editor-in-chief of the tongue-in-cheek group was Zenon White. Terri Foltz sponsored the group calling for many early morning meetings.

Venetia Vahrenkamp analyzes seniors' I.Q. Tests.

Cheers bring victories for junior varsity teams

Cheerleader sponsor is Karla Key.

In the second year of their existence; the J.V. cheerleaders have supported Skyline under sponsorship Karla Key. They promoted school spirit and supported the J.V. football team by hanging banners and decorating lockers.

During the summer, they went to S.M.U. Cheerleading camp where they won many superior ribbons.

David Ruiz, the only male cheerleader, exhibits exuberance.

The school year for the varsity cheerleaders began before the start of school with cheerleader camp at SMU Aug. 7 through 11.

Learning new chants and cheers was part of the camp curriculum which brought them the super star squad award and several ribbons.

Their talents were seen at all pep assemblies, football and basketball games.

Time, dedication required of drill team members

1978-79 Silhouettes

One of the organizations which stands out in many ways is the Silhouettes. Being a member of the drill team takes a great deal of discipline and dedication. The drill team worked long hours, coming early in the morning to learn and perfect routines.

This past summer they attended drill camp at NTSU where they won many ribbons and trophies. The Silhouettes is a major organization and contributed much to Skyline. Their support and enthusiasm added to the belief that Skyline is the biggest and the best.

13 girls excel, picked as Silhouette of Week

By excelling in their practice sessions and showing a lot of school spirit, 13 girls were honored by the sponsors and the officers to be chosen as one of the Silhouettes of the Week. The girls receiving the honor were: Karen Basham, Kamalia Cotton, Delanee Dean, Barbara Ellis, Margo Evans, Nancy Kerr, Sandra Lancaster, Cindy Lopez, Kay Moore, Theresa Norris, Laura O'Dell, Kim Redford, Tonya Warren.

Each was announced during a pep assembly.

The marching band, a highly visible group at Skyline, performed at all football games and pep assemblies.

The band participated in several marching contests. The first, the Parade of Champions at the State Fair, netted the band fifth place among bands from all over Texas.

The second contest, the SMU band competition contest, brought them excellent ratings and allowed them the chance to perform with other bands as the half-time entertainment at the SMU vs. Houston game. These two contests were used as stepping stones to prepare the band for the University Interscholastic League (UIL) competition. The rating received from UIL was a two.

Competitions take jazz band near and far

The jazz band, comprised of 21 members led by Jim McDaniel, participated in competitions in the far corners of Texas as well as national competition in Florida.

While all competitions were important and an educational experience for all involved, the ones pointed out as being the most important included the Brewer Jazz Festival in Fort Worth, the UTA Jazz Festival, the Kingsville Jazz Festival at Texas A&I, the National Music Festival at UTA and the Abilene Christian Festival as well as the Daytona Festival in Florida.

Among the many activities of the chamber orchestra were performances and competition. This orchestra participated in UIL and DISD competitions. Perhaps the highlight of the year for the members of these orchestras was auditioning and playing in the orchestra for the spring musical, Hello Dolly!

The string orchestra works toward developing skills and knowledge of string instruments so they can become members of the chamber orchestra.

Choraliers entertain students, faculty with modern sounds

The Choraliers, Skyline's pop singing group, sang at many school events and for students and teachers throughout the year. Their first performance in November helped to raise money for the PTA.

They sang in December with choirs from other schools in a special Christmas concert for students and parents. They also participated in the All-Region Choir contest where Sheryl Rich, Brian Walenta and Shelly Miller were chosen for the choir. The Choraliers also participated in the Solo and Ensemble Contest.

Camarata works toward musical perfection

Meeting fourth period, the Camarata, Skyline's intermediate choir, worked to improve musicianship while working toward their goal of superior ratings at district contests.

Dan Peavy, the director of the Skyline choral department, promoted interest in singing, especially musical comedies.

Camarata members looked forward to tryouts for the spring musical, "Hello Dolly!", and many were chosen to be members of the show's chorus, with David Ruiz, Kendall Downs and Daryl Doss capturing minor roles.

Christmas concert climaxes year

Chorale performs at the Christmas concert in December.

Participating in a Christmas program sponsored by the PTA, the girls choir proved their talents.

The program was done in cooperation with several East Dallas high schools and junior highs that also participated.

To climax Chorale's performance, flutist Stephanie Brooks accompanied the 13 member group as they sang "Feed My Lambs."

The drama club and stage crew were important in coordinating the dramatic talents shown in productions during the year.

The Stage and lighting crew was responsible for all of the props, lighting, and settings. This group not only worked with the drama club, but helped during the pep assemblies and with the spring musical, Hello, Dolly! in May.

The drama club was an active group of students interested in the theater. The group presented the production, "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," and participated both in the DISD and UIL Drama contests.

Debaters win first novice award

The National Forensic League (NFL) was a very active group, having won more trophies than any other Skyline organization. Members participated in many speech tournaments during the year.

Skyline gained much recognition at tournaments in past years, and this year the debate teams proved outstanding, with Mark Stromberg and Charlie Hall winning their first novice debate. Sandra Lucaa, sponsor and speech teacher coached the teams.

Candy sales bring in scholarship money

Over $800 in candy sales was distributed in scholarships to several National Honor Society (NHS) members.

The members sold 92 cases of peanut and plain M&M's at 50 cents a box to raise the money. Several senior members who worked diligently for the organization were selected by the scholarship committee to receive a portion of the money.

Induction of the new members took place on March 22 in the auditorium where Clark Baker and Kimberly Burns were honored with $500 scholarships.

The club was co-sponsored by Margaret Hamlin, Pat Galloway, Diane Hranicky and Verlether Grant.

Lecturers discuss folk medicine, ecological finds at meetings

Folk medicine, cancer research and how to get into medical school were a few of the subjects discussed by guest lecturers at the Science club meeting.

Interest in careers in science brought together students and staff members to hear speakers and discuss new developments or discoveries. Gary Vermillion and Mrs. Morgan Trid discussed the Galapagos Islands, which lie off the coast of Ecuador. They discussed the penguins, noted because this is the northernmost place they are found, and other life found there.

Dr. Harold Jesky from SMU discussed getting into medical school while researchers from Wadley Blood Bank discussed cancer research.

Folk remedies, which have long had their medical value questioned, were discussed by Dr. Bonar.

Meetings were held every other Monday and Thursday evenings.

Steve Bardon, Grady Caterall, Greg Cox, and Steve Stodgehill take notes on the March of Dimes project.

Forty-five young men banded together to promote leadership and aid in both school and community events. Through their activities as Key Club members, they have achieved many goals by participating in various projects including the March of Dimes, Haunted House and the Terrell State Mental Hospital Talent show. They also helped at school by ushering at orientation, pep assemblies; and this year they served as Silhouette guards.

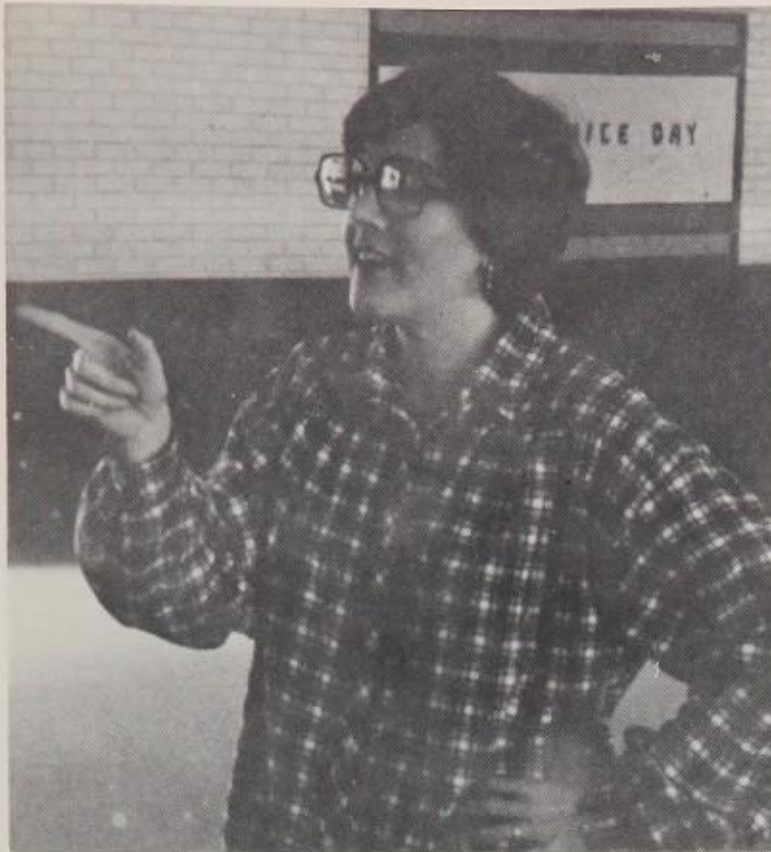

Other activities during the year included the Key Club Sweetheart banquet, Kiwanis musical, and ushering at graduation.

Tour guides present

Tour Guides was composed of 21 students responsible for all types of knowledge concerning Skyline's history, Skyline High School, and Skyline Clusters.

They informed visitors from all over the United States and abroad, including groups from St. Louis, Japan, and numerous groups of educators and professionals whose fields related to clusters. Most tours were conducted during second period.

Their sponsor, Cathy Baratti, founded tour guides six years ago. She departed for Houston this year after her new husband received a job there.

Leonard Davis, the replacement sponsor, was very enthusiastic and eager to learn all he could about the group and their responsibilities.

Mu Alpha Theta, Jr. Historians rely on understanding, observation

Working in cooperation with the Dallas County Historical Survey Committee, the Junior Historians helped preserve historical sights in Dallas by looking for possible historical landmarks and visiting museums, graveyards and historical sights.

Thirteen members of the club visited the Granbury Post Office, Hardware and Tin Shop and the Hood County News in Granbury.

On the excursion, they also went to the Pate Museum of Transportation and saw antique cars, magazines and books concerning the history of transportation.

Pompeii exhibit highlights year for Latin club members

The Pompeii exhibit at the Fine Arts Museum and the Junior Classic League Regional meet at Lake Highlands were the main events attended by the Latin Club members this year. The group which was composed of 40 members was under the sponsorship of Hannah Cole who has been over the Latin Club for six years.

While membership in the Latin club is not limited to those in class, most members are drawn from there.

Die Gemutliche Versammlung, had a very successful year. The club, under the new leadership of Julie Munford, participated in the annual Novemberfest at UTA. They received many expected honors in culture and sports and for the first time, they received a third overall ribbon in academics.

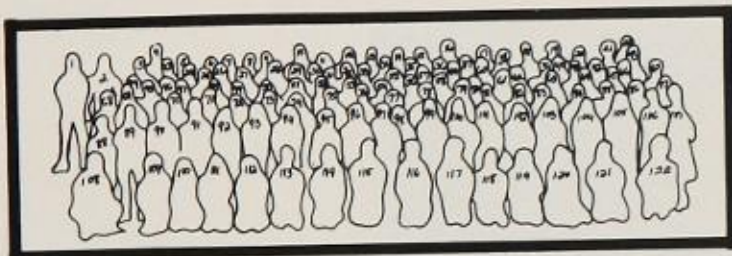

The German dancers made up the largest and most active part of the group. They performed at numerous hotels, shopping centers, nursing homes and churches in Dallas. At UTA, they received the first place trophy in dancing. They also participated in the TAGS (Texas Association of German Students) convention in Huntsville.

ate frustration and fun at the Halloween party at Flag Pole Hill.

Spanish dancers participate in the Festival of Ethnic Appreciation in October.

Attending the Festival of Ethnic Appreciation at Flag Pole Hill was only one of the events enjoyed by the 130 plus membership of El Cid.

The first annual Language Fair, sponsored by Skyline, featured foods of the culture, games and dancing. Students cooked and brought the food.

Other activities included participation in the Language Olympics, held at Skyline, which featured competition in cultural, academic and athletic areas. Students wrote skits for the event and performed them.

Symposium climaxes French club year

The only prerequisite for joining Le Cercle Francais was an interest in French culture and language.

Under the direction of sponsors DeDe Averett and Virginia Dumar, members learned about French speaking nations by cooking foods, dancing dances and celebrating holidays native to the culture.

Language cluster activities and holiday parties kept the group busy throughout the school year. As a climax to the year, members journeyed to San Antonio in March for the annual French symposium where they participated in various cultural contests.

The French flag flies over the entryway of DeDe Averett's room.

French Club officers are Linda Hicks, secretary/treasurer; Tom Rogers, president; Tara Popplewell, vice president, and Gayla Neal, historian.

Food baked by French club members for the Language Fair in October at Flag Pole Hill includes Quiche Lorraine and famous French pastries.

DeDe Averett, sponsor, and secretary Linda Hicks distribute Raider mugs as a fund raiser.

Los Amigos support scholarship fund

Raising money for the Mexican American Scholarship fund was the primary function of Los Amigos.

On May 1, many Skyline students and parents attended a Mexican feast served by the club. This was one of the ways the club worked toward their goal. They also hosted a bake sale at the home of Yvette Yanez.

The Los Amigos club also sponsored the annual Cinco de Mayo celebration, which honored Mexico's independence from Spain. The festivities included election of Mr. and Miss Cinco de Mayo. Speakers and guests helped in the week long festival.

Pompeii exhibit gives Italian club opportunity to show dance skills

Getting to dance for classes at SMU during a festival organized in conjunction with the Pompeii exhibit, allowed Italian club members an opportunity to display their talents.

Monthly meetings were held at the homes of club members. Other activities included the Language Fair and a performance at the State Fair of Texas.

The sponsor, Yana Lipscomb, is a native born Italian and worked closely with her students to make Italian more than just a foreign language.

Native Russian sponsors club

Tania Morgun was a native-born Russian who obtained her American citizenship in 1963. For several years, though, she has dedicated herself to teaching interested Skyline students her native language.

Activities such as a Russian Christmas celebration, a trip to St. Seraphim's Russian Orthodox Church, a spring dinner with native Russian foods, and the Language Olympics kept the enthusiastic Russian Club members busy.

CLC successful in charity drive

A culmination of effort and advertising led to the success of the Career Leadership Council's (CLC) annual Christmas charity drive.

The group, made up of members from the Skyline CDC, raised money that went into the production of 200 Christmas stockings which were given to the children at the Creative Learning Center.

In January, the council became involved in a drug prevention drive called Youth in Action in cooperation with the junior high schools in the city. The program was an effort by DISD and the Drug Intervention Team to reduce drug use by having high school students talk to junior high students about the problem.

Working toward competition in the Fair Park Coliseum was the motivation behind the innumerable week-end meets attended by rodeo club members.

Points from each weekly competition were totaled and contestants with the most points competed in this final rodeo.

Events included bullriding, bareback riding, barrel racing, pole bending and steer wrestling.

Students excelling in various events sponsored by the Lone Star High School Rodeo Association were Doug Rickman and Denis Haines in chute-dogging. Rickman was in first place and Haines in third. They also were contenders in steer wrestling.

Girls making a good showing were Stacy Parish in steer undercoating and Robin Saylor in pole bending.

Haines, Rickman, Parish and Billy Turker were also participants in the Texas Region IV High School Rodeo which may qualify them for state competition in June and national competition in Fargo, N. Dakota in August.

JROTC teaches leadership, responsibility

Whether presenting the colors at a football game, practicing marksmanship, or doing drill routines, the Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (JROTC) taught leadership and basic arms training to the young men and women who were involved.

Students in JROTC were promised a head start upon entering a career in the armed forces.

Once a year the students were inspected by the U.S. Army. Though the work was hard, the group had time for fun. The JROTC held their annual Military Ball in February, where a court was elected and a turkey shot for all students in November.

JROTC is commanded by Sgts. McNeice, Simon and McLean.

They also worked as volunteer help in hospitals and nursing homes and did charity work for the American Heart Association and Red Cross.

DECA, HOSA learn by doing

Learning merchandising, marketing and management were part of the program for the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA).

These students work half a day in a related field — getting paid while they learn.

The DE & CO. supply store, located in the Student Center, provided an opportunity for students interested in co-managing.

The Club was sponsored by Stanley Baker.

VOE trains for future

Students getting a head start in their careers made up this 29-member organization. Under sponsor Dixie Alderman's guidance, Vocational Office Education (VOE) members found jobs in offices, including DP&L, Southwestern Life and Doctors Hospital where they worked half a day. There, they received on-the-job training as secretaries, computer programmers and office assistants.

The students had to have a good GPA, a responsible attitude, and no discipline problems to be accepted in this industrious group.

HECE dedicates itself to needy

Through helping those in need, the Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) helped students to become more aware of people in their community.

Activities such as the March of Dimes Haunted House, a Christmas party for retarded children at Angels Unlimited, and Thanksgiving and Easter "need" baskets kept the group busy throughout the year.

Interest in astronomy spawns new club

In an effort to increase interest and awareness in his scientific hobby, Mike Powell formed Skyline's newest organization, the Astronomers Club.

In only a few months the club, which dedicated itself to learning about the movements of the constellations and observing stellar patterns, doubled its membership to eight.

The group, whose activities included bimonthly meetings at sponsor Mike Powell's house and a trip to the Dallas Health and Science Museum Planetarium in January, presented its charter to the Student Senate in February.

FFA landscapes barnyard

The Future Farmers of America (FFA) began its year by landscaping the Children's Barnyard at the State Fair of Texas. Members of the horticulture cluster were the students that made up the FFA.

Through cluster activities including flower shops, landscaping and general plant care, students were prepared for working as florists and in other related fields.

Several senior members attended the National Horticulture Convention in Cleveland, Ohio in October. There they learned much about competing in contests and were instructed in growing cacti and herbs. FFA sponsor Joe Skinner accompanied the group.

Camping trips among two clubs' activities

Interest in becoming a better hunter, fisherman, or just a preserver of natural resources and wildlife are ideals promoted by the Woods and Waters club. This year's activities included a camping trip to Lawton, Oklahoma and several field trips. The club was sponsored by Robert Horne.

An organization interested in nature and wildlife was what the Outdoors club was. This group was mainly composed of science cluster students who were given the opportunities for outdoor recreation and the preservation of natural resources. The club was sponsored by Robert Roe and Carl Sandberg.

Skyline, with its unique career cluster program, takes pride in being the largest four year high school in the United States.

Skyline's student body is composed of academic students as well as full and part-time students who attend these 28 clusters.

To provide freshmen with early career preparation for the future, the pre-cluster program was added during the 1977-78 school year.

Skyline students can proudly boast that the Career Development Center truly makes Skyline the biggest and the best.

Aeronautics encourages outside involvement

The Aeronautics cluster, comprised of three areas, encouraged the student who was a real enthusiast about airplanes.

The cluster chartered a membership in the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) in 1974 and in doing so became the first school in Dallas to be a member.

About 56 of the aeronautics students belonged to the EAA, which is one of the largest aircraft organizations they can join. This particular organization encouraged students to experiment and possibly build their own airplanes.

Other outside organizations to which the students could belong were VICA and the Civil Air Patrol (CAP).

Cluster students took field trips to DFW Airport, American Airlines Flight Academy, and Carlsbad Air Force Base.

The aeronautics cluster also sponsored a postcard contest each quarter. A Sunday breakfast flight to either Lake Texoma or Lake Murray was the first prize offered and second prize was a one and a half hour trip over the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Philip Harrison receives certificate for excellence in aviation education.

Course on heat pump added to curriculum

Highlighting the year for the heating and air conditioning cluster was the addition of a new heat pump course for second year. The students learned various techniques of installing and testing the units.

The cluster took a number of field trips during the year. John Schober, chairman of the advisory committee, visited and made a presentation to the cluster.

Architecture teams up with construction to design, build homes

Architecture and construction clusters joined forces in a money making project. Architecture students designed homes and World of Construction built them.

The success of the architecture program was noted by their being the only high school to have its work displayed at the National American Institute of Architects convention in Dallas during May, 1978.

Class activities included a trip to Old City Park in order to practice freehand drawing, and a sketchboard trip to the Museum of Fine Arts.

Cluster readies student to care for children

The Child related cluster concentrated on preparing students for parenthood and careers related to children. The importance of a cooperative attitude and professional behavior was emphasized.

First year students highlighted their prenatal study unit with a trip to a hospital maternity ward and a visit with a nurse. During their infant care studies, they observed a baby being bathed and dressed, and went to stores to compare prices of infant wear and equipment.

The students also visited types of child care centers and community agencies. To supplement the curriculum, speakers visited during the year.

Computer students learn to run new mini-computer

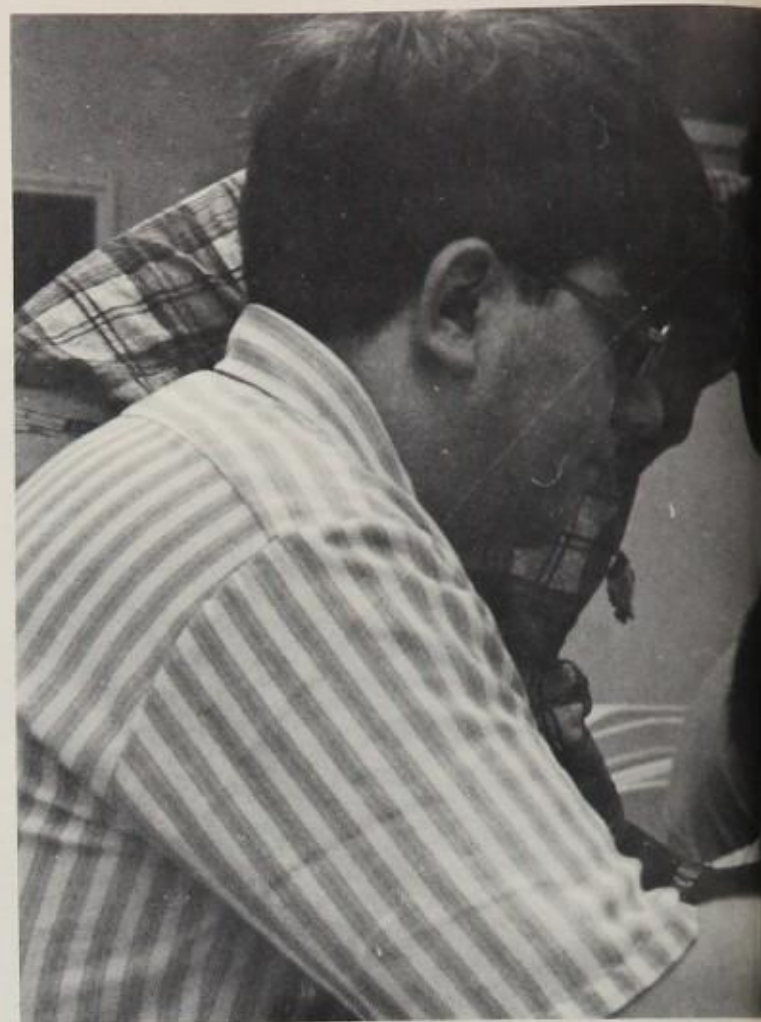

Computer cluster had a busy year learning the latest computer techniques as well as the method to run the new "Apple" mini-computer.

The first year student learned the basic introduction to data control and programming. The second year students learned to work on IBM Systems 3 model-10, as well as learning Cobol and Fortran. Some of the second and third year students who showed special abilities obtained part time jobs.

The main goal for all students this year was to prepare for rewarding goals in the computer industry.

Beauty show tops off year

Highlighting the Cosmetology cluster year was the "All Texas Beauty Show" in February at the Fairmont Hotel.

Cosmetology prepared students for their Professional Cosmetologist's license.

The main money making project was their personal services to the community. Styling hair, giving facials and manicures kept each student busy.

Whether on a field trip to Texas Instruments or Rockwell International, or competing for state recognition in the National VICA Convention, the electronics cluster has been busy. The work accomplished for the year included modules of work in Ohm's law and direct current transistor operation.

Some of the second year students performed the task of designing, as well as troubleshooting transistorized and integrated circuits. The students who showed outstanding initiative, upgraded themselves financially by means of a part-time job.

Faculty enjoys food prepared by cluster

An interest in food preparation and in working with other people is a prerequisite for a student in the Food service and management cluster. Using the most advanced equipment available, they gained practical experience in preparing and serving food to the Skyline faculty.

The students made visits to El Centro Junior College, Wyatts Cafeteria Commissary, Baylor Hospital, Meat and Poultry Processing Plants and many others.

The students also found time to raise money for their Home Economics Related Occupations (HERO) organization through numerous bake sales.

In an effort to make printers of all students, David and James Adams taught all the skills necessary and then refined them by working on speed, by typesetting the copy for Reflections and taking on numerous jobs for the community, staff members and students, as well as doing all the printing for DISD.

Money making projects included printing to order such things as name cards, business cards, letter heads and many other special jobs.

Baker Hotel houses manager hopefuls

The Baker Hotel was the home of the two-year old Hotel Management cluster. The students received their training in the Hotel training rooms.

Students worked on management of the front office, housekeeping, management of dining and banquet rooms, as well as cooking.

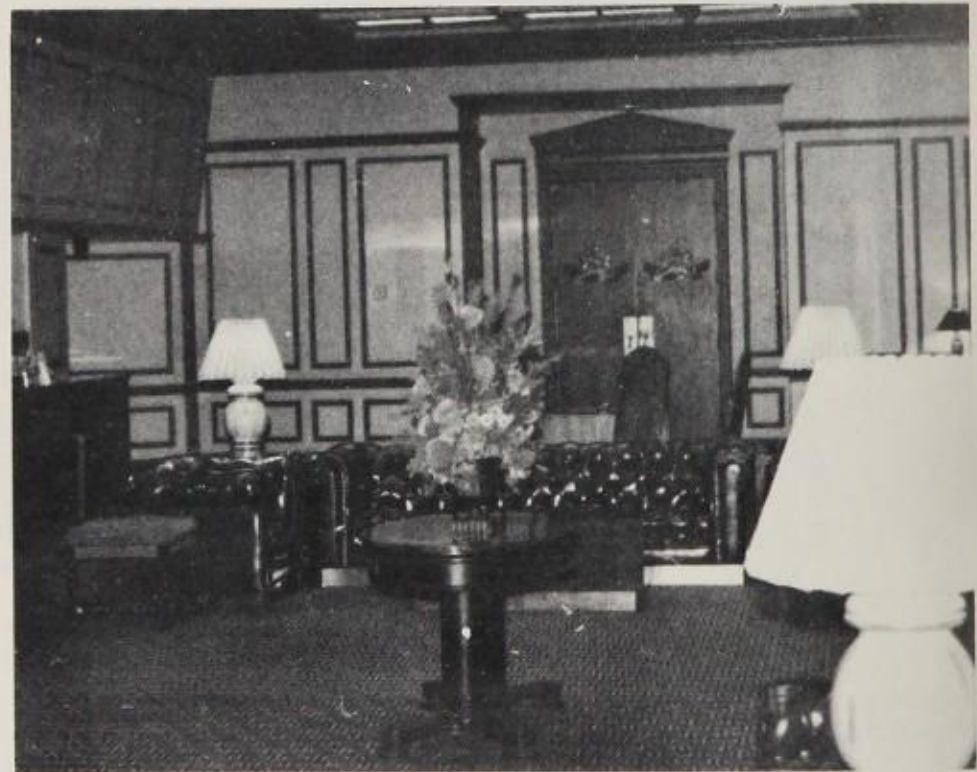

They also had the unique opportunity to work in The Baker's Dozen, the restaurant in the hotel. Many students obtained part-time jobs as a result of their work in the cluster.

Blueprint reading, drawing, drafting, space planning, and a study of period style are just a few of the skills learned in the Interior Design cluster. The students worked on both residential and commercial projects during the year.

The students made teddy bears for the Salvation Army to distribute to children at Christmas. This was just one of their many special services to the community.

The cluster students visited the World Trade Center, the Decorative Center, the Hyatt Regency, Old City Park, City Hall, Architects and Interior Design Offices, local colleges, commercial and residential installations and various interior design departments of local colleges.

Horticulture students attend Ohio convention

Sausage sales, donations and an extra $150 each took six Horticulture cluster students and teacher Joe Skinner to the National Horticulture Convention in Cleveland, Ohio Oct. 26 through 31. Louis Metheny, 1976 graduate, also attended servicing as the National Director at the convention.

Cluster students also took part in the State Fair of Texas by showing their landscaping talents in a display requested by the Future Farmers of America (FFA).

The students took an empty space in the Children's Barnyard and with the use of coleus and monkey grass, made it into a very inviting place.

The horticulture students also decorated homecoming mums and furnished arrangements for banquets, weddings, and graduations.

Teaming up with the construction cluster, they landscaped the newly built home.

Changes marked by growth, high ratings

Growth and high ratings were the two differences in the journalism cluster.

Reflections, the newsmagazine produced by the cluster, ranked seventh in UIL competition and a number of students competing in journalism went to regionals after winning on the district level.

Editor-in-chief Charles Windham took a first in both news and feature writing while William Trent placed third in editorial writing.

The size of the cluster also swelled with 27 students enrolled in the first year cluster.

Members of the journalism advisory committee arranged field trips to city hall, the courthouse printing facilities and other places. Jaime West and Marilyn Schwartz were among the speakers who came to talk about fields of journalism ranging from consumerism to feature writing.

Students enjoy benefits from the newly added light table.

Journalism students work busily in order to meet deadlines.

Interest in people requisite for Man

A real interest in working with people was a prerequisite for the students in the Man and His Environment cluster. The students developed research skills and self-discipline in learning.

Domestic violence was the subject for one of many group projects completed by the students.

Federal District Court Judge Patrick Higginbotham spoke to the cluster on Sept. 27. Higginbotham, a federal judge for the last three years, spoke about the judicial system, explained his job and the educational requirements for lawyers.

Another speaker, Dallas County Democratic Chairman Ron Kessler spoke to the students in Man and His Environment Oct. 18 about the political process and political involvement.

The students also visited the City Council, Commissioners Court, Denton State School and the Museum of Fine Arts.

Zoo, parks among places shot by photographers

For the photography cluster, the year has been full of field trips. These included visits to the zoo, Dallas County Jail photo labs, Dallas Times Herald, Lakeside Park, Hemmi Studio, Samuell Park and Meisel Photochrome. The main goal that the cluster strives for is to produce top quality pictures.

Guest speakers were also a part of the year's activities. These speakers included Robert Hemmi, from Hemmi Studio, Sgt. Rick Stewart, from Dallas County Sheriff's Dept., and Gary Oliver, from Southside Cameras.

A money making project for the photography cluster was to process and print customer's color negative film at a reasonable price.

Technical, aesthetic stressed in motion picture production

Covering the technical and aesthetic aspects of motion picture production kept the Cinematography cluster very busy.

The first year students had basic instruction in the operation of motion picture cameras, exposure meters, lighting, sound editing, and lab procedures.

The second year students placed their attention on directing, camera operation, music scoring and production management.

Many field trips and speakers highlighted the year's activities.

Plastics' students make useful items to sell

Making key rings for the Silhouettes, desk organizers, cook book holders and ice scrapers were just a few of the things done by the Plastics cluster.

While the first year students learned tool making and decorating plastic molding, second year students learned a number of molding processes.

Field trips were taken to Texter Plastics and the president of Mudisett Plastics came to speak.

The cluster made acrylic walking canes to enter in VICA competition.

Energy alternatives sought by cluster

Discussing alternatives to the energy problems, attending Chemistry Day at NTSU and hearing Jean Pierre Cousteau speak at Eastfield College were just a few of the activities in which the students in the Science cluster participated.

A physicist talked to students in January about the mounting energy problems. With the reserves of oil and natural gas running out and nuclear and solar energy still undeveloped, coal was seen to be the immediate answer to the problem. He said that the pollution problems caused by burning coal could be solved.

Student labs included processing plant and animal tissue to make slides. Using a parafin block to harden the tissue and microtomes to cut wax blocks, students were able to study different tissue forms.

They also studied light waves to find out what wave lengths of light different elements absorbed.

Pam Kumpe and Kathy Muh take "fingerprints" of light.

Chuck Roe tries a new light technique.

Three specialty areas are included in the World of transportation: auto paint and body, diesel technology, and auto mechanics.

Students in auto paint and body rebuilt four vans purchased as a money making project. Each of these vans had all the dents removed and received custom paint treatment. The money made from the sale went into the cluster. Many of the students obtained part-time jobs as a result of their training in the cluster. Although career interests differed from student to student, all looked forward to state competition in Houston.

In technology, students learned to repair diesel engines. These engines, from a variety of sources, included diesel Mercedes and tractors. Many of the students obtained part-time jobs, and upon graduation, seniors found job placement working for a truck line.

The third area, auto mechanics, rendered services to students, faculty and members of the community. Many of the graduating students received outstanding salaries as a result of the cluster. The cluster activities for the year were enriched by seminars held by members of the job community.

World of construction, plumbing, cabinet making, electrical trades and carpentry, all joined efforts in the construction of the houses built by Skyline students. A goal shared by all the students, as well as an annual event, was the competition experienced at the VICA convention in Waco. Speakers, as well as field trips, highlighted the year's hard work.

Many of the students in the World of construction obtained part-time jobs. The students who received these opportunities were students who showed special interest, as well as talent in their particular field on construction. Some of the work done was for local builders working with new construction, as well as with remodeling of older buildings.

Our Place updates image

This was the year for Our Place "to update their image." Their theme for the year was the Country Store. The purpose of this theme was to make everyone feel "down home."

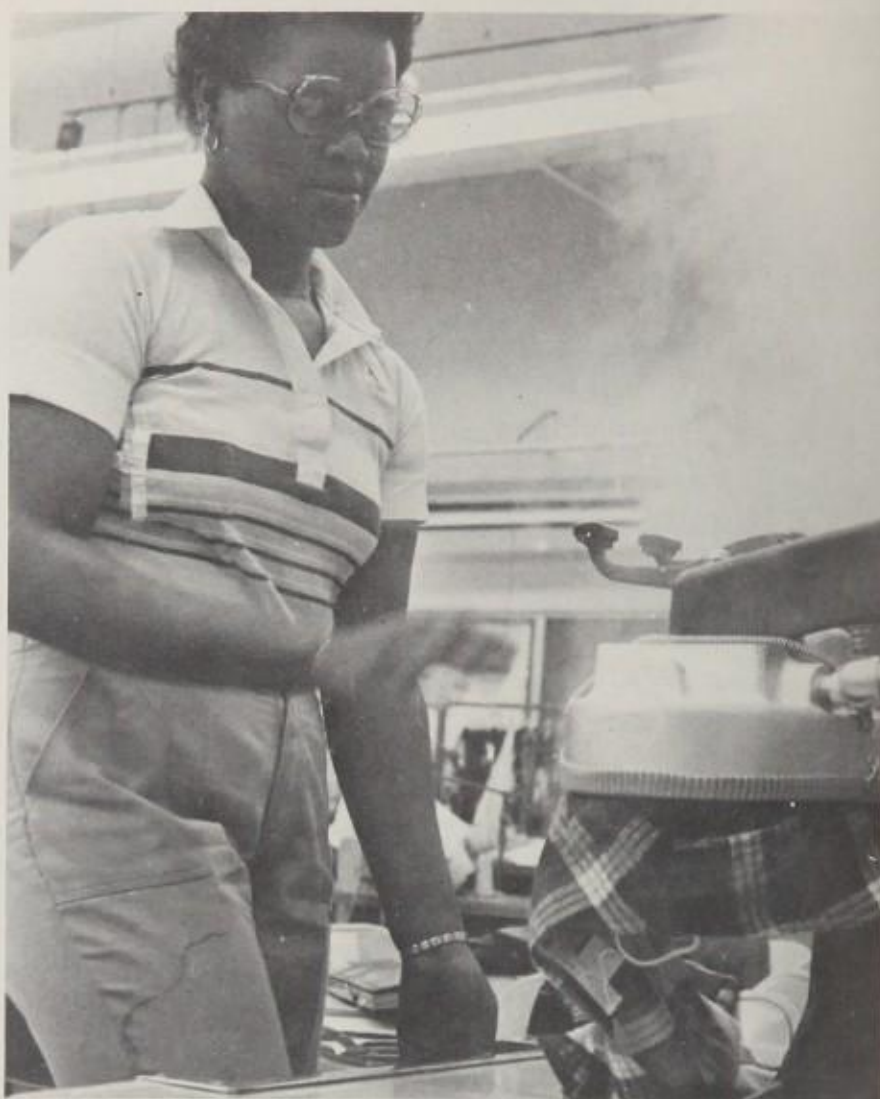

The fall's line of clothes included big-tops, skirts, big-dresses, vests and straight leg pants, all made by the apparel assembly section of the cluster.

The spring line for Easter included the first year students. Their annual fashion show was held Dec. 6.

The cluster students also made many interesting and educational field trips to places such as Fortune Design and Applause, El Centro, TWU, the Apparel Mart and NTSU.

In addition to cluster activity, the students participated in Home Economics Related Organization, (HERO), a national organization for pre-employment laboratory education students.

At Christmas, each student designed and sewed stockings for the Martin Luther King Center. The cluster adopted two nursing homes and prepared gift items which were presented after a unique fashion show.

Dance, Pompeii play part in language cluster fun

For the World language cluster, the year was more than just classroom study. Many of the students explored special areas in a variety of languages, ranging from Italian to Greek. The Spanish students had a rare opportunity to visit the Pompeii exhibit while various language groups danced during the State Fair Oct. 18.

Many weeks of work were spent in preparation for the annual Language Olympics which was anticipated by all students. During the Olympics, students participated in various categories including skit performing and participating in sports. Foods were provided by a variety of different language groups.

Sales of Skyline belt buckles made by the metal division of the Manufacturing cluster helped raise money for activities. The welding area also had many projects which included the use of arc welding and other processes to raise money.

This productive area of the Career Development Center included book work on theory, as well as actual manufacturing work.

Guest speakers presented programs which were experience for all students. Field trips to Lone Star Steel, Texas Instruments, General Motors, and Collins Radio furthered the educational process.

The manufacturing cluster designed and built metal projects to be sold to industries and individuals. The knowledge gained during the year gave the students a better understanding of materials used in industry and their testing procedures.

Sports

Skyline, as the biggest four year high school in the United States, took advantage of a wide range of sports opportunities.

Approximately 500 athletes represented Skyline; many spent all year in training.

Spirit was instrumental in the success of Skyline teams, carrying them through the victories and the defeats.

Enduring long seasons and tedious hours, striving for perfection the dedication of Skyline's athletes exemplified this year's theme, the biggest and the best.

In the season opener against Texas' number 1 Class AAAA team, the Garland Owls, Skyline was edged out 7 to 0 on their home field, Forester. The Owls were favorites coming into the game, but the Raiders dealt them a few defensive surprises which held their 9.29 sprinter quarterback to 86 yards and their offensive drives to only one touchdown.

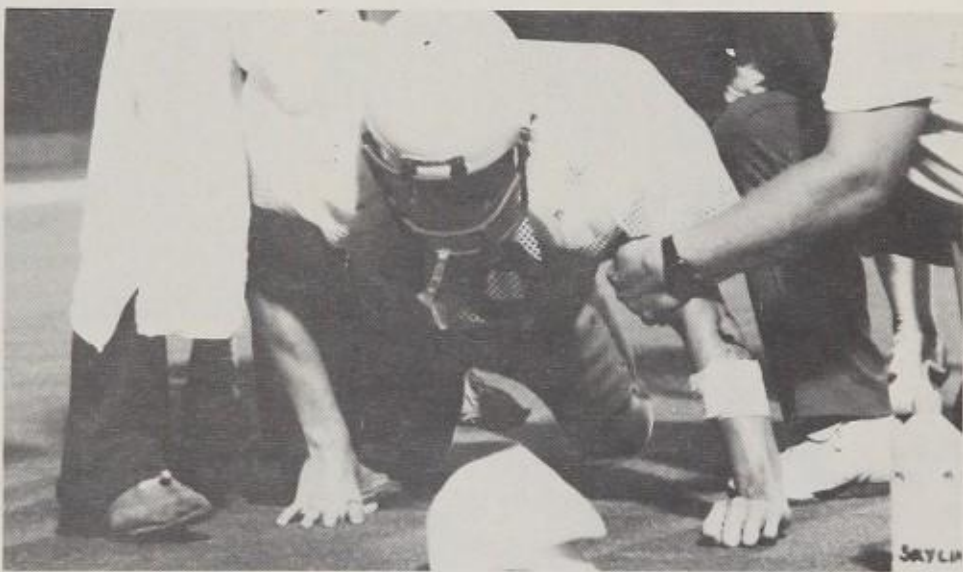

Raiders lose footing on wet turf and fall to Owls, 7 to 0.

Coaches Lantz, McCollum and Lewis watch Skyline fall short of victory.

Defensive players Wesley (84) and Lindsey (65) swarm N. Mesquite receiver.

Reynolds checks play book while being looked over by manager after tough touchdown run.

The Raiders had things under control against N. Mesquite following a third quarter touchdown by Tim Reynolds, putting Skyline ahead 14 to 7. In the last two minutes the Stallions blocked a punt, carried it in to score and made a two point conversion. The final score at Memorial was 15 to 14.

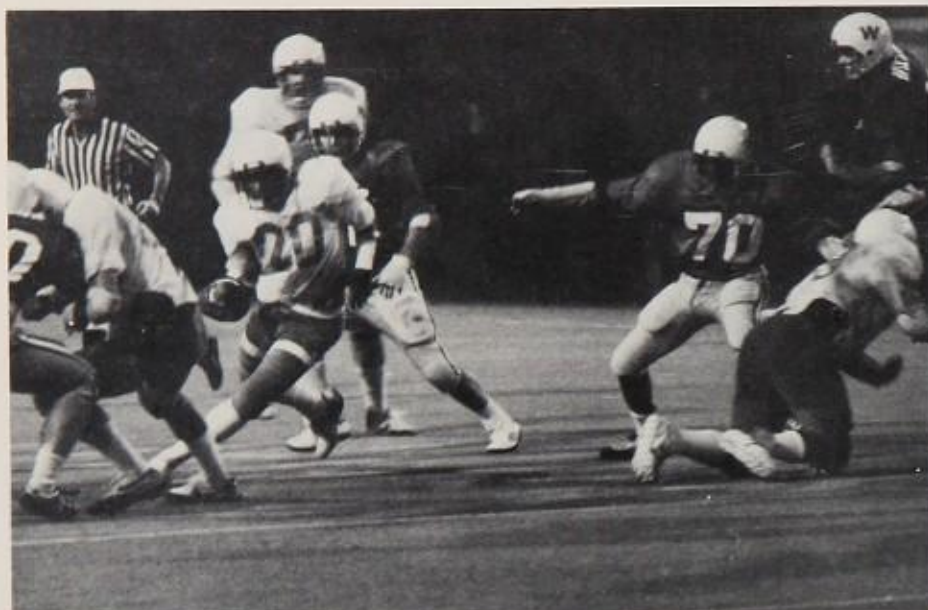

The district season opened against Spruce at Forester. Richard Wade recovered a fumble on the Apache 25 setting up a Robert Durst touchdown. Denny Day ended scoring with an extra point making the final 7 to 0.

Reynolds eludes Spruce tacklers for a first down.

Raiders win, lose two; drop to third place

Tim Reynolds scored on a 2 yard run, and Robert Durst rushed for 53 yards to defeat Woodrow Wilson 6 to 2 at Forester on Sept. 28.

Robert Durst (20) makes a big cut to avoid Woodrow defenders.

In the first district test of the season, Skyline faced powerful W. T. White. The Raiders had dominated the first half but were behind 3 to 0. The Raiders had only one first down in the second half and were out played, as the Longhorn team gained over 300 yards in the second half to shut the Raiders out 15 to 0 at Forester.

Senior John York confers with coach Dub Lewis for next defensive series.

Facing one of the most potent offensive teams in the 11-AAAA district under the leadership of senior quarterback Dale Horton, the Skyline defense faced another big test at Forester against Hillcrest. It appeared as though the Raiders would upset the Panthers holding an early 6 to 0 lead. However, Hillcrest fought back to a 21 to 19 victory.

Tim Schultze (77) and Steve Kennedy (60) pursue Hillcrest quarterback Dale Horton in the Raiders' second defeat in the district season.

Senior Melvin Hilder (30) watches the defense hold Woodrow Wilson.

T. J.'s defender attempts to stop Durst and is too late as he scores one of his three touchdowns on a three yard plunge.

Durst gained 155 yards, scoring three touchdowns, and quarterback Tim Reynolds hit 8 of 13 passes for 153 yards and one touchdown leading Skyline to a 34 to 18 win against TJ at Loos.

Varsity finishes 5-5 to take fourth place

Despite the continuous fight the Tigers put up against Skyline, the Raiders managed a 16-8 win. After falling behind early 8-0, the Raiders shut out Lincoln for three periods. Scores came on two safeties and a 5 yard touchdown pass from Tim Reynolds to Robert Durst.

Richard Wade (64) and James Lindsey (65) set up a wall of blockers as Robert Durst returns a punt against Lincoln.

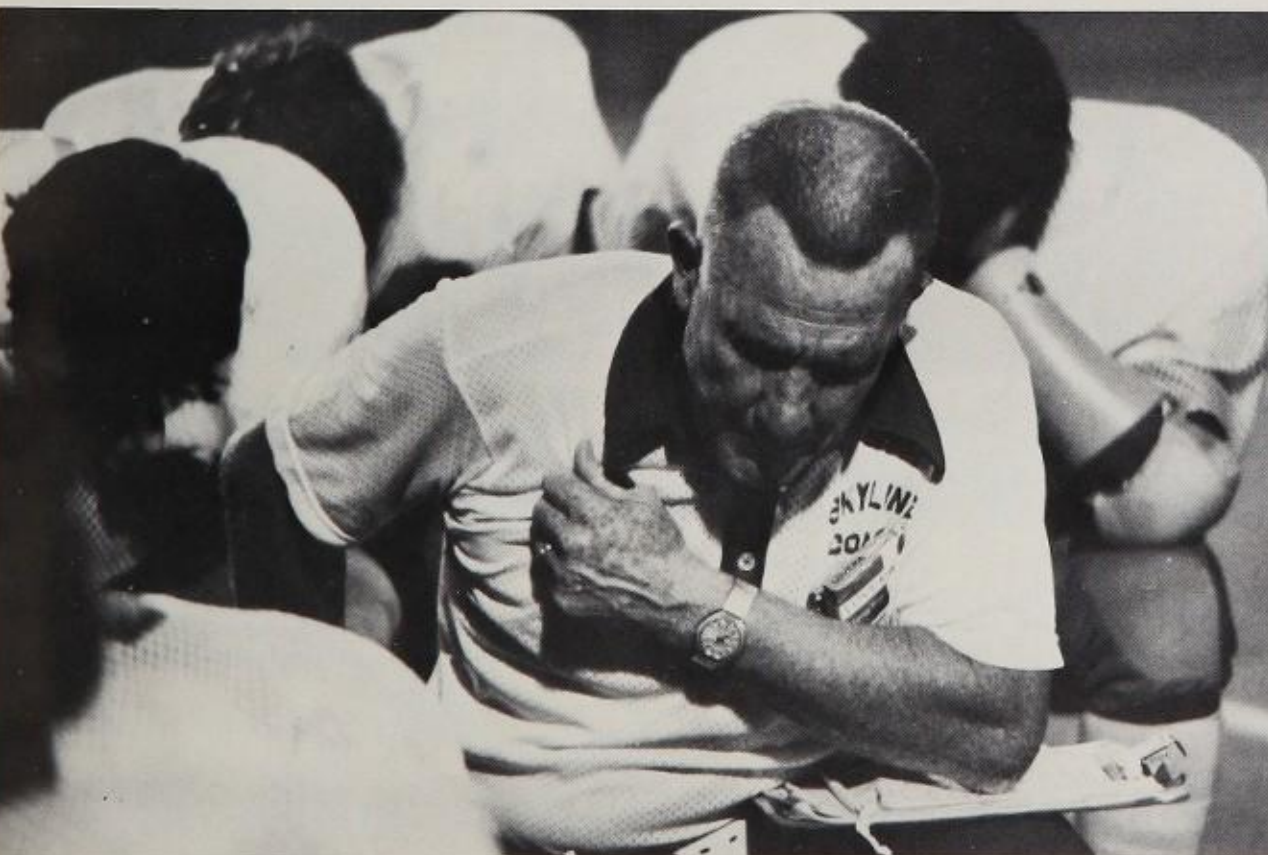

Robert Durst makes one of his 35 carries for a career high of 265 yards over BA.

Tim Reynolds (19) is about to be upended on a quarterback roll out, as Samuel's defenders pursue.

On a perfect night for football, the Raiders were for the fourth year in a row, upset by Samuel, 9-8. The Raiders' defense was tough, but with just under a minute to play Kyle Money hit one of his receivers to defeat the Raiders.

Head coach M. A. McCullom prays after 14-0 win over Bryan Adams to close out the 78-79 football season with a 5-5 overall record and 4-3 in district.

Despite the 35 degree temperature and a game that meant nothing in the final standings, many brave Raider fans witnessed the 78-79 Homecoming victory, as Skyline dominated the game with a 14-0 shut out over Bryan Adams. Junior Robert Durst played exceptionally well scoring two touchdowns.

B-team finishes 3-4, prepares for varsity season

In a disappointing season, the B-team finished the year with a 3-4 record. Coaching the team was Joel Ezar and Raymond Gatewood. With an overall team effort, the B-team prepared for next year's varsity team.

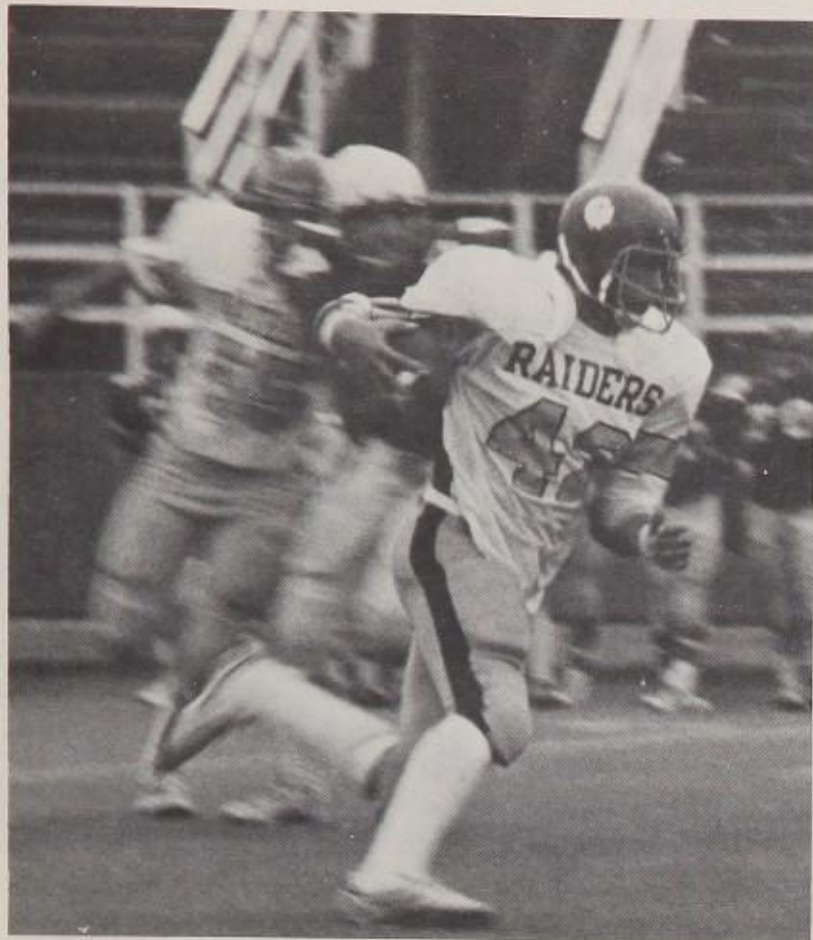

Quarterback Raymond Rogers, (12), tries to go left as North Mesquite defenders converge on the tackle.

Junior varsity has successful season, finishes 8-2

Jimmy Allred breaks into open field in 31 to 0 romp over Woodrow Wilson.

A surprising defense and an offense that outscored their opponents by three to one gave the junior varsity a fine 8-2 record. With a 6-2 mark in district, they finished in second place. The only losses were to Samuell and W. T. White, who went undefeated and later won District. Coaches Harold and Sherman Hughes led their squad through their victorious year, enabling some of these sophomores to play varsity next year.

QB Todd Burgwin led the J.V. to a shutout over Woodrow Wilson.

Young Raiders post 5-4 mark

Back row: Matt Fleeger, Charlie Moses, Scott Frost, Tommy Welch, Donnie White, Juan Wesson, Marquis Derrough, Scott Colavecchi, J. T. Wesley, Todd Phillips, Joe Turner. Third Row: Coach Dennis Wickline, Gerald Fuller (mgr.), Perry Beckstrom, Eric Andrews, Andre Jones, T. J. Front Row: Jeff Mullins, Dennis Price, Howard Harshbarger, Eural Garcia, Michael Washington, Wesley Cribb, Alvin Roberson, Rory Bunch, Michael Jacobowitz, Brian Griffith, Tracy Luckey.

Coaches Gary Newsome and Dennis Wickline led the freshman team to a respectable season record of 5-4. Aided by a very powerful line, Michael Washington, Jack Jernigan and Tommy Welch led the offense, while Donnie White, Dennis Price and T. J. Floyd led the defense. Raider victories were over Sunset, Spruce, Woodrow Wilson, Lincoln, and Bryan Adams while the team fell to W. T. White, Thomas Jefferson, Hillcrest and Samuell.

Quarterback Bob Gross hands off to running back Jack Jernigan for a short gain against Hillcrest.

Cross country disappointed, looks to next year

Varsity

front: Rickie Robbins, Leonard Kennard, Clarence Campbell, Karl Flynn, Robert Vela.

Coach Joel Ezar's cross country team had a disappointing season, coming in fourth in the City Meet Nov. 7. Skyline teams have won City or District in the past four years, and had many runners advance further.

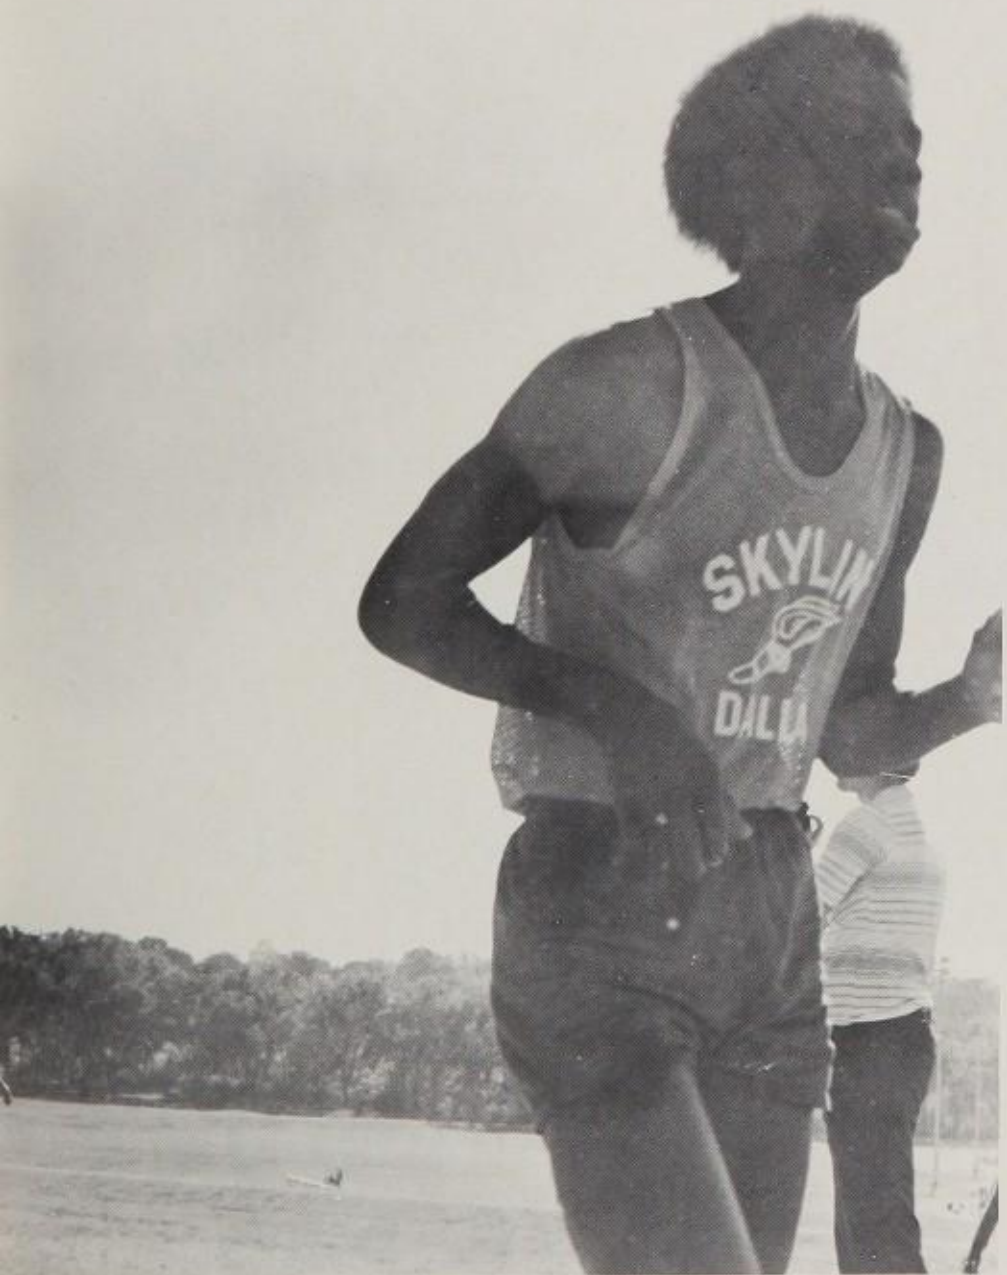

This year, only one runner, senior Sy Westmoreland, qualified for the Regional Meet. Junior Robert Vela narrowly missed the heralded advancement, typifying the depressing season.

The J.V. came in third in City, building toward a strong squad for next year.

Varsity volleyball has impressive season, falls one game short of district title

With four returning lettermen, the varsity volleyball team was the pre-season favorite in district.

The Raiders held the top position, winning seven of seven district matches, until the last game of the season, in which they fell, for the second consecutive year, to Bryan Adams, 12-15, 7-15.

Skyline took second place in a home-court tournament Oct. 13-14, defeating Samuell, 15-11, 15-5, White, 15-10, 15-11, Sunset, 15-6, 15-4, and falling to BA in a three game stand-off, 15-9, 7-15, 6-15.

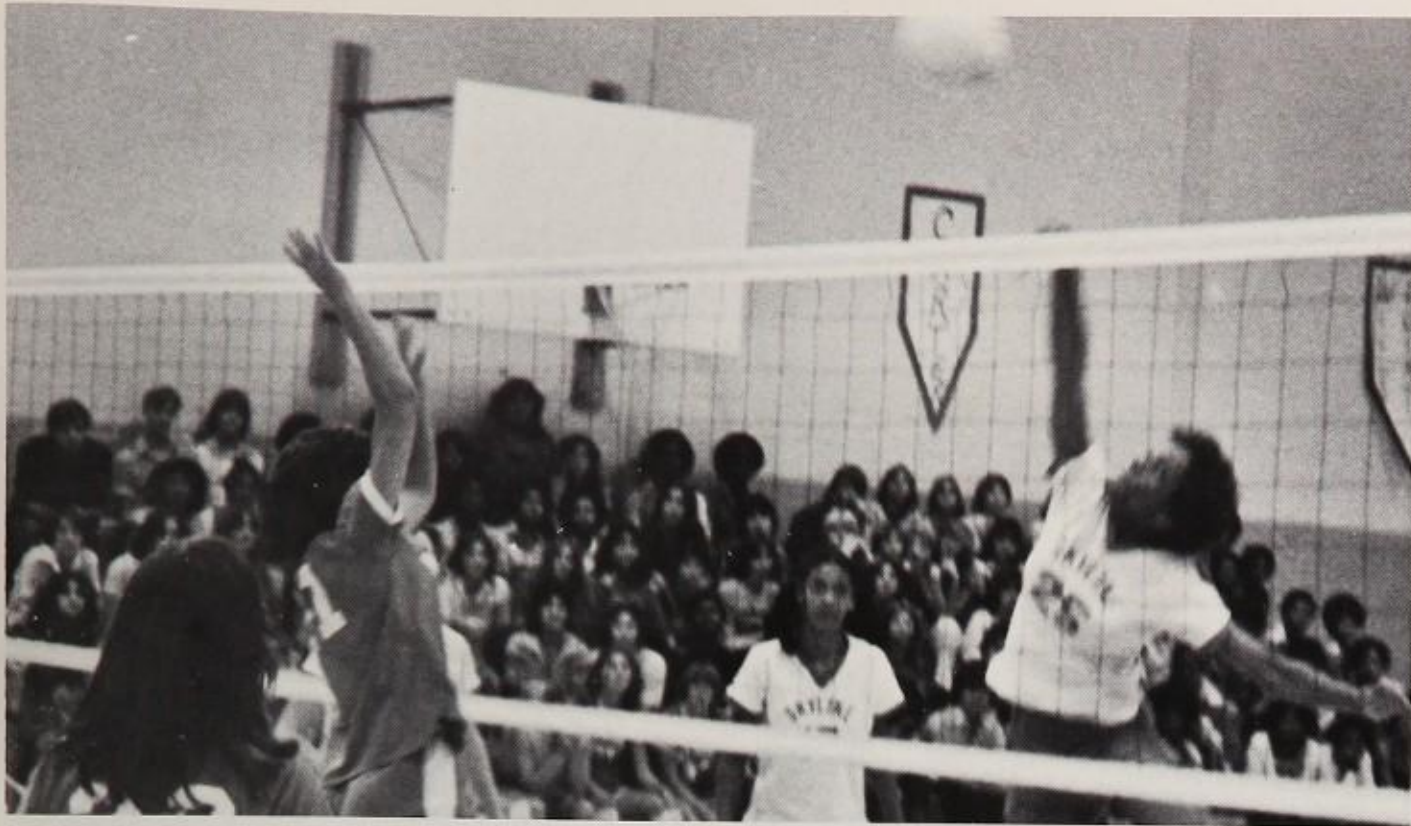

Coach Jettie Sams talks with referees before the Skyline tournament.

Junior Dana Johnson spikes in a victory over White which leads to a second place win in the Skyline tournament.

Lisa Hanson leads Skyline to a 15-0, 15-11 win over White in the Skyline tournament.

Debbie Smith sets to Elicia Fountain in a match against Samuell in the Skyline tournament.

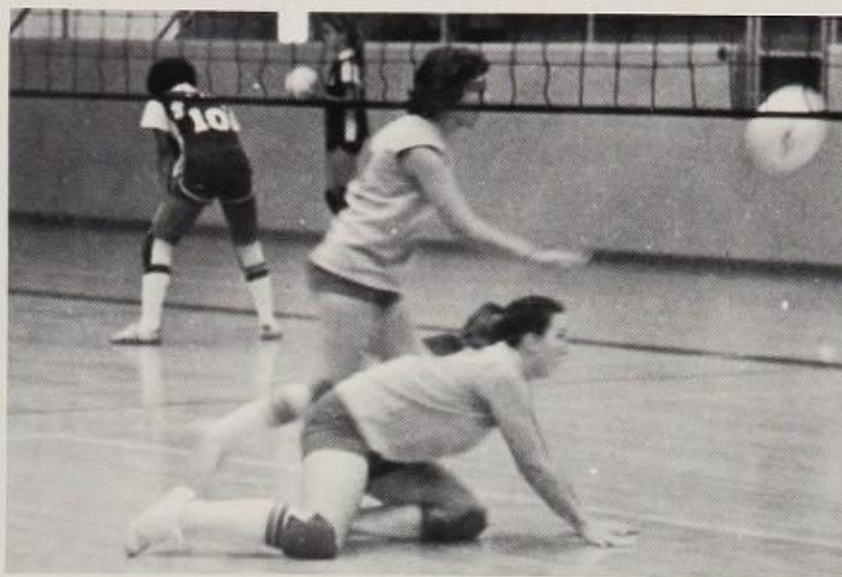

Velma Eldridge slams against Woodrow at Forester.

JV stands undefeated; wins district title

The JV volleyball team clinched the district title with an undefeated record. Under coach Mary Thomas, the JV team after winning district, advanced to the district tournament and remained undefeated to hold their position.

Because of a lack of funds, JV district winners were not able to advance to city competition.

Donna Smith saves a point against Samuell in a victory at Forester.

Pre-season predictions fall short for varsity

Uncharacteristically, the varsity basketball team suffered through a disappointing season, and although they were given the opportunity to redeem themselves, they were beaten in the season-ending district 11-AAAA tournament.

In the tournament, the Raiders lost to Spruce, 65 to 63 in overtime. Skyline had been favored to win since they had defeated Spruce earlier in the season, 68-67. This close loss typified the season.

The roundballers finished the year with a 4-4 district mark 16-16 overall, under the coaching of James Mayo.

Injuries mar performance

Tony Macalik drops in two over Garland Lakeview in a Raider victory, 66 to 46.

Mickey Nance shoots over a Thomas Jefferson player.

Injuries beset this year's squad. Three-year letterman Tony Macalik, a 6'7" center, was hampered by a bad back and was often unable to practice. Senior Keith Thomas, also a three-year letterman, was slowed by bad ankles.

Some outstanding individual performances highlighted the year with Thomas averaging 22 points a game while Macalik contributed with a 14 point average and 14 rebounds. Sophomore David Jordan was steady with 13 points per game, while yanking down nine rebounds a game.

Junior Shannon Roberts saved the first game against Spruce with an after the buzzer 50 foot desperation shot.

Thomas was named to two all-tournament teams, the Dr. Pepper tourney and the Richardson Pearce-Berkner tournament teams.

Post season honors went to Keith Thomas, 11-AAAA all-district honorable mention, Dallas Morning News; Tony Macalik, all-district second team, Dallas Morning News; all-greater Dallas honorable mention, Dallas Morning News; David Jordan, all-district Sophomore of the Year, Dallas Morning News, all-greater Dallas Sophomore of the Year, Dallas Morning News.

A six game winning streak finished the season. Eleven will return to the team.

Newcomers strong contenders

Led by coach Joe McCown, the freshman basketball team's goal was to finish in the top four teams in the post tournament. District champion, Samuell, in the regular season, was the roundballers' toughest game. Hillcrest also proved to be tough, as they won over Skyline 38-35. The Raiders were led by Andre Jones and Velle Robinson who averaged over 15 and 10 points per game, respectively, to lead in scoring.

JV team struggles, fights for district

Characterized as being a group of hustlers, the junior varsity basketball team struggled through the year to get into the four team playoff at the end of the season. Tough competitors like Plano and Kimball, two strong teams in their respective districts, gave good experience to the Raiders. Coach Dennis Wickline felt the team would win enough games to participate in the district, despite their weak 2 win, 3 loss record halfway through the season. Phillip Hollie was the top player, leading the team in scoring and playing an excellent defense.

Center, Basil Brown lays the ball up for an easy two points over Lincoln.

Experience, defense produce district win

Holding their opponents to an average of 14 points per game and averaging 44 themselves, the JV squad walked away with their second consecutive district title-undefeated.

The four top teams in district advanced to the District tournament. The squad dominated play by defeating BA, 41-16 and Samuell, 37-13.

Dana Johnson out jumps a Denton opponent in a home-court victory, 63 to 42.

Returners strengthen girls' varsity team

A strong backbone of returning players gave the girl's varsity basketball team a good base with which to work. Four players returned from the varsity team and three moved up from the JV team.

Last year's JV team played five-girl, full-court rules for the first time in district play. The JV team changed rules last year in order to prepare the girls for the same rule change in the varsity for the 79 season. The breakdown of specialized positions did not affect the team's winning ability.

The varsity went undefeated through preseason play and took first place in their two opening tournaments, Irving and Ennis. The team's first loss was surrendered to Adamson in the Dr. Pepper Tournament. However, the girls went on to win second place in that tournament. The team showed their superiority in district by defeating their main competitor, White, early in season play.

Four make 'Top Twenty' as hard work, dedication pay off for golf team

Todd Hall, Donnie Millender, Parrish Medley and Mark Torres made the All-City "Top Twenty" on Dallas High School Fair Day to highlight a spectacular season for the Skyline golf team.

Coach Sophie Reddit led her athletes through three hours of practice every school day, weather permitting. This hard work and dedication made for another strong squad that again challenged for the district title.

Hall, Medley, Millender, Torres and Greg Garrison were the backbone of this year's team. The golfers often played before few, if any, spectators.

Many golfers won honors, capping off another strong season for the consistent golf team.

Bowling team strong again, has bright future

Consistency described this year's bowling team. With six seniors, Skyline again was a challenger for the city crown. After losing city last year to Bryan Adams, this year's squad had the determination to carry themselves successfully through many victories.

Coach Yvonne Eaton worked with her bowlers in the hope that they will be strong in the years to come. With sixteen returners the future is bright.

Tennis team shows superiority early in district competition

With nine returning players, the tennis team began play Sept. 18 under the leadership of a new coach, Jim Richardson.

The varsity team, consisting of juniors, established themselves as district contenders by showing superiority in opening matches and tournaments. Singles player Amy Knight was seeded first in district after winning the Fall District Tournament. Varsity players were: Mark Moon and Amy Knight, singles, Kenneth Raines, Kenneth Ghormley, Elida Hernandez and Julie Fulton, doubles.

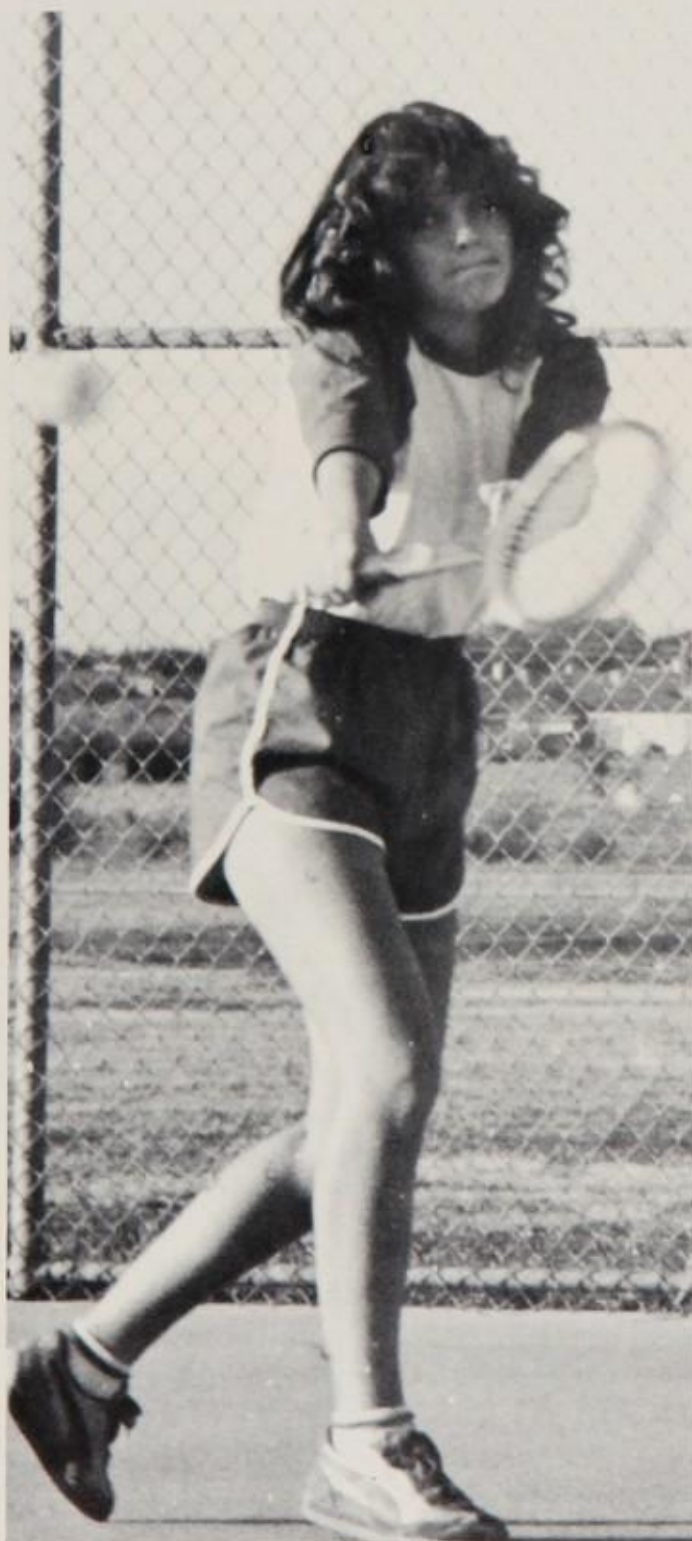

Russell Allison and James Roberson double up in the team's first tournament at Samuell Grand.

Elida Hernandez practices before the Spruce match at Skyline.

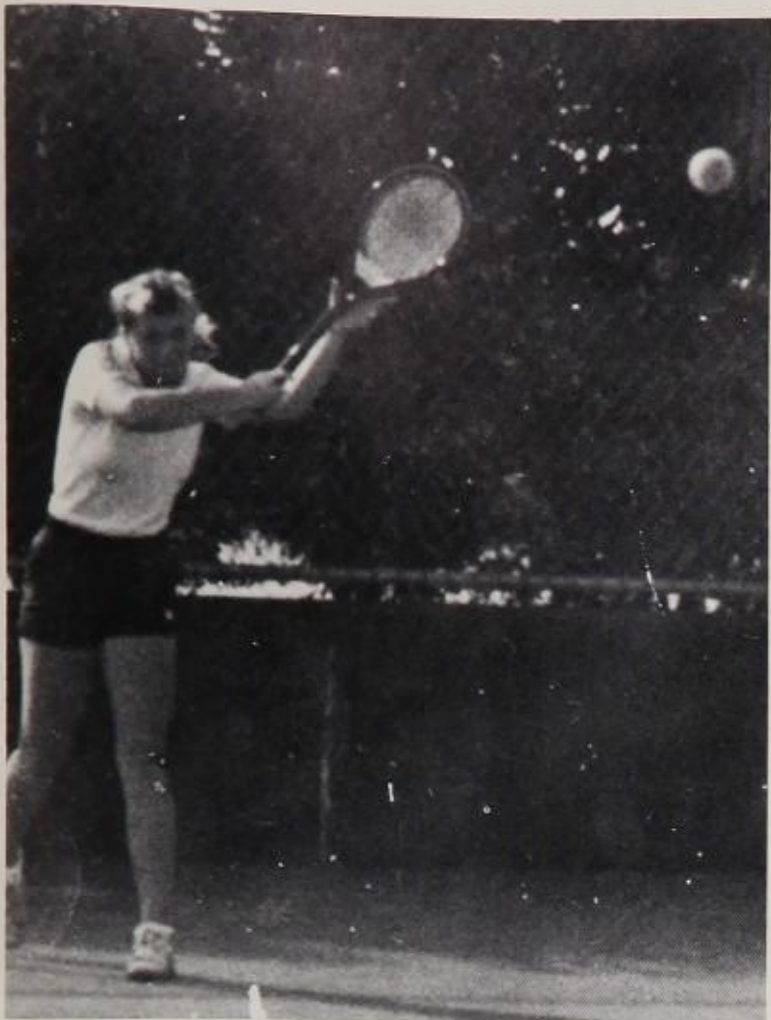

Mark Moon wins a singles match against Roosevelt at Skyline, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

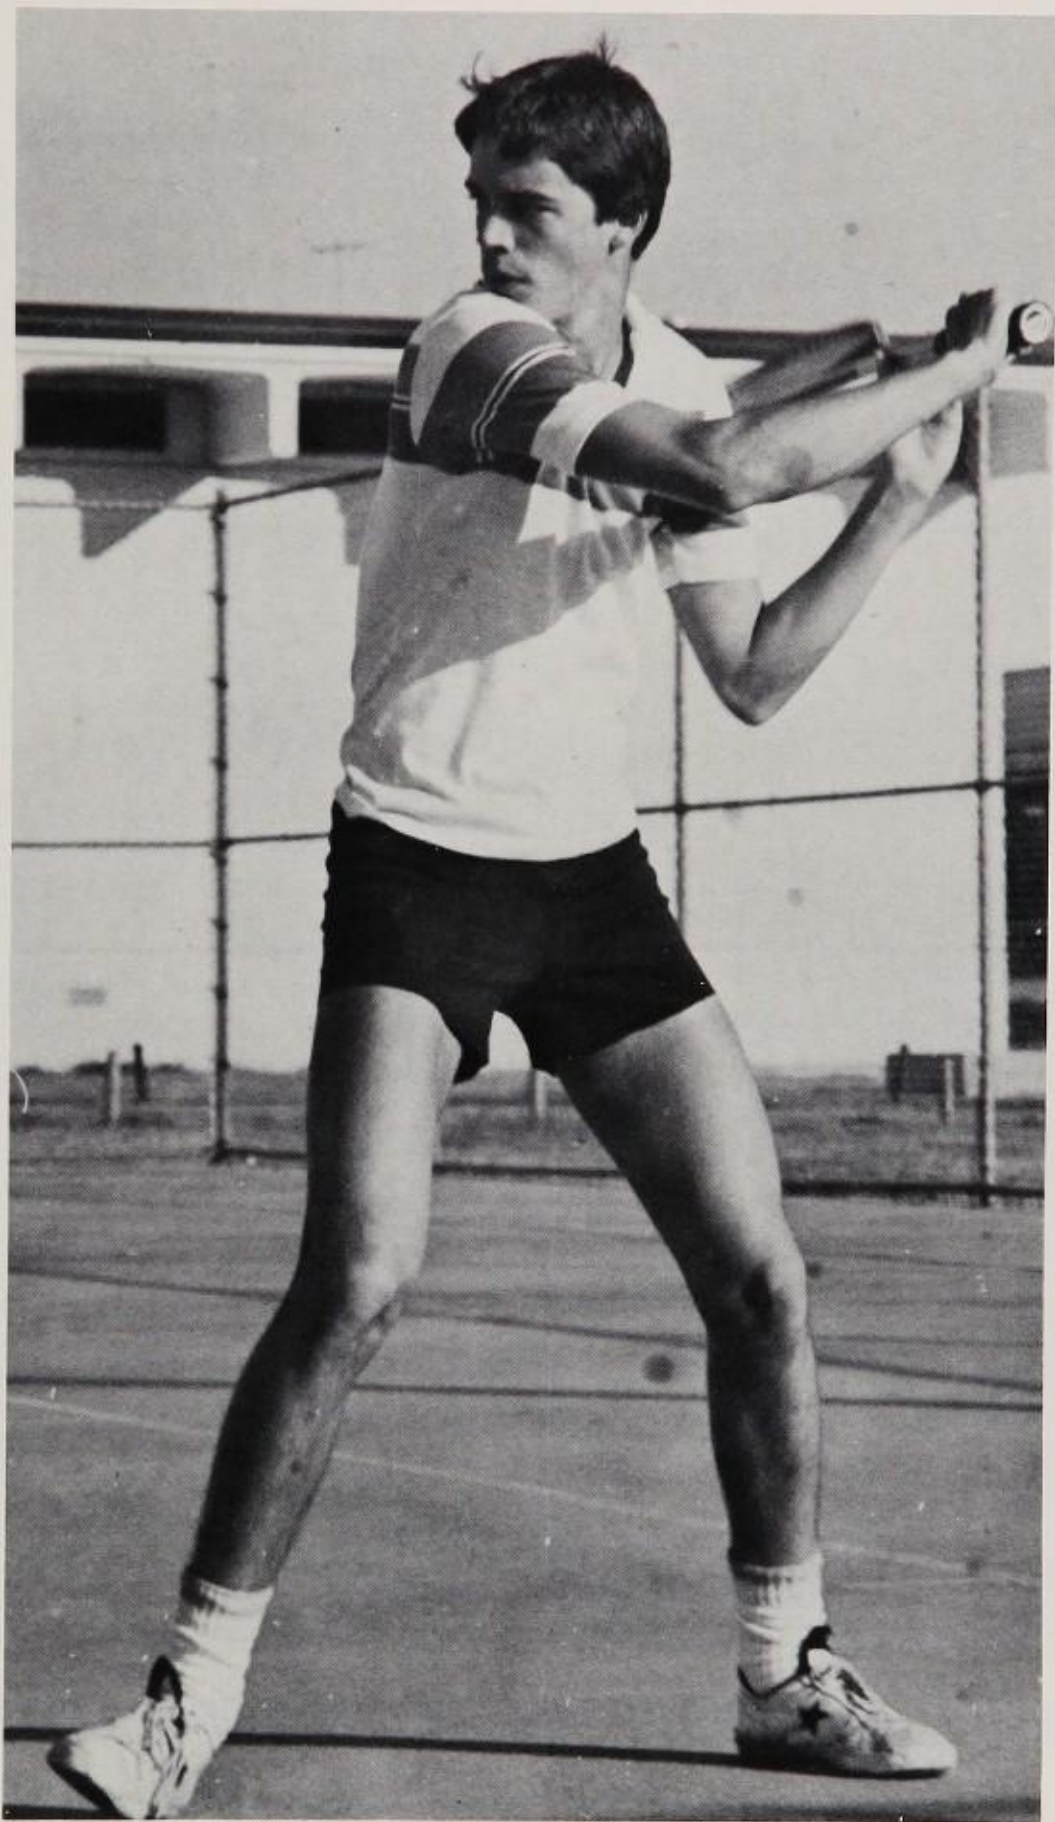

Kenneth Raines and Kenneth Ghormley double up to beat Roosevelt in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

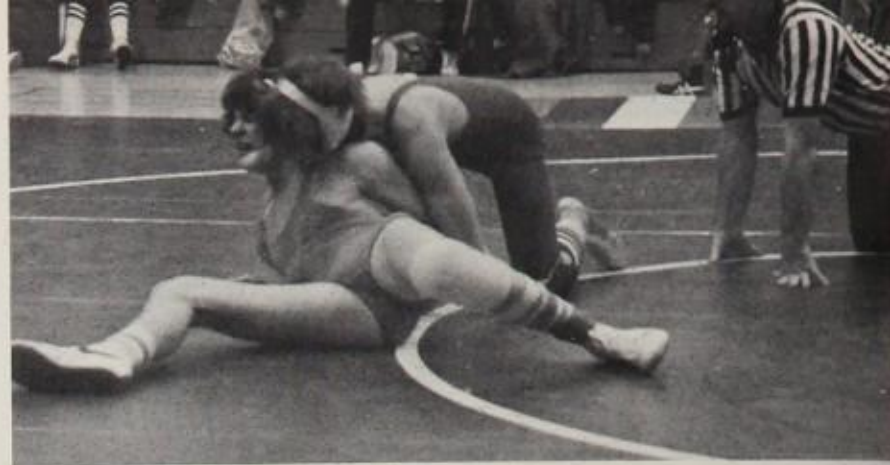

Amy Knight's confident swing wins her first place in the fall tournament.

Raines finds success with his two-handed backhand as he and Ghormley defeat Roosevelt at Skyline.

Second year wrestlers contend in district

Prior to the season, the wrestling team hopes were high for a district championship. Paul Evans, who finished fourth in regional last season, led the improved Raiders in many tournaments and dual meets to prepare for the district held at Skyline, on Feb. 2-3. Several wrestlers were considered state contenders.

The Lake Highlands Novice Tournament brought Skyline its share of medals with Marshall Holyfield taking first place in heavyweight while Karl Pranie, Chris Muse, Mickey Harris, Roger Campbell and Ken Schober won the team points with second, third and fourth place medals.

The W. T. White Invitational produced four Skyline champions in Pranie, Holyfield and co-captains Evans and John York and Evans was voted the Outstanding Wrestler at the Madison Tournament.

Senior John York uses cross arms and far ankle pick to contain Mike Johnson of Bryan Adams in the regional semi-finals match held at R.L. Turner in Carrollton.

Three go to state

A scene, filled with intense nervousness, according to Coach Larry Karl, exemplified this year's state meet, held in Amarillo's cold Tri-Star Colliseum. Evans, Day, and John York, three seniors, competed in the tournament. Despite none of them placing, Coach Karl was pleased with their effort.

Second year wrestler York, who finished fourth in district and second in regional, won his first match easily by pinning an Irving wrestler. He then was eliminated from the tournament by losing to Alan Fry from Austin Rockdale. An early season injury might have had some bearing on his performance.

Following the same pattern, Day, an inexperienced wrestler, slipped out of a comeback 10-9 victory over his Berkner opponent and was pinned by a Amarillo wrestler to be eliminated from the tourney.

Evans was also disappointed, he lost a close match to Tascosa in a 2-1 decision.

Nine return, give strength to soccer team

The soccer team entered the new season trying to regain respectability after going the entire 77-78 year season without a victory.

Three year letterman Jimmy Stephenson, only a junior, led the team in the season opener. With nine players from the '78 varsity team, Coach Gary Newsome's squad's future looked brighter than ever with 25 trying out for the team. Coach Newsome said that the team had more depth than ever before with more strong players. In previous years, they have had to play an accordian offense and defense, pulling players in and out of the game to keep all positions covered and players fresh.

Swimmers withstand opponents, have fine season

Tough competition made the going difficult for this year's swim team, but with the leadership of Coach Audris Zidermanis, the tankers made a very respectful showing in the district race.

A pre-season demolishing at the hands of both R. L. Turner and Bryan Adams put the swimmers in a right frame of mind — that they needed to improve.

Zidermanis pushed his swimmers past the daily swimming length of 2700 meters, or roughly 1.7 miles. This strenuous work began to show itself by the improvement of the tankers.

Opening district victories over Spruce and Seagoville led the Raiders on their way to another fine season.

A relatively young team will return, hopefully enabling Skyline to conquer perennial swimming power Bryan Adams.

Returning champions strengthen girl's track

Returning district champions, Elissia Fountain, Cornelia Shepard and Laura Tucker, provided leadership and strength to the varsity track team. Five other veterans participated in the district struggle. These players were Dana Johnson, Michelle Massey, DaShon Nedd, Terri Thompson and Brigitte Hill.

The district season began March 10 with a meet against Pinkston. The highlight of the year was the Dallas Invitational Meet. Schools throughout Dallas were represented in this meet and both boys and girls participated.

Variety provides strong base for district

A combination of sophomores, juniors and seniors made the team a contender in District 11-AAA Coach Harold Hughes led his team through a tough pre-season schedule in preparation for the district race. On a cold, windy day the Raiders opened the exhibition season with a 14 to 7 win over North Mesquite, leading them to a 6-2 pre-season mark. The district slate opened March 12 with a 5 to 1 setback to W.T. White. Consecutive victories followed over Spruce, 12-5, and Sammuel, 7-2. These wins began Skyline's climb toward the top.

Track team competes strongly to prepare for district

Coach Joel Ezar, led his boys' varsity track team to what he hoped to be a successful season.

Competing in strong meets such as the eminent Texas Relays, it was no wonder that the runners would be prepared to compete stronger than ever in the district meet for regionals, and then on to the state championship, in Austin's Memorial Stadium.

Quoted as saying "Track will be stronger at Skyline for the next three years," Ezar held confident feelings over this squad. Paul Brattlof ranked first in state at the pole vault, Charles Mitchell ranked third in state at high hurdles, and Sy Westmoreland ranked 18 in the mile. Other members were also favorites in district, as they too ranked high in state.

With 15 participating in last year's regional meet, the Raiders season seemed to be characterized with high hopes.

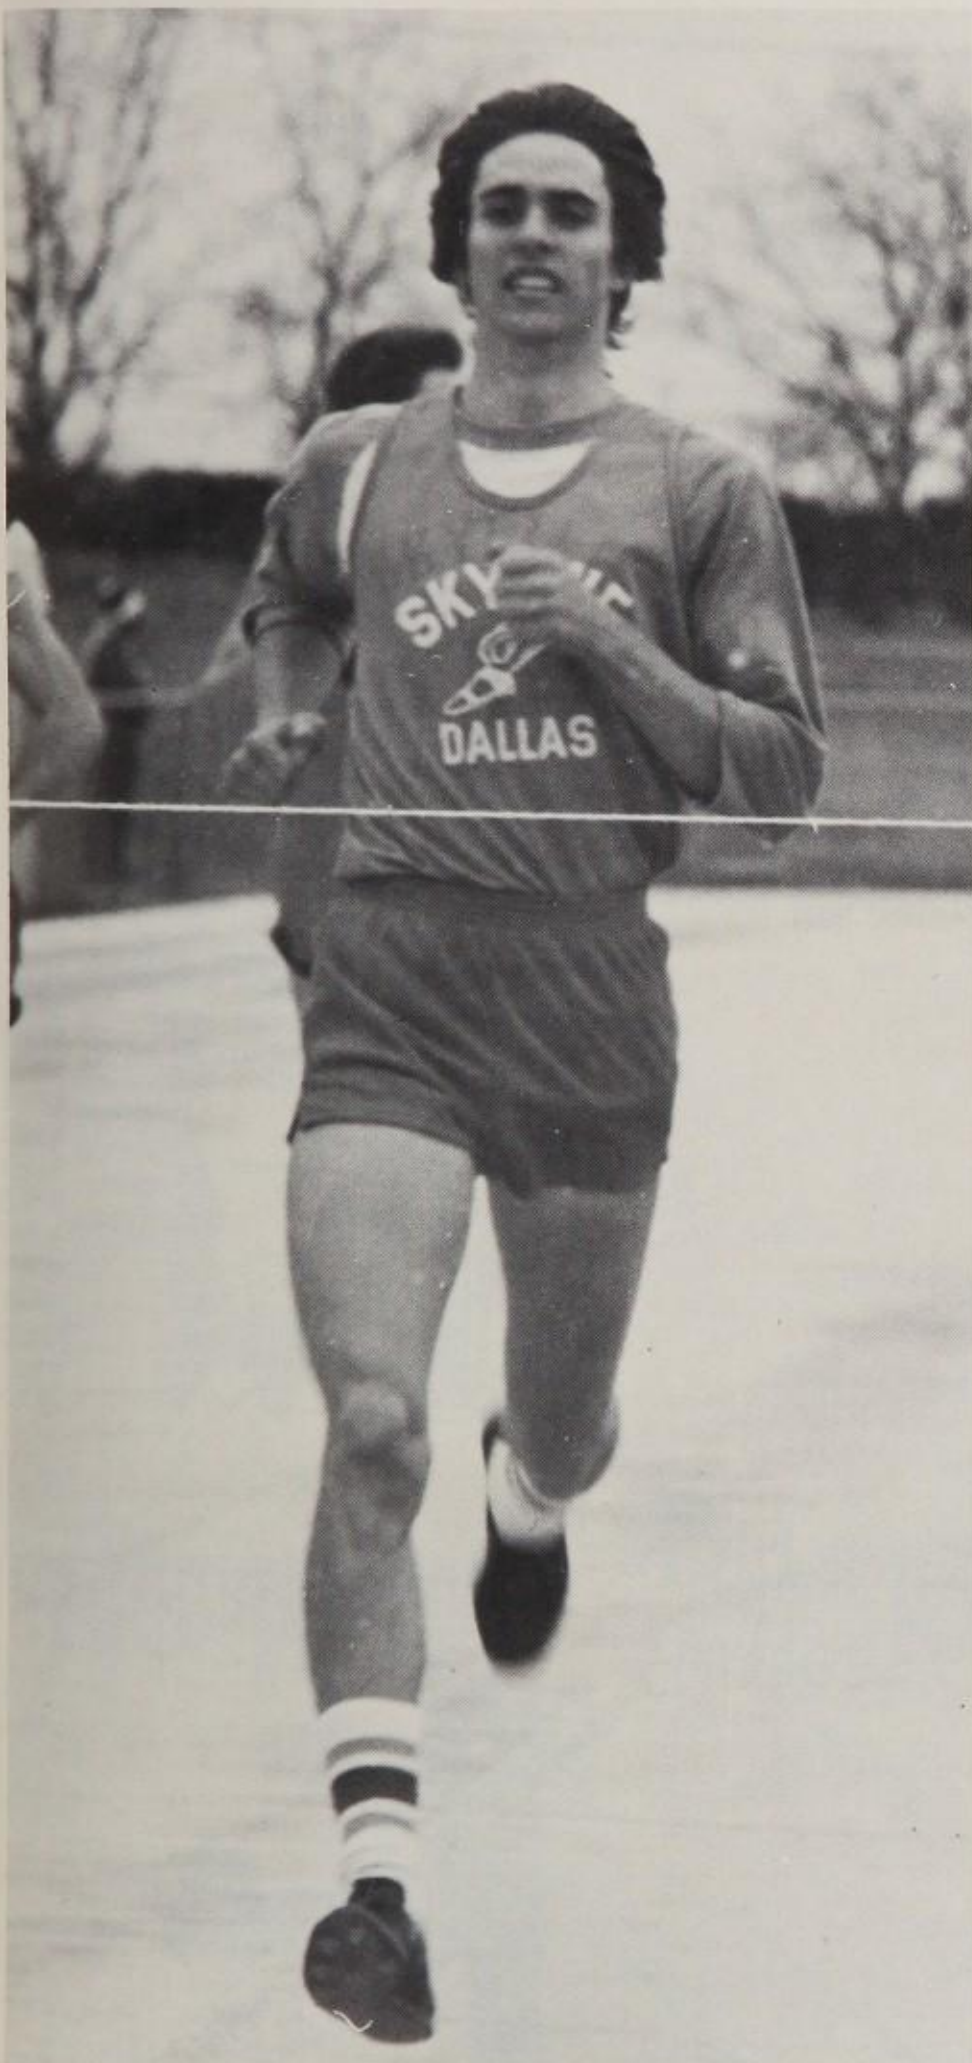

Third year runners, Leonard Kennard, Victor Griffith, and Tyrone Hill fight for the lead.

Determination is shown in the facial expression of these Raider participants.

Personalities

Traits, habits and behavior differentiated the Skyline Personalities from all others. They were the ones who were considered deserving of the honors, prestige and recognitions; the ones whose smiles were just a little bit brighter and their glowing faces and laughter penetrated into hearts just a little bit deeper.

Captured and contained in this section are the personalities, the class favorites, senior superlatives, and 19 Who's Who.

Ninth homecoming marked by differences

Homecoming was quite different from any of those in the past eight years. The homecoming game against Bryan Adams was played Thursday Nov. 16, while the dance was held the following Friday. Beating B.A. by 14-0 set the stage for a grand victory celebration.

Another first was found in that Dana Branom and Mary Cook received enough votes to be nominated for both senior princess and homecoming queen.

The dance was held in the cafeteria and followed by the crowning of the queen, Leslie Boone and her court: Cheryl Dodd, Penny King, Kimberly Roquemore, and Toni Washington at 11:30 in the auditorium.

Homecoming queen Leslie Boone was escorted by her brother Mark Boone.

Freshman damsel nominees and escorts: Cheryl Dodd, Charlie Moses; Leanne Fields, Danny Sampeck; Michelle Ottmo, Mike Newell.

Junior countess nominees and escorts: Jolie Bartholf, Micheal Owens; Kimberly Roquemore, Alvin Olgetree; Robin Williamson, Mark Williamson.

Senior princess nominee and escort: Toni Washington, Dwight Flanagan. Mary Cook, Paul Schultz; Dana Branom, Keith Dodd.

Despite her extra activities, Mary excelled academically.

Varsity cheerleader, she spent many long afternoons practicing for the football games.

Mary Cook named as football queen

Throughout the years Mary Cook worked closely with the athletic department. She, along with the other cheerleaders, cheered and rallied the Raiders on to several victories.

Mary was chosen by the Raider varsity football team as their queen because she was considered most deserving.

Mary spent devoted time to decorating the student center and the boys' locker room.

Second crowning for rodeo queen

Once again chosen Rodeo queen, Robin Saylor showed an even greater interest in the '78-'79 rodeo. She won several rodeo awards and honors placing her among the top rodeo members at Skyline. Robin Saylor participated in rodeo for three years.

Robin took her prize horse, Babe, off to the country practically every weekend.

Couple chosen to honor Mexican independence day

The Los Amigos club selected two members from their club to represent Mexico's day of Independence from Spain on May 5, 1862. Sophomore Dionisio Carrasco and senior Yvette Yanez were chosen this year as Mr. and Miss Cinco de Mayo.

Freshman Sweetheart

Beth O'Dell worked full time with the Key club on the March of Dimes Haunted House project.

Sophomore Sweetheart

Becky Marek was selected by the Key club as sweetheart in her freshman year.

Junior Sweetheart

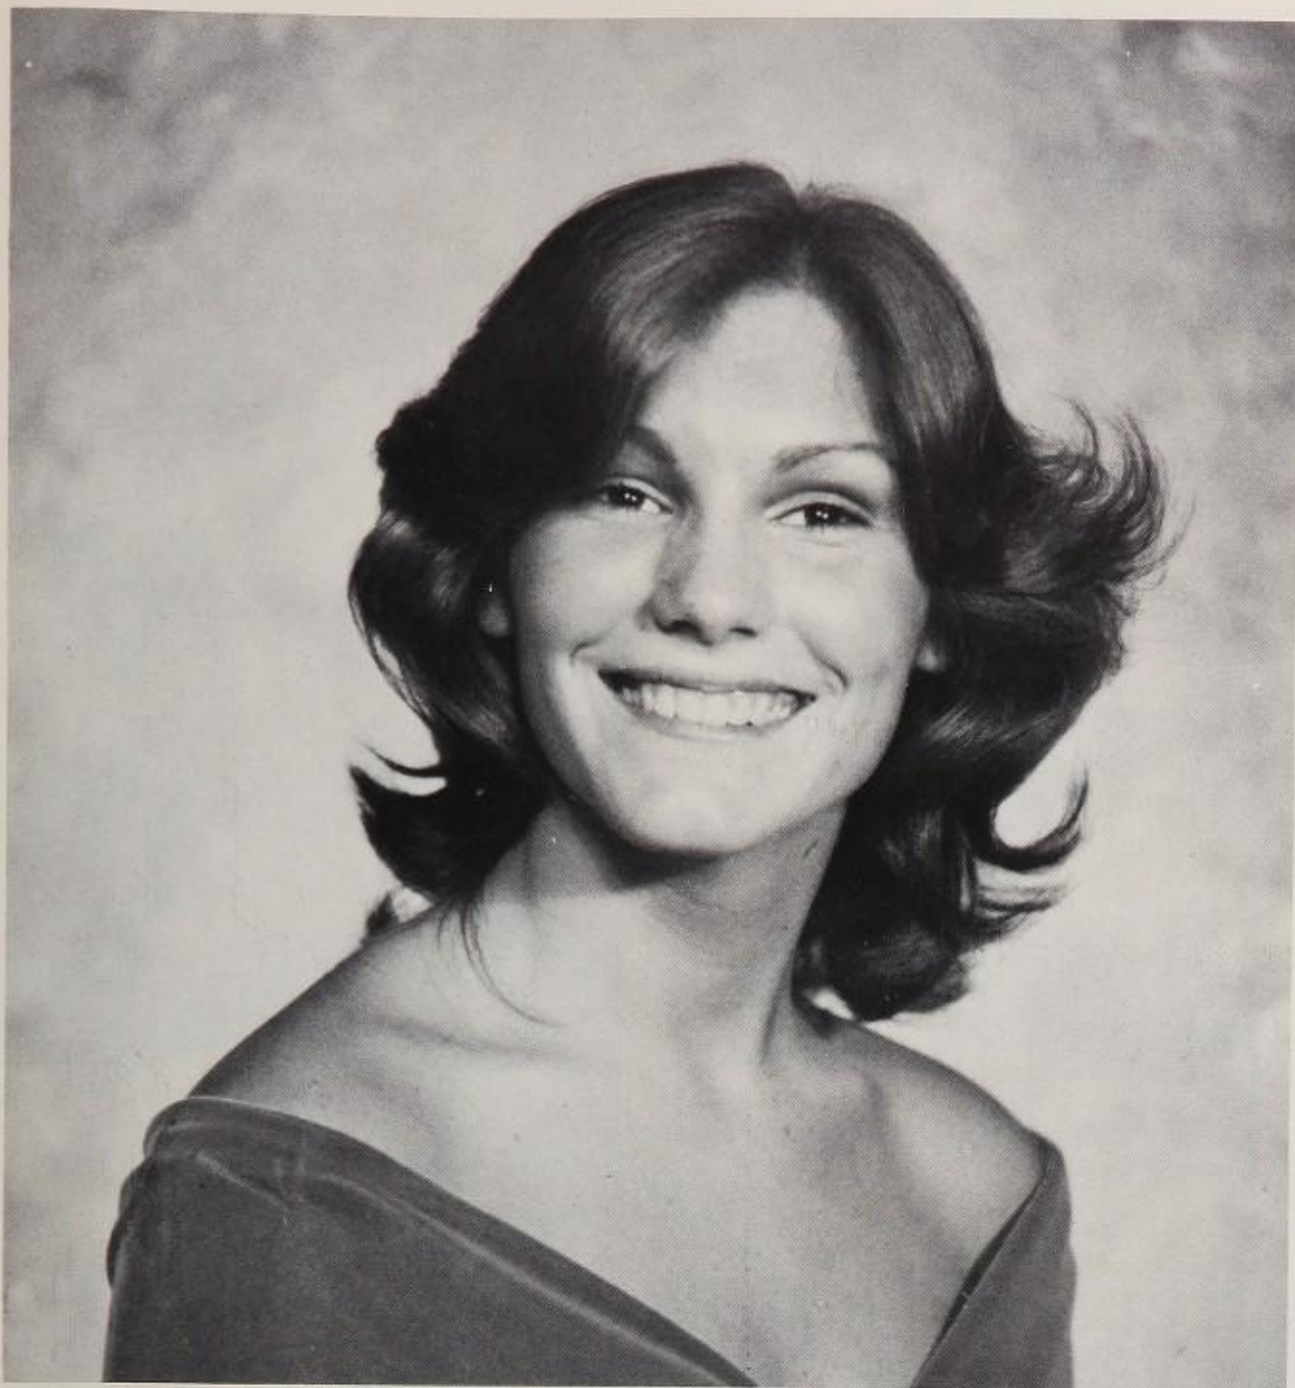

Although most of her time was spent on musicals, Shelly Miller participated in Key club activities.

Senior Sweetheart

Mary Cook was chosen Key club sweetheart in her junior year.

Laura O'Dell was Senate journalist for two years.

Key club picks hard worker for sweetheart

Key Club sweetheart Laura O'Dell was quite active in Key Club functions. Her participation was far above and beyond the call of duty.

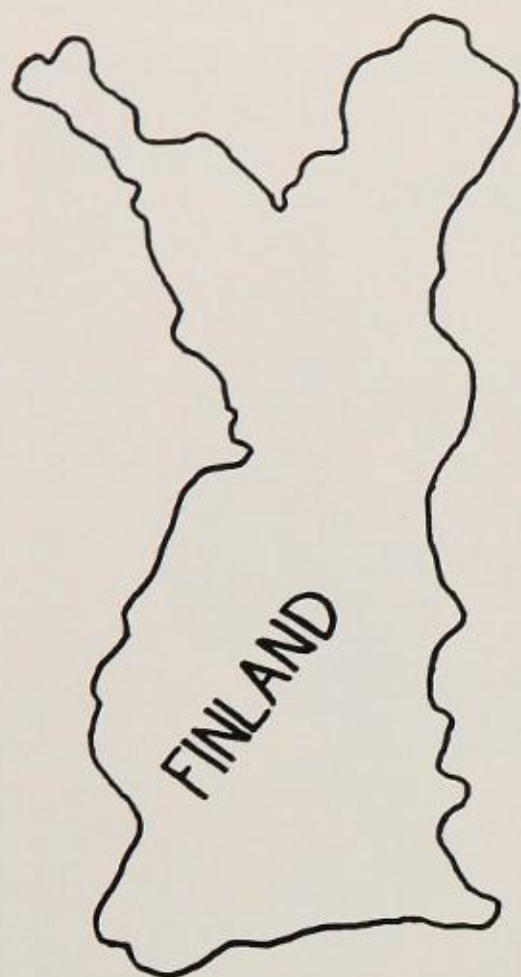

The project on which she worked most diligently was the March of Dimes Haunted House. Laura helped every night in which the house was open to the public. She also assisted in the building of the house.

Laura was also Junior Key Club sweetheart.

Silhouette member, Laura O'Dell spent several hours a day practicing drill routines.

Jouni says that a U.S. education gives Skyline students a chance of a better career than students home in Finland.

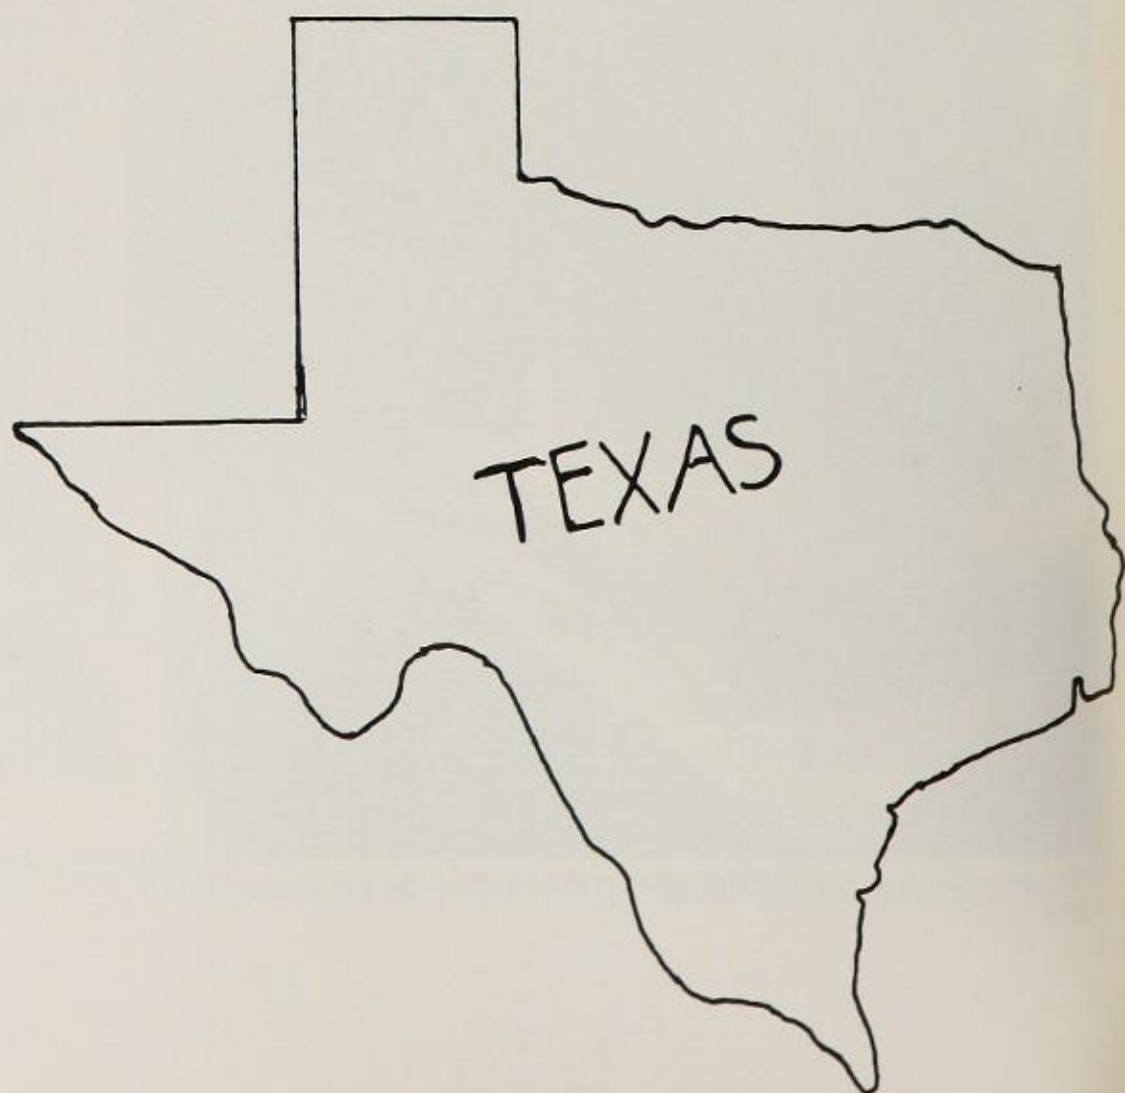

Two more years of high school are facing Jouni when he returns to Finland.

Varied education goal of Finnish student

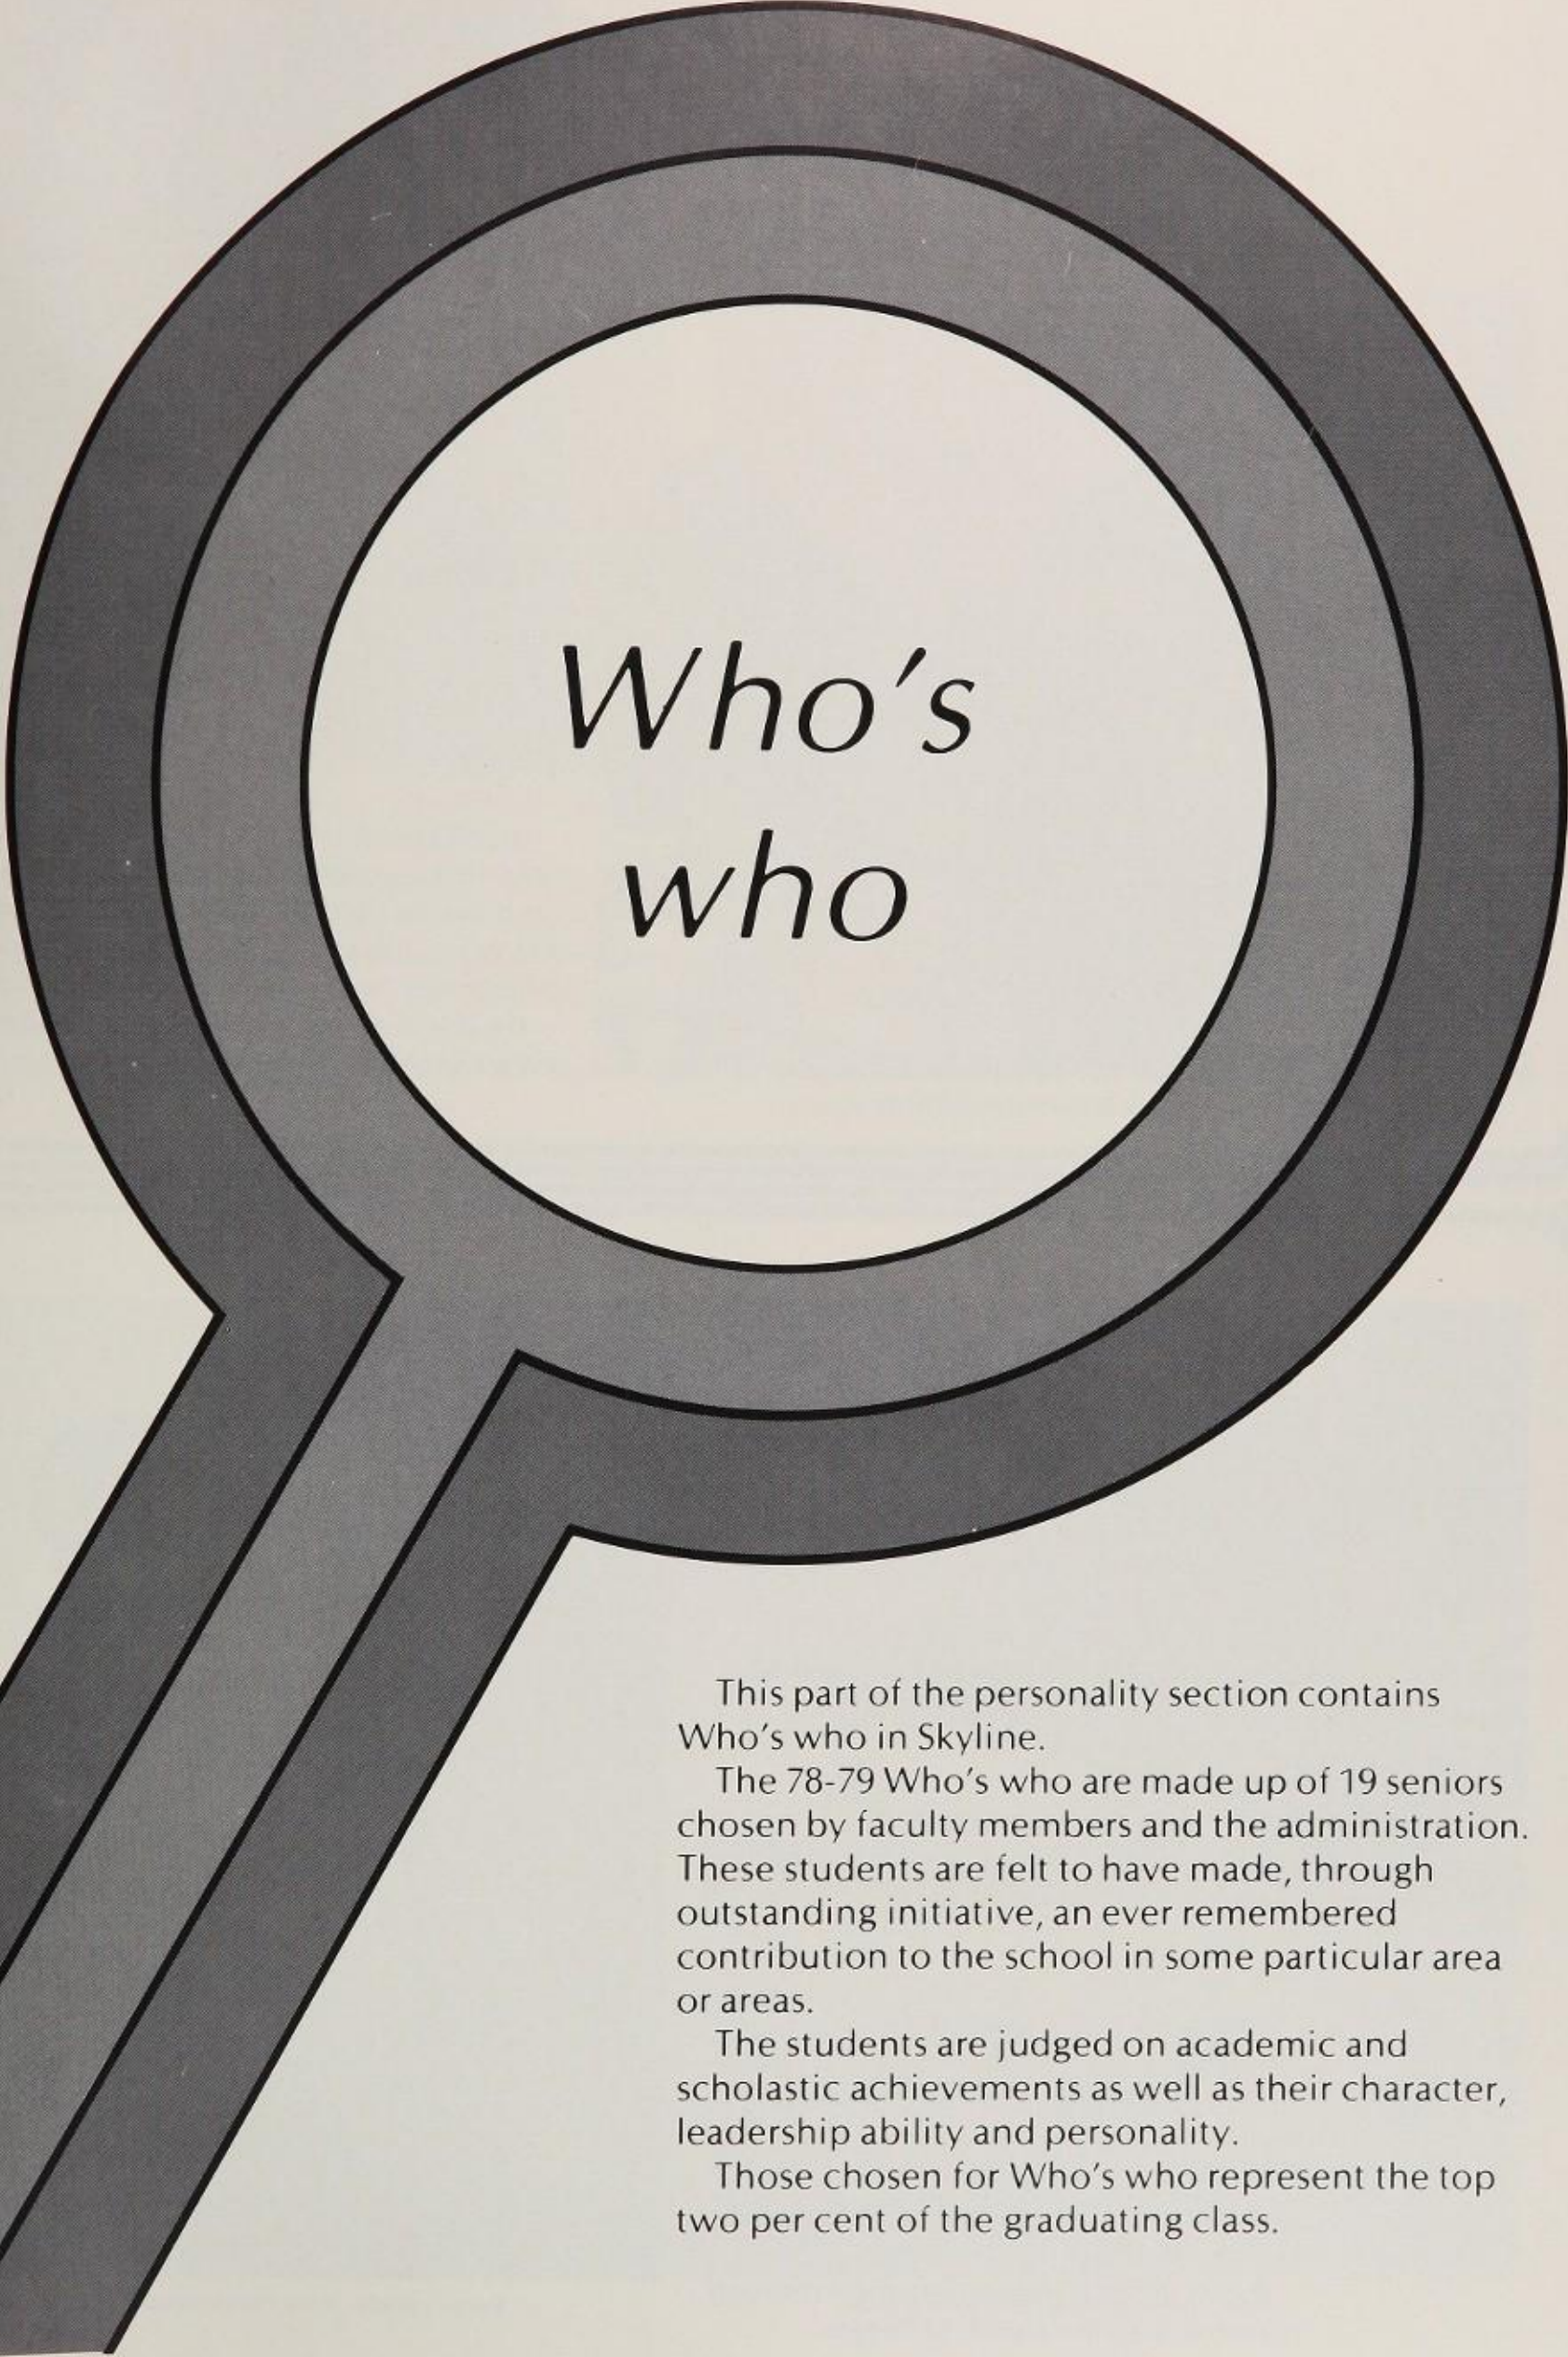

Switching from Finland to Texas was no easy task, but an easy task is not what Jouni Labinleim expected when he became a foreign exchange student.

Jouni Labinleim lived for one year with the family of Kelly McCoy, a sophomore in the world language cluster. Jouni was in the Electronics CDC, and said the American school system gives students here a better chance at a good career than students would have had in Finland. In Finland the schooling is more difficult, Jouni noted, emphasizing that in his Finish school, called a lukid, he had to learn four languages: German, Swedish, Finish and English.

In Finland everyone is not allowed to attend college. Graduates must pass a special exam, and those not deemed worthy of going to college must enter the army for a minimum of nine months.

Who's who

This part of the personality section contains Who's who in Skyline.

The 78-79 Who's who are made up of 19 seniors chosen by faculty members and the administration. These students are felt to have made, through outstanding initiative, an ever remembered contribution to the school in some particular area or areas.

The students are judged on academic and scholastic achievements as well as their character, leadership ability and personality.

Those chosen for Who's who represent the top two per cent of the graduating class.

Janet was a member of the National Honor Society.

Active in drill team, Janet was a two year member.

Janet Neal

Involvement in school activities did not stop Janet Neal from excelling in her scholastic work. She could do both; and do them well. Janet was a member of the spirit club and became a two year member of the Silhouettes.

Janet was also a member of the Spanish club and National Honor Society.

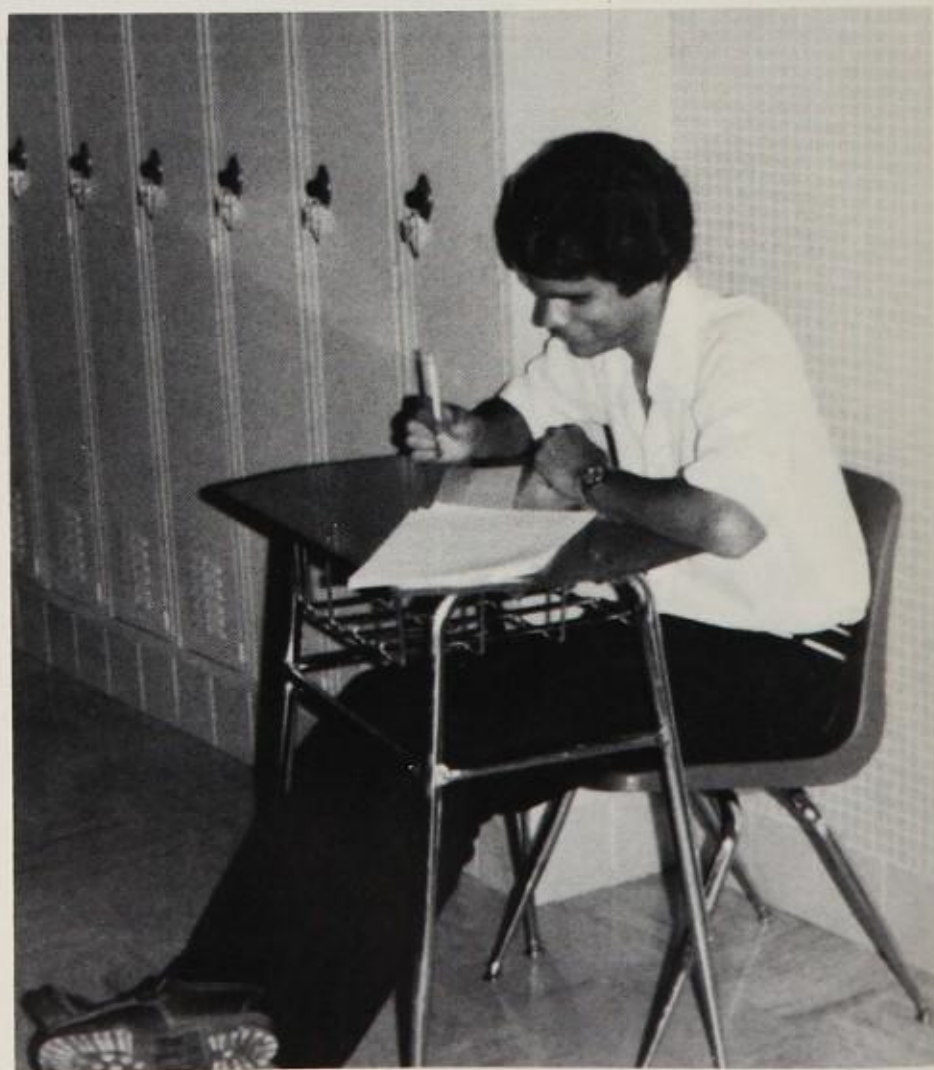

Drawing skills were polished by Bryan Trubey in the Architecture cluster.

Bryan Trubey

Whatever came Bryan Trubey's way, he could always accomplish. Bryan was in the Architecture cluster for three years and on the architectural co-op work program.

Bryan showed his worth by receiving a first place award in interviewing regional competition and third in state.

Bryan showed interest in others through his work with the March of Dimes.

Bryan's grades reflect his scholarly achievements.

Alexandra
Pratt

Studios discipline entitled her membership in the National Honor Society.

Being named Who's Who in Foreign Languages and being in the top two per cent of third year Spanish students tested at SMU were just two of the honors bestowed on Alexandra Pratt.

Alex was interested in all languages and was a member of the Russian, French and Chinese clubs.

She was also a member of the National Honor Society and the Outdoor Club.

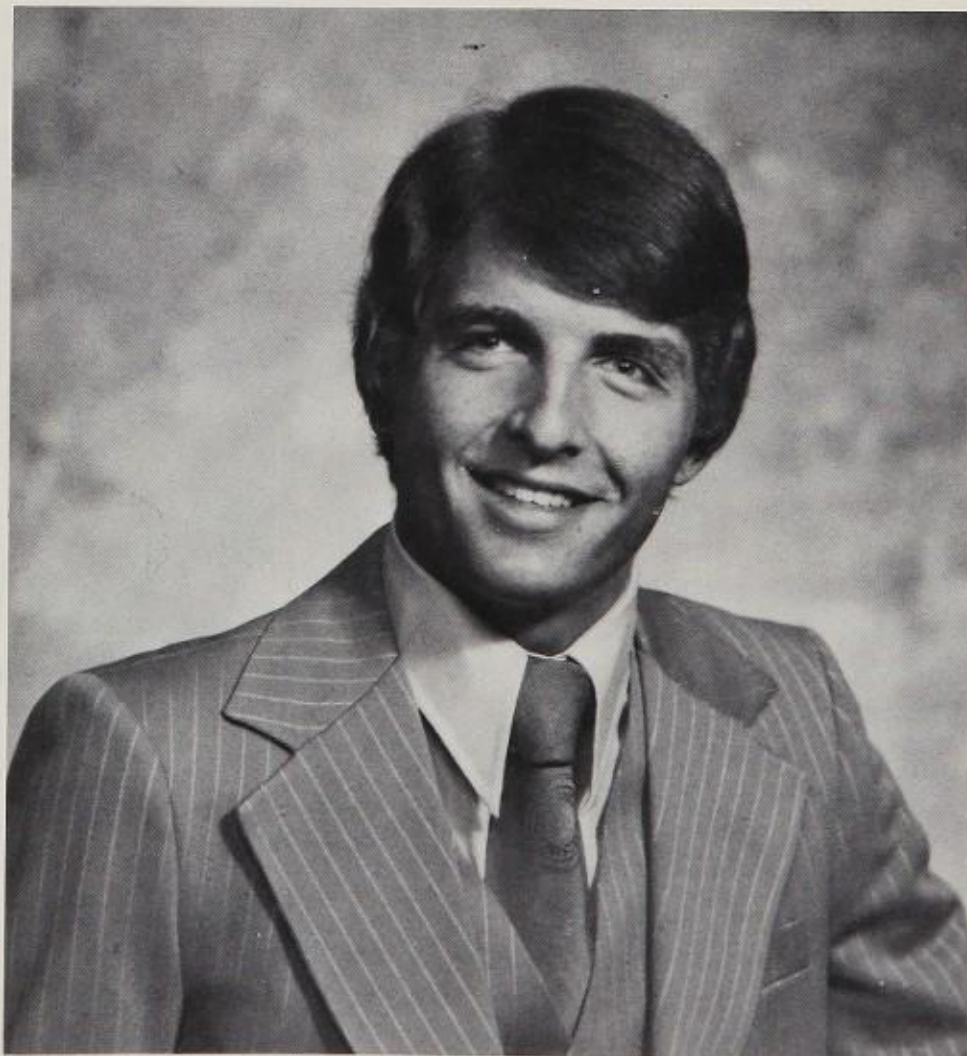

Alexandra is outstanding in foreign languages.

Richard
Wade

Athletic prowess and high achievement academically have placed Richard Wade among the Who's Who at Skyline. He was also a member of the National Honor Society, Key club, and Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Richard was a member of the science cluster and club, where he entered regional science fairs for three years and placed first in competition.

Richard was in Key club for two years.

Cindy Harmon

Cindy took pictures for the Origin.

Cindy Harmon was drum major during her junior year.

Intelligence, talent and leadership ability were only three of the nouns that personify Cindy.

Cindy, who was inducted into the NHS as a junior, devoted much time to a number of Skyline organizations. She was a member of the symphonic and marching bands as well as being the drum major as a junior.

She used a self-developed talent to become the photography editor of the yearbook.

After three years in commercial art, she was placed on a job.

All of these things and more made Cindy more than worthy of a slot in Who's who.

Cindy's talents included art, music and photography.

Sherry Roe

Combining musical ability with scholarly skills one finds a well-deserving Who's who candidate in Sherry Roe.

Sherry was involved with the choral department as she performed in all three spring musicals.

She was also a member of the marching band, where she was chosen to the all-city band.

Sherry also served as president of the NHS and was a National Merit Finalist.

Sherry was in the science cluster and a member of the Spanish club.

Sherry was vice-president of the band.

Sherry was NHS president her senior year.

Dana Branom

Dana Branom was varsity cheerleader both her junior and senior year.

Popularity and activity were two words that best described Dana Branom.

Dana, who was a varsity cheerleader her junior and senior years, devoted many hours to school. Her interest in sports was vast, both from the sidelines and on the court, where she played volleyball and basketball.

Dana was popular with students and teachers alike as shown by her frequent nomination.

Charles Windham

Charles plans the next issue of Reflections.

Charles Windham participated in a yearbook workshop at UTA.

For someone who wasn't sure of his interest in journalism, Charles Windham certainly caught on like a house afire.

Charles, who applied for and received a reporter position on Reflections at the end of his sophomore year and then got into the journalism cluster as a second thought, won awards his first year in the cluster by taking two first place positions in UIL district competition.

His outstanding initiative won him the editor-in-chief position after only one year in cluster. Charles was a National Merit Semi-finalist and a member of the Spanish dancers.

Kenneth Martin

As coordinator Kenneth Martin provides leadership.

Raising questions and finding answers are part of the big job Kenneth and

When looking for a leader and Kenneth Martin was around, the choice came very naturally.

Kenneth, who served as student coordinator his senior year, also was president of the National Forensic League as well as a member of the Executive Board, the Principal's

Advisory Committee and the Student Activity Council.

He also won wards for debate and accolades for scholastic achievement as a National Honor Society member.

Angie Ottmo

Yearbook editor Angie Ottmo types copy on a quadpak.

Three years in a cluster are not enough to earn a place in Who's who. And it took a lot more than that for Angie Ottmo, a third-year journalism cluster student.

Angie, who was reporter, news editor, associate editor and opinion editor on Reflections and ads and index editor and editor-in-chief of the Origin, willingly gave up all of her snow days in the winter of '77 to keep the yearbook on schedule.

Angie was also active in the German club and the Woods and water club.

Angie tells newcomers at orientation what they need to know about the Origin.

Vornadette fill as student senate leaders.

Vornadette Simpson

Vornadette served as news editor of Reflections.

It may be hard to imagine how Vornadette Simpson managed to find time to do all the things she did — and did well.

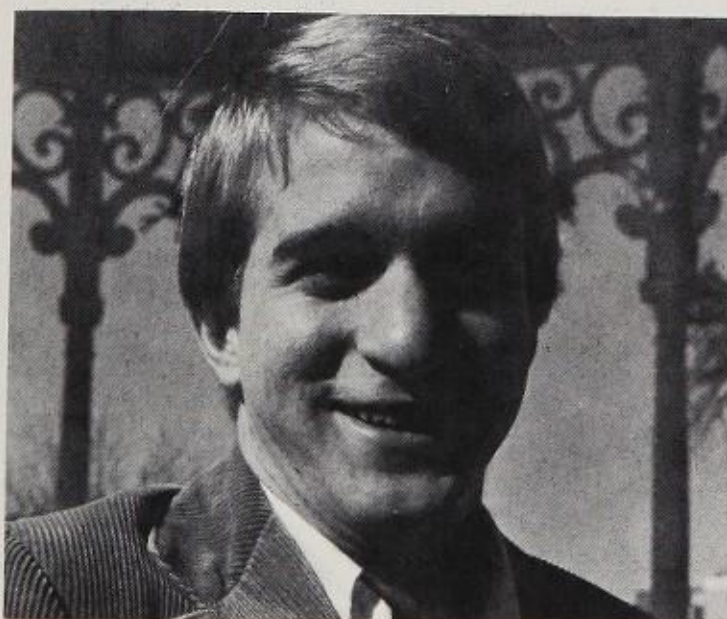

Vorn's special talents were highly visible as she led the Skyline student body as vice coordinator but her leadership did not stop there — Nor did her devotion to Skyline.

As an active member of the speech department, Vorn participated in many tournaments, city and state wide, winning honors and a place in the National Forensic League.

Vorn also gave two of her busy years to journalism as reporter and news editor of Reflections, and classes and personalities editor of the Origin.

Chip checks his notes in speech.

Chip was a member of the Man and his environment cluster.

Chip Hunt

Clayton (Chip) Hunt found his years at Skyline filled with activity. Chip, who has said someday he plans to be president, impressed both teachers and students alike with his abilities.

After being elected to the senate, Chip served on the Principal's Advisory Committee and the Student Activity Council.

Chip was also a member of the Key Club.

George McTyre's musical talents brought him much attention.

The three year member of both the marching and symphonic bands, played clarinet, but his musical ability did not stop there. He also sang and won a place in both Camarata and the Choraliers. He performed in all three spring musicals.

George was active in the French club and was club treasurer his junior year.

George McTyre

George was active in the French Club.

Jimmy Wilson and George practice with the symphonic band.

Mary links pinkies with the varsity cheerleaders for the school song.

Working long and hard to build school spirit was a big part of Mary Cook's life and she was frequently rewarded for her efforts.

As a junior, Mary received recognition for her spirit by being named Silhouette of the week. As a senior, Mary, who was then a varsity cheerleader, was elected football sweetheart and nominated for homecoming queen.

Mary was in the Man and his environment cluster for two years.

Mary was a Silhouette her junior year.

Mary Cook

Beverly was a Silhouette her junior and senior year.

Beverly Reed

Beverly Reed's zeal for life, enjoyment of people and ability to lead them was evident in all that she did.

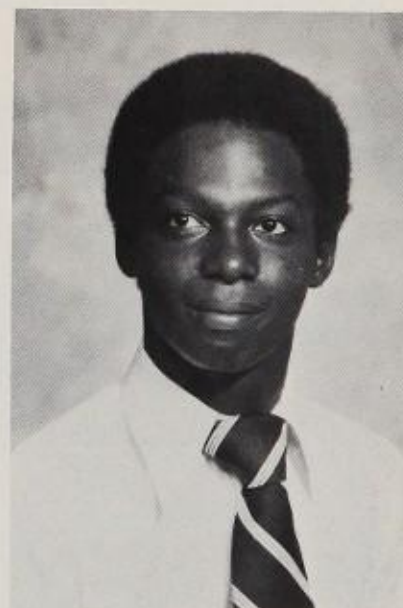

As a Silhouette lieutenant, a member of the senate and a tour guide, Beverly was highly visible, but she also was a member of the stage crew for My Fair Lady.

Beverly was elected to the senate her sophomore and senior years.

Jimmy played trombone in the band.

Jimmy was in the electronics cluster.

Jimmy Washington

As president of the band, Jimmy Washington found his niche for leadership.

Jimmy's three year involvement with the band brought him much attention. As a junior, Jimmy was drum major and as a senior, band members elected him president.

He was also recognized for his intellectual endeavors by his membership in the National Honor Society.

Melinda Thompson

Involved in activities around Skyline, Melinda Thompson was best known as assistant drum major for the Raider marching band and as a member of the symphonic band.

Melinda was in the Foreign Language cluster, president of El Cid, and a member of the National Honor Society.

Melinda was assistant drum major for the Raider Marching Band.

Stanley Gaines

Stanley was a member of the National Honor Society for two years.

Studious and dependable were just two adjectives describing Stanley Gaines. Stanley excelled in his studies and as a result was inducted into the National Honor Society as a junior. He was a member of the Science cluster and club, as well as the Latin club, and the math club, Mu Alpha Theta.

Stanley also enjoyed history and discovery with the Junior Historians and wrote a number of articles for Reflections.

Stanley, a Science cluster student, is conducting an experiment to test the absorbent qualities of different elements.

Linda participated in the spring musicals for three years.

Linda
Hicks

French studies and science projects were tackled enthusiastically by Linda Hicks.

While Linda Hicks established herself as a talented young lady in dramatic and vocal areas, she didn't limit her activities to this. Although being a member of Camarata and Choraliers and being in the Skyline musicals for three years took up a lot of her time, she was also active in the French club and National Honor Society. Linda was also a student in the Science cluster.

WHO'S WHO NOMINEES

Deryl Dodd was a member of the Raider's freshman football team.

Cheryl Dodd was a member of the Student Senate and participated in several Senate sponsored activities.

Cheryl Dodd

The brightest star probably couldn't outshine this special person. Always there no matter what, Cheryl Dodd has proven herself worthy of being chosen as freshman favorite.

Deryl Dodd

Starting anew is not an easy job but seems to have been handled quite well by this young man. Deryl Dodd has been chosen by his peers as freshman class favorite.

Penny King

Always keeping her charming smile when asked to go beyond the call of duty was only one of many reasons Penny King was chosen sophomore favorite. •

Jay Shepherd

Although not easily spotted in a crowd he's been known by his classmates as an outstanding person. Jay Shepherd has been chosen sophomore class favorite.

During his freshman year Jay was a member of the student senate.

Penny was chosen by the Sophomore class as homecoming duchess.

As a sophomore senator Penny King showed her great leadership.

Jay Shepherd in his freshman year was a favorite nominee.

Sophomore favorites

Sharon Kennedy served as a junior member of the Student Senate.

During his sophomore year, Kyle was a catcher for the Raider varsity baseball team.

Junior favorites

Sharon Kennedy

Excelling with her exuberant personality, this young lady was an asset to her peers. Sharon Kennedy was chosen junior class favorite.

Kyle Beavert

Lending advice and rendering his services has always been a part of junior favorite Kyle Beavert.

Kyle Beavert was a member of the varsity football team.

Sharon was involved in girls athletics as a member of the volleyball team.

Freshman Nominees

Beth O'Dell

Jack Jernigan

Joe Morrow

Jimmy Allred

Tim Clouse

Becky Marek

Susan Singler

Junior Nominees

Tracy Moses

Robin Williamson

Steve Leonard

Mark McCullough

Sophomore Nominees

Mary Cook

Involved, interested and well-liked, Mary Cook, cheerleader and homecoming queen, greeted all with a cheery smile and a kind word. These things made her senior favorite.

Keith Dodd

Personality plus interest in all around him are just two of the reasons Keith Dodd was chosen by the seniors as a favorite. As manager for the football and baseball team as well as a co-editor of the personalities section of the Origin for two years, Keith served Skyline and made it a better place to be.

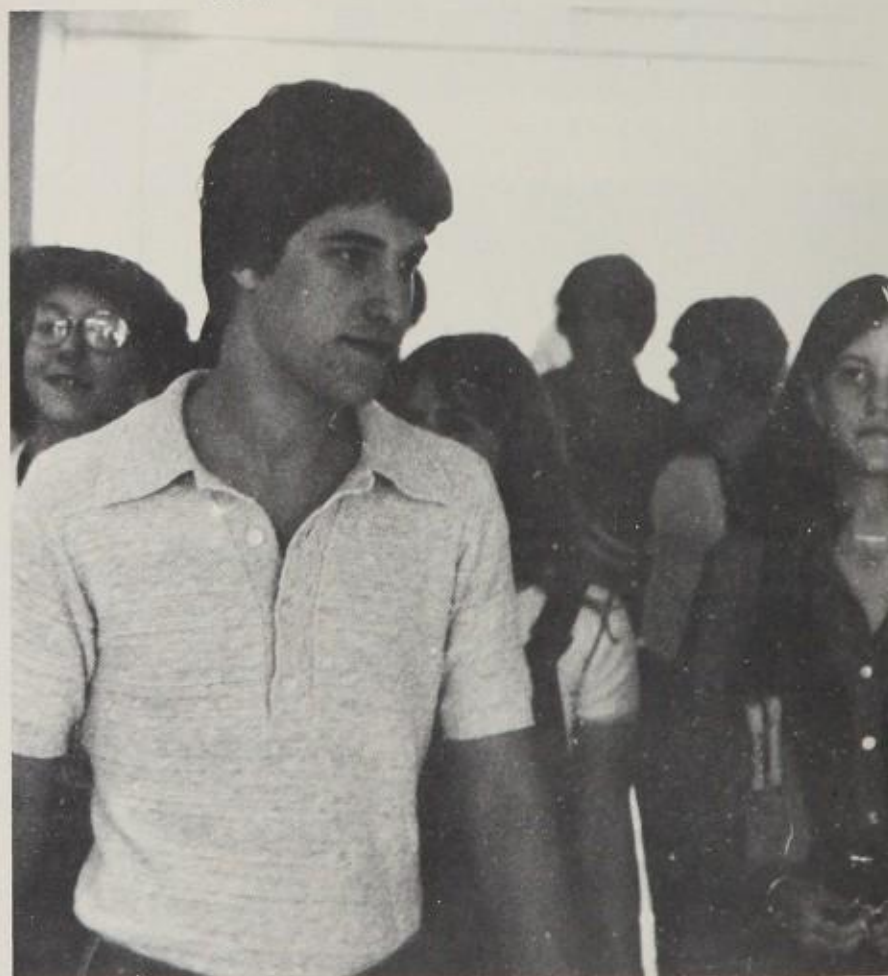

Keith worked on the Origin.

For three years Keith managed the Raider varsity football team.

An interest in those around him makes Keith popular.

Keith Dodd devoted many hours to touring junior high students around Skyline.

Senior favorites

Varsity cheerleaders, Mary Cook, who was elected senior favorite, and Jolie Bartholf cheer the Raiders at Forester field during the B.A. game.

In her sophomore and junior years, Mary was a member of the Man and his environment cluster.

Mary was nominated for Homecoming queen and princess.

Beverly Reed was a lieutenant on the Silhouettes.

Friendliest

Beverly Reed

To command a drill squad and keep smiling is not always an easy task but it seemed to have been handled well by this Silhouette lieutenant.

Always there with a shoulder to cry on and an ear for listening were just two of the reasons Beverly Reed was chosen friendliest.

Roger Campbell

Class president, athlete, and reporter were just a few of the responsibilities taken on by Roger Campbell.

His willingness to take on additional tasks was one of the reasons Roger was considered friendliest.

Roger Campbell was elected class president all three years at Skyline.

Roger also was interested in sports, wrestling and playing soccer.

Roger devoted three years to the journalism cluster. He was the sports editor his senior year.

Greg Cross played end for the varsity football team.

Greg enjoyed the glory of being on the city champion B-team.

Greg stands in front of the marble nameplate in front of the school.

Wittiest

Greg Cross

Membership on the city championship B-football team and playing varsity football show Greg Cross' involvement at Skyline. His peers chose him as wittiest.

Vornadette Simpson

Perhaps one of the most active young ladies at Skyline, Vorn frequently left many laughing with her spontaneous humor and zeal for life. Vornadette Simpson was wittiest.

Vornadette Simpson was vice coordinator of the senate.

Vornadette's interest in speech is evidenced in her gestures.

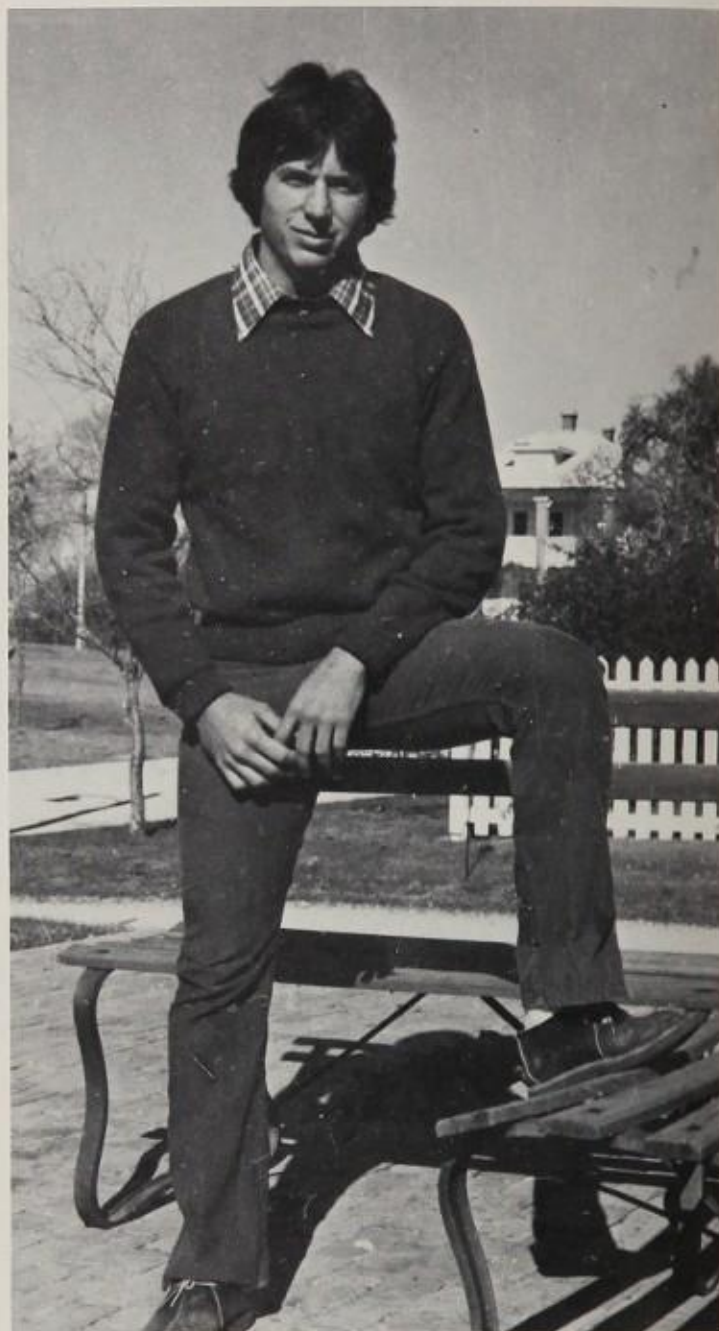

Vornadette was news editor of Reflections and personality editor of the Origin.

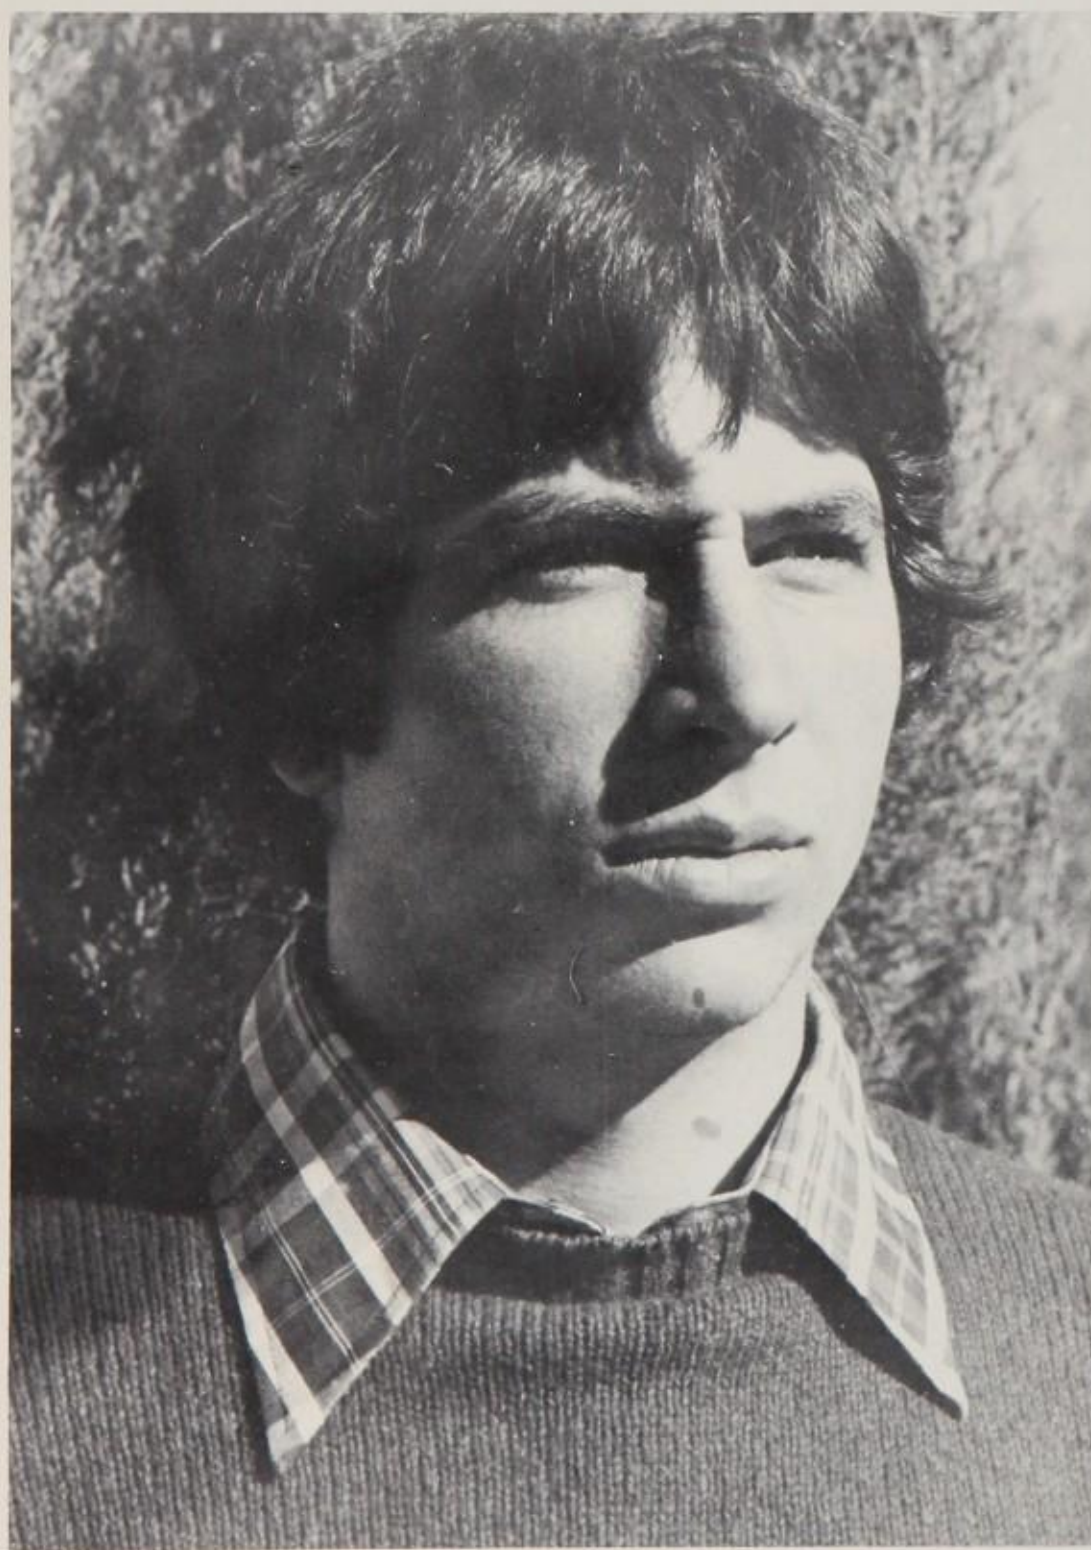

For three years, Todd was a member of the golf team.

Todd Hall attended Young Life meetings regularly.

Todd found many additional activities outside of school.

Todd was co-captain of the golf team for two years.

Todd Hall

Taking an interest in everything he did and showing a concern was Best all around, Todd Hall.

Lori Grant

Drill and Senate kept this young lady quite busy and involved with school activities. Her pep shown in the assemblies could hardly be compared to that shown at the football games.

Lori Grant was Best all around.

Lori Grant portrayed "Bashful" in the production of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs presented by the Spanish Club.

Lori represented Skyline as a youth counselor for the Dallas March of Dimes.

Lt. Lori Grant spent many extra hours commanding her squad of Silhouettes.

Best
all around

Lori was a member of the Musical-Stage Crew during her junior and senior years.

Leslie Boone is known for commanding the Silhouettes. She was captain during her senior year.

For three years, Leslie was a member of the student senate.

Leslie's outstanding scholarship was recognized by her membership in the NHS.

Leslie was chosen as class favorite her junior year.

Most likely to succeed

Serving as NFL president, Kenneth was active in speech and debate.

Key Club member Kenneth Martin participated in several community projects sponsored by the club.

Kenneth received a pride and unity award for debate during his junior year.

Leslie Boone

Succeeding in everything she does, this Silhouette captain has much of which she should be proud.

Her nomination as Key Club sweetheart and her selection as 1978 homecoming queen were fine examples why Leslie Boone was chosen most likely to succeed.

Kenneth Martin

His ability to lead and willingness to follow are two things that make this young man quite unique. Serving as coordinator of the student senate Kenneth Martin has been selected by the senior class as most likely to succeed.

Kenneth was selected to be a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Mike Walker participated in sports all three years at Sky-line.

Mike played varsity football.

The rustic appearance of the wagon at Old City Park accentuates Mike's rugged good looks.

Janice Hrabal is intelligent as well as attractive. She is a member of the NHS.

Mike Walker

All brawn and no brains does not describe this young athlete. Excelling in the classroom as well as on the field, Mike Walker has been chosen as most handsome.

Janice Hrabal

Beauty is said to only be skin deep but that's not the case with this young lady. Showing her beauty inside and out is one reason why Janice Hrabal was chosen as most beautiful.

Janice's involvement started early with her membership in the spirit club and FHA as a sophomore.

Janice was a member of the Silhouettes her junior and senior years.

Most

Faculty

Skyline's faculty has long been a shining example of the traditional quality and excellence always evident here at Skyline. The teachers and administrators promoted an atmosphere of cooperation, friendliness, and respect with the student body. Through this sense of working together, a comfortable environment in which to participate in a free exchange of knowledge was attained. Although they number over 300, members of the Skyline staff never lost touch with the students, which is why the Skyline faculty is truly the biggest and the best.

Principal Frank Guzick

Frank Guzick's expression reflects an uneasy moment at a football game.

Guzick comments on purpose of annual

In this annual you will have one of the most important books you'll ever own. As years go by, you will find this annual will become one-of-a-kind. These pages are filled with activities, accomplishments, and memories, pictures of friends, accounts of serious and humorous events from the years spent at Skyline. This annual will be your "flashback" of what has been recorded. It will trigger your memories for today, and yesterday's happenings are tomorrow's memories. Treasure this annual because as you get older it will become one of your most prized possessions.

Mr. Guzick retains his calmness while dealing with daily annoyances.

Guzick's affection for young people extends from high schoolers on down to pre-schoolers.

Two join administration

Gene Brandenburger, working on his doctorate in vocational education, collected, polished, and faceted gems in his free time.

Joe Baker, who joined the Skyline staff this year, enjoyed boating.

Also joining the Skyline staff this year was Dr. Charles Tuckey, who filled spare time by working with ceramics and serving as an adjunct instructor at ETSU.

When not at Skyline, Ralph Burke could be found farming on his 209 acre soybean farm.

Counseling staff admires Skyline

The counseling staff was a group of very concerned and dedicated people who worked together well with the students because of their helpful attitudes.

After a hard day at work, Sylvia Valle took pleasure in playing tennis, golf, and jogging. Bob Bump found time away from his job to raise quarter horses and sheep. Mr. Bump, who is retired from the air force, also enjoyed boating and water skiing. Making jewelry and rock hunting were two hobbies of Shirley, Bisset, guidance counselor, who expressed her pleasure for Skyline when she said, "When you've died and gone to heaven, you don't ask to go anywhere else."

Joan Mussina believed Skyline offered "every student an opportunity to explore . . . and is the most unique school in the world." Photography was one of Don Presley's outside activities after he left his job in what he considered a school of "friendly, dedicated young people, each one searching, growing, and becoming." Contrary to what many thought, faculty members, too, felt as though they spent more time at their job than they did at home. Skyline means

Energy, interest mark of English teachers

English, a basic for everyone, was taught by very talented and gifted people.

Tanya Morgun was sponsor of the Russian Club. In addition to teaching, Marilyn Shannon was sponsor of the freshman class.

An ear to ear smile became Dorothy Lougheed's trademark. Every morning at 5:45, she and her husband walked a mile. Erma Victor, who has a masters degree in education, liked to sew and did horticulture in her spare time. "Money! Weee! and nice kids" is what Skyline was to Lucile Zahn.

English teachers show humorous side

Known for her smiley and frowny faces on her students' papers, Margaret Hamlin sponsored the National Honor Society for two years. Although her AP English classes completed a unit on how not to be verbose, Mrs. Hamlin didn't always practice what she taught; she described herself as a "domestic manager, transportation engineer, fashion designer, livestock supervisor, critic of the arts, and world traveller."

Patsy Niedecken held a masters degree in English and history, and worked on her Ph.D. in Humanities at UTD.

Displaying her sense of humor, Carolyn Creel, when asked about her outside activities, replied, "yardwork — a truly outside activity." Although she taught English, Ms. Creel holds a degree in German.

Judy Bridges had a big job at Skyline. In addition to teaching, Ms. Bridges was sponsor of the Silhouettes. She saw Skyline as a "learning center to prepare students for the outside world."

In addition to teaching and sponsoring the varsity cheerleaders, Cindy Miller enjoyed playing tennis.

Larry Karl displays a fervor not only for relating war-time episodes of Vietnam, but also for Skyline's young wrestling program. Karl was responsible for the creation of Skyline's wrestling team and instrumental in the formation of DISD's wrestling program.

Ann Schuessler — Man and his environment, Social science coordinator

Exemplifying ideals of good student/teacher relations, social science coordinator, Ann Schuessler commented, "To me Skyline means the chance to be a person as well as a teacher. It means exploring ideas with my students. "Chuck Martin, who worked on his masters' in psychology, also drove a bus and taught night school. Known to all as the head coach of the varsity football team, Red McCollum "woke up and pinched himself occasionally," just to be sure he had such a nice place to work. In addition to teaching, Leonard Davis admired, studied, and collected books, records and antique automobiles. Karla Key sponsored the JV cheerleaders and she enjoyed bike riding and playing racquetball. If this wasn't enough to keep any person busy, Ms. Key worked towards her master's degree at NTSU.

Social Science

Karla Key — World History

Manuel Perez is remembered by his students not only for his prophetic sayings written on the blackboard, but also for his unending attendance at Skyline sporting events. Being one of the Raiders' most ardent supporters, Perez was often at events where widespread faculty and student support was absent.

Outdoors liked by social science

The social science department was made up of a diverse group.

Larry Karl spent much of his time developing the Skyline wrestling team but also played rugby on Dallas teams that have twice won state. Pat Lane also had an interest in sports and had been sponsor of the bowling club for six years. She enjoyed bowling in her leisure time. Robert Horne's interest in the outdoors was shown through his sponsorship of the Woods and Waters Club. He had been working on his doctorate in political science.

Coach Dennis Wickline kept busy coaching a number of teams.

H. L. Sullivan, co-sponsor of the junior historians and Senate found that many of his outside activities were school related including teaching at Mountain View College and driving a school bus.

In addition to coaching varsity baseball and JV football, Harold Hughes spent his free time fishing. Head coach, Red McCollum, said he woke up and pinched himself occasionally just to be sure he has such a nice place to work.

Cathy Baratti, who worked on her doctorate in philosophy, sponsored tour guides. Ruth McCoy enjoyed occasional babysitting for her grandbaby. Manuel Perez had a bright outlook on life made evident by the bright sayings that he wrote on his chalkboard daily.

Junior historians sponsor Meg Haskell enjoyed yoga. Linda Rickman's cheery outlook about her job was made evident by her statement, "Skyline means sharing with others."

Marsha Gray enjoyed watching students and predicting what they will be doing later. White Rock Pool was where Ken Harman worked in the summer.

James Mayo, known for his innovative clothing, coached the basketball team and helped with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Richard Stoddard's involvement included his active membership in many teacher organizations.

Outdoors, sports among interests of science teachers

The science department was made up of a varied group interested in sports, the outdoors and education — both theirs and their students.

The two clubs within the science department were sponsored by four teachers. Sophie Reddit, golf instructor, co-lead the science club with coordinator Gary Atwood as well as the outdoor club with Robert Roe and Carl Sandberg.

Science also was the subject taught by four other coaches Joel Ezar, Dub Lewis, Harry Lantz and Joe McCown, who was a part time truck driver in addition to his teaching duties.

Working on degrees were Jolyne McGregor, Mike Powell and Julia Fuller.

Unusual hobbies abounded among science teachers with Joe Strong studying hieroglyphics, Tom Jordan collecting fossils and Dr. Roe's interest in electronics.

Mathematics

Math teachers take part in diving, chess

As one of the three basics of learning, the mathematics department was made up of interesting and dedicated people.

In addition to enjoying golf outside of school, Mary Morse dived and deep sea fished off the coast of Nicaragua. Scuba diving and writing piano and guitar music were two of the pastimes enjoyed by Allen Voisey, who holds a degree in zoology. After a busy day of teaching five different subjects five different periods, Andy Lumpkin enjoyed Tai Chi, a form of Chinese exercise and meditation. Fishing and hunting were familiar words to Leon Lias who holds degrees in mathematics and chemistry.

Irene Whisenhunt was completing work on her masters in math at UTD. George Acuff recently received his doctorate in Secondary Education. Pat Galloway served as National Honor Society sponsor. "Everything" summed up what Skyline mean to Irene Rogers. She had been a senior sponsor for seven years and enjoyed playing bridge and singing. Mary Erwin had sponsored the ice skating club for three years, and she had a very exciting outside activity — grading papers.

Bill McNabb filled school hours serving as the cluster coordinator for CDC Mathematics. Otto Bielss sponsored the Mu Alpha Theta.

Completing his ninth year at Skyline, Sherman Hughes served as JV football and freshman basketball coach. In addition to caring for Conrad, her two year old son, Pat Gibbons liked to skate. Co-sponsoring Mu Alpha Theta for the first year, Cynthia Smith enjoyed reading in her leisure time.

Raymond Gatewood holds a master's degree in education. Anita Priest was a world traveller. She has been in all 50 states except Alaska and has made two trips to Europe. Working on her master's degree in guidance at ETSU, Beverly Poret also liked to travel.

Spoken word rewarding to language teachers

Helping students communicate with others from different countries truly made the world language department the biggest and the best.

Julie Munford, German club and German dancers' sponsor, trained and showed her doberman in her free time. In addition to her teaching responsibilities at Skyline, Yana Lipscomb sponsored the Italian club. She went to Cliff Temple Baptist Church where she taught Sunday school to Koreans. Spanish club sponsor, Ramon Arguelles, taught swimming lessons and worked as a food manager during the summer. Head of the world language department, Julie Watson sponsored the Spanish club and enjoyed photography, cooking, dancing and sewing in her spare time.

De De Averitt was co-sponsor of the drill team and sponsored the French club. She enjoyed aerobic dancing. Although Marvin Gross taught Hebrew, he held a bachelor's degree in music and also taught piano for a living. "Learning — friends — happiness — beauty" was the attitude that Hannah Cole expressed for Skyline. She sponsored the Latin club. Hsin-hie Wang enjoyed teaching at Skyline and had a busy day teaching three different subjects.

Language teachers successfully make the transition from class studies to festive activities while keeping their sense of humor.

"A place which affords me the opportunity to do what I like best and what I know best for society," was Stephen Cicala's opinion of Skyline.

Snow skiing, traveling, and playing bridge and tennis were among the outside activities of Spanish Club sponsor, Gail Wittenstein. "A place to share my love for world languages and literature," was the dedicated approach that Marianthi Photiades brought to her job. She sponsored the Greek Club.

Communications involves everybody

Communications is something that is important for everybody. These qualified teachers helped all students to become better prepared for the outside world.

"Scouting for eligible bachelors" was one of Toni Laxson's many outside activities along with aerobic dancing and canoeing. Who would ever think that Carol Johnson enjoyed ballet in her spare time? On top of teaching, though, she certainly did. Joan Covici, who holds degrees in kindergarten and early childhood elementary education and reading, enjoyed bookbinding. Sharon Faulk saw Skyline as a school offering many opportunities to increase in knowledge and physical skills, and she enjoyed making her own clothes.

Judy Babb, alias JB And Bubbles to her students, integrated her private life with her school life. Frequently, students found themselves being lectured on the cuteness and perfectness of her three miniature schnauzers or being invited to a "lasagna eat-in" at her home. Whether complaining about the tribulations of writing her master's thesis, or entertaining her students on the guitar, Mrs. Babb maintained that certain "friend-teacher" element that lent flourish to good sponsor-staff relations.

Coordinator for the English Department, James Lloyd was an outgoing man. He enjoyed coin collecting, and as a result had been the sponsor of the coin club.

"A place I have experienced much professional growth. Also, I enjoy the people I work with" was the optimistic outlook that Jackie Samuels had on her job. Jane Howell sought "new opportunities to learn and to share knowledge" in her job.

Although the whirling dervish pace of putting together an annual and newspaper often left sponsor Judy Babb (and many staffers) ready to cry, her leadership, determination and experience provided a sound basis from which students could find the will to continue.

Sandra Lucaa has a certain quality that makes her popular not only as a teacher, but as a friend.

Though Martha Herd joined the teaching staff last year, she was not an unfamiliar face at Skyline. In 1972 she was a student teacher for Dorothy Lougheed. She was the sponsor of the sophomore class.

Doy Steele was in her fourth year as "drama mama" or sponsor of the drama club. She described herself as having "Go" for her middle name, having made trips around the world from Seattle, Washington to Dublin, Ireland. She played the piano, "but only when no one's listening." Another plus to her drama knowledge was her experience from working on the technical staff at Country Dinner Playhouse as prop mistress and wardrobe supervisor for several female stars. Sandra Lucaa was sponsor of the speech and debate teams and has taught grades 1-12. She had sponsored the NFL since she helped open Skyline nine years ago.

Education for all word of business teachers

The business field is a very demanding one. These talented people were an asset to the faculty helping make it the biggest and the best.

Brenda Vick was always at work not only furthering the education of her students, but also her own. Ms. Vick completed work on her master's degree at ETSU. Debbie White in addition to working on her masters at ETSU, found herself busy as one of the senior class sponsors. Barbara Woods filled her free time with one of her favorite hobbies, skating. Rosario Shuford spent her second year at Skyline helping Miguel Ramos with the Los Amigos. She was completing her MS in Vocational counseling. Barbara LaMountain, known as an active senior class sponsor, was working on her masters at ETSU.

Music, art fill teachers' interests outside school

Music and art, the universal languages, are taught by dedicated and involved people.

Jim McDaniel, one of the directors of the jazz, marching, and symphonic bands, enjoyed golf, skiing, and was a professional trumpet player.

Al Cardenas holds a masters in music, and enjoyed researching rare music items.

In addition to sponsoring the stage crew and directing the spring musicals, Dan Peavy directed all choirs. Mr. Peavy was a professional soloist and music director at Northway Christian Church.

Having conducted the orchestra for three years, Bill Myers enjoyed playing orchestral and chamber music.

Plants, music, art and travel were of interest to Vic Ashley, rodeo sponsor.

Floretha Williams has sponsored the art club for three years and was working on her masters in ceramics and sculpture at TWU. She had an object displayed by the Museum of Fine Arts in Nov., 1978.

Pam Burnley had a studio in her home where she works on soft sculpture.

Clusters prepare students for outside world

Teaching specialized fields, these teachers helped students develop skills for the outside world.

Robert Batson sponsored the architecture VICA Chapter, and in his spare time, he enjoyed painting and drawing, theatre and reading. When David Adams wasn't busy as a printing instructor, one might have found him selling Shacklee products or camping. When asked what Skyline meant to him, James Adams jokingly replied, "my grocery bill." Mr. Adams was a VICA sponsor and his students did most of the typesetting for the school newsmagazine, Reflections.

"The ultimate in preparation for one's future" was the high regard that Bud Norton had for Skyline. He was a VICA sponsor, and he enjoyed building and bowling. Historic architecture preservation and house renovation were two interesting hobbies of John Swope. Susan Thornton felt that every community should have a Skyline. She was sponsor of FHA and HERO and also had the big responsibility of being interior design cluster coordinator.

Visual Arts teachers give help to Dallas sheriff

Photography, cinematography, and T.V. — all ways of communication and showing one's views — are of interest to most everybody. These courses, which take patience and expertise, were taught with careful instruction by these fine people who truly made Skyline's faculty the biggest and the best.

John Spann of the photography cluster moonlighted as a photography teacher in night school and worked in the Dallas County sheriff's reserve. "The finest secondary career center in the states" was how Mike Kaufman saw Skyline. He enjoyed bicycling, photography and travelling in his spare time. Archeology, duck hunting and sailing were the diversified activities of Frank Sloan, cinematography instructor. "A fantastic opportunity for young people" was how Ben Waldrip looked at Skyline. In addition to his teaching duties, Mr. Waldrip enjoyed oil painting and wood working, and he worked as a deputy sheriff for Dallas County.

Preparation for home life, careers targeted

By teaching in specialized fields, these instructors helped students become better prepared for later life.

Karen Robinson, who was working on her masters in vocational home economics enjoyed sewing, cooking, ceramics, and bicycling in her leisure time. In addition to sponsoring FHA, Virginia Blair enjoyed doing furniture restoration and working with the Girl Scouts. Sponsoring the FHA and the National Honor Society kept Verlether Grant busy.

Joe Don Skinner sponsored the National Junior Horticulture Society and Future Farmers of America (FFA). Leta Durret was sponsor of the student Senate, Skyline Activity Council, and Career Leadership Council. Eloise Martin sponsored the FHA and was a member of the Dallas Association of Texas Educators. Leah Goldblatt has a BS in education with kindergarten endorsement.

Food Service teachers have the added responsibility of keeping their food inventory at a sufficient level.

Involvement in cooperative programs providing healthy competition was only one of the many ideals set forth by CDC teachers. Odell Chism, HERO sponsor, also enjoyed farming, traveling and church work.

Sonia Myers, FHA, HERO, and CLC sponsor, holds a B.S. in vocational home economics and an M.Ed. in early childhood education.

"An opportunity to help guide students to become better citizens as well as preparing them for the world of work," was how Jimmie Pryor, VICA sponsor saw Skyline.

Skyline's firm commitment to career education made being a part of it worth it, said Meta Richard. She was educated in Germany and was a HERO sponsor.

Raising animals, playing the piano, swimming and dancing were only a few of the outside activities of Norma Carlson.

Skyline gives students chance to learn skills at earlier age

Electronics instructor Robert Dale had such a high opinion of Skyline that although he lived outside of the district, he paid tuition for two of his sons to go here. He summed up his job as "the chance to teach the students things that I wish I had been taught at their age."

In addition to working on her masters in management at UTD, Virginia Salter filled her free time by landscaping and ham radio-ing.

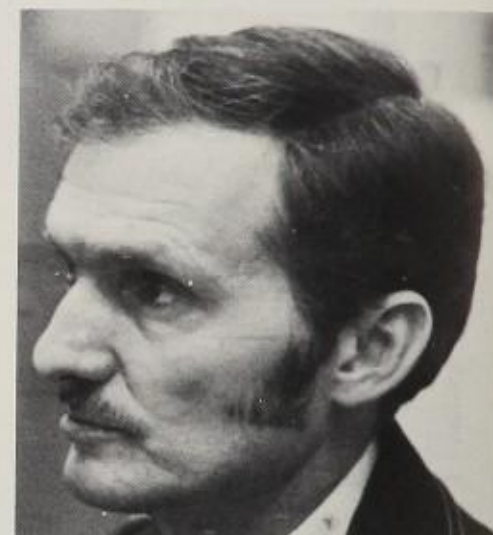

David Sloane, VICA sponsor, looked at Skyline as a place offering much opportunity. He enjoyed hunting, fishing and boating in his free time.

Flying high was the outside activity of the aeronautics teachers, who were a dedicated group.

Working on a masters in secondary education, Herb Lucas enjoyed flying, photography, and participated in many lodge and club activities in his spare time. Phillip Harrison worked on his doctorate in secondary education, enjoyed flying, hunting, and boating.

Aeronautics

True Putney was a dedicated teacher at Skyline who commented, "I am grateful to be a part of this wonderful learning establishment. I enjoy being here. My whole life revolves around this school and my students." Mr. Putney built and flew his own airplane. This home-built aircraft "is listed under the experimental category."

As adult advisor, in 1972, he started the Skyline Junior Chapter of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA). Flying was a familiar work to John Brown who was cluster coordinator. He sponsored the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) for four years, and also enjoyed camping.

In addition to being a VICA sponsor, James Varnon enjoyed flying helicopters and fixed wing aircraft, and quail hunting. Jerry Smith kept himself busy with flying, working on airplanes, traveling, and gardening. Mr. Smith was also co-advisor of the EAA. He was working towards his masters in vocational education at ETSU.

Roger Edwards was a VICA sponsor. "Developing new programs that will help the student to become more aware of themselves" was a goal of Mr. Edwards.

Vocational skills give students alternative

Transportation and construction are two fields which help make necessities in society today. The transportation and construction cluster teachers were all dedicated, made evident by their help in preparing students for very rewarding careers.

Ray Miller had been a VICA sponsor for twelve years and enjoyed going down to his lake house to fish. Ranching, rodeo and cabinet work were the outside activities of Cyril Stephens.

"The most exciting, unusual and challenging, opportunity to present to others what I have learned. It means more than I know how to express." was what Robert Jones said about Skyline. ### Sports, hobbies characterize teachers

Practically every cluster teacher sponsored a VICA group at Skyline, providing students with an outlet for their talents and skills.

Richard Pennington sponsored VICA for four years. Bill Smith, who held a BS and an MS in industrial arts, was a VICA sponsor. Working on his own cars and hunting were two of the hobbies of VICA sponsor, Don Kinney.

Long distance running, motorcycling, photography, backpacking and skiing were the diversified outside activities of Rex Jones. In addition to sponsoring VICA, Alvin Armstrong enjoyed hunting, fishing and farming. "An opportunity to share in tomorrow" was how Glenn Easley saw Skyline.

Vocational teachers like Alvin Armstrong shed the suit and tie to dress as if they were on the job.

Novel programs improve Skyline

In his second year at Skyline, Bob Beckner described the school as a Cadillac among Hondas.

Key Club sponsor Bill O'Neal rode a bicycle to Skyline from Garland every day.

Harold Arrington holds a master of education degree, and saw Skyline as a "good place to teach."

For leisure, Alton Dean enjoyed gardening, canoeing, and woodworking.

Jettie Sams came to Skyline when it opened, and she took a large part in Skyline sports by coaching girls' Varsity volleyball and basketball.

Pat Jackson, also one of the original staff, was working on her masters in Health Education and Administration at TWU.

Classes

Each member of Skyline's student body added a new dimension to the uniqueness of his own class whether it was freshman, sophomore, junior or senior. One could participate by supporting class fund-raising projects, adding to class meetings, or even yelling the most during pep assemblies. Yet, the classes together formed a common bond to make Skyline the biggest and the best.

Under the leadership of Michelle Ottmo, freshman president, Lisa Durbin, vice president, and Lesia Turner, secretary/treasurer, the freshman class seeks pride and unity by maintaining new and bright ideas.

Lesia Turner is very dedicated to her job as secretary/treasurer.

Lisa Durbin shows efficiency in her duties as vice president.

Freshmen find Skyline a place for growth

Michelle Ottmo works enthusiastically to carry out her position as president.

Wesley Baker observes the events happening in the student center.

Brad Biesel appears bored as he waits in the lunch line.

The freshman class came into Skyline with high expectations along with goals which they hoped to accomplish. As the newest class to take advantage of Skyline's unique career opportunities, freshmen looked to the upperclassmen as examples of what can be gained and learned from Skyline center.

Brian Haley, Ed Cobb, and Danny Reyes prepared to watch a film in Ms. Zahn's class.

Ads and index

Advertising is of prime importance when it comes to growing and exploring new horizons. Through the support of the advertisers, the yearbook has continued to grow. In addition to receiving quality advertising in the Origin, the advertisers are reaching the entire Dallas area. The advertisers of the 1979 Origin are giving their best and getting the best in return.

Teachers digress, transgress, regress

Teachers are frequently caught in embarrassing situations, or at least in unlikely ones. Those on these two pages portray just a little of the craziness that built as the year wore on.

Things started crazy with Mr. Guzick's announcement in August that we had never run out of food as a warning for the freshmen not to run to lunch. Within the week came the announcement that there was no food in D-lunch and we were sending out for more.

A month or so later, some third floor teachers banded together to embarrass Tommy Whitlock with a singing/dancing/kissing telegram.

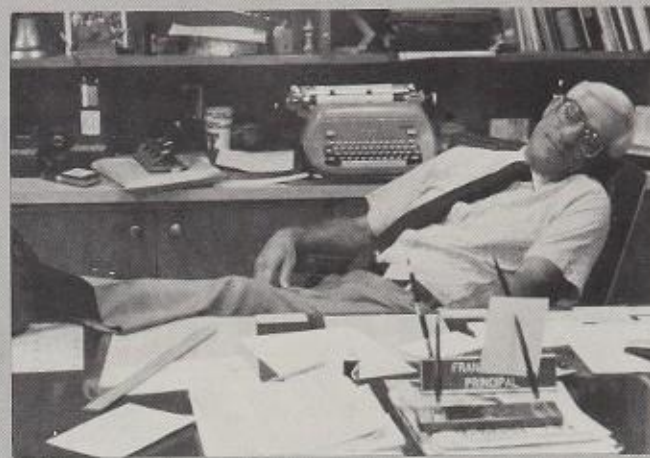

A familiar, but perhaps strange sight was H. L. Sullivan's test day procedures.

teach their students dance steps.

Andy Lumpkin defies the rules against eating in class.

Ramon Arguelles.

Much to her embarrassment, AP English teacher Margaret Hamlin is caught by her students after lodging her key in the hole on the handle of a locker. Why'd she put it there, anyway?

Dressed all in black, Mr. Sullivan would play funeral dirges while his students suffered through the exams.

Bill O'Neal added a chuckle or two with his dress as he bicycled to and from work.

Margaret Hamlin always managed to get a chortle as she explained "Two Bottles of Relish" or interpreted the "good" parts of "Othello".

May marks the beginning of the end

After nine long months of expectation, students and teachers were tired and ready to move on to new activities. Books long guarded during the year were now discarded. Notes that once seemed precious no longer were so.

There was excitement about the upcoming month but even more about the upcoming years. Seniors looked forward to college and careers, juniors looked forward to being seniors and everyone seemed to be climbing up a rung.

May marks the beginning of a busy, busy month.

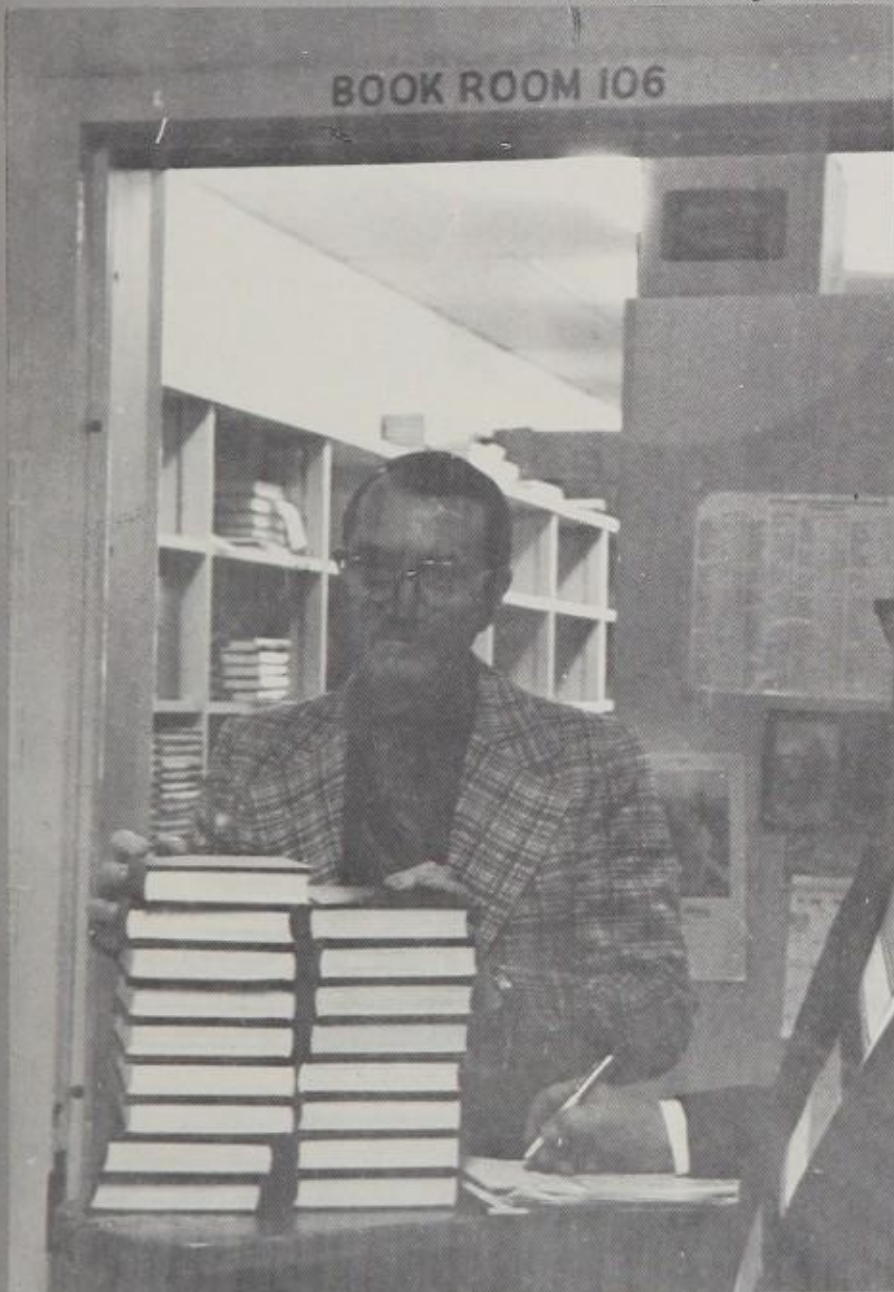

A few looked forward to the summer trip to Europe, escorted by Toni Laxson.

Exhaustion during the end of the year catches up with everyone.

Students and teachers alike are relieved of their tons of books as the books begin to pile up outside the bookroom.

All the notes and papers collected during the year are deposited in "File 13."

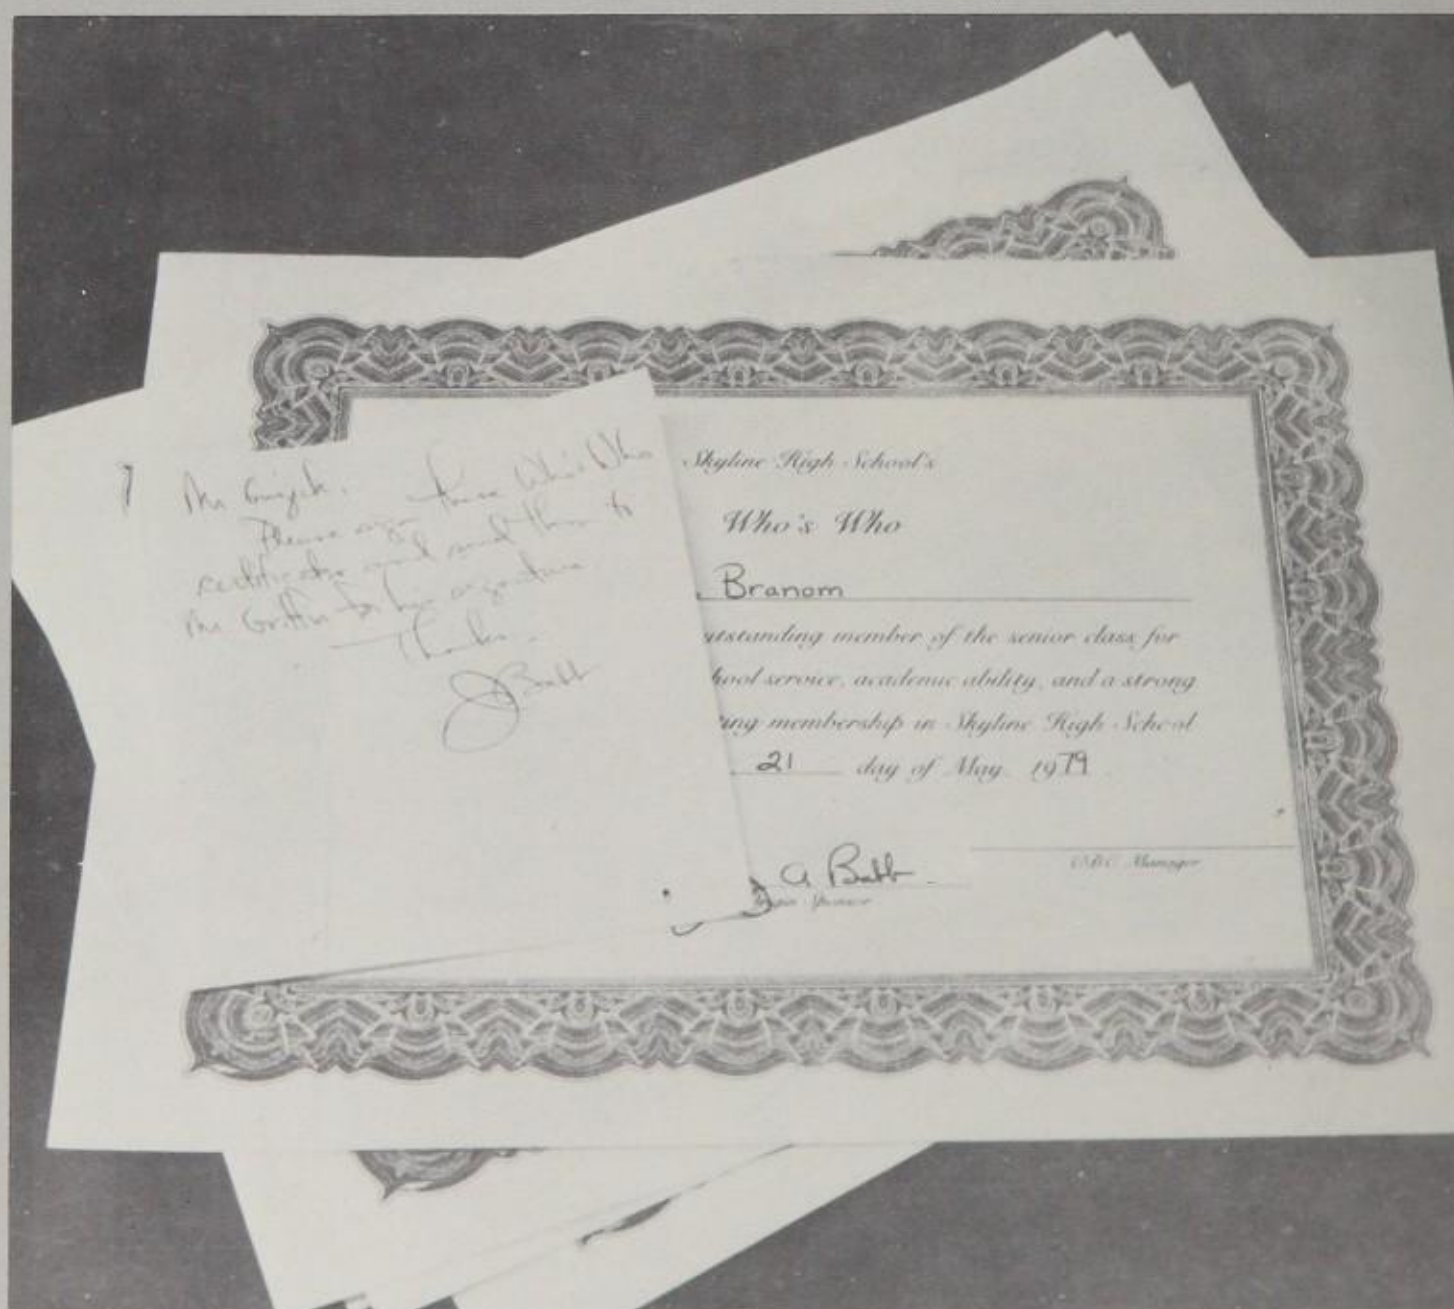

Juniors receive their Balfour senior rings during December as a reminder that their time is soon to come.

Spring finds athletes finally rewarded with letter jackets for a year of hard work.

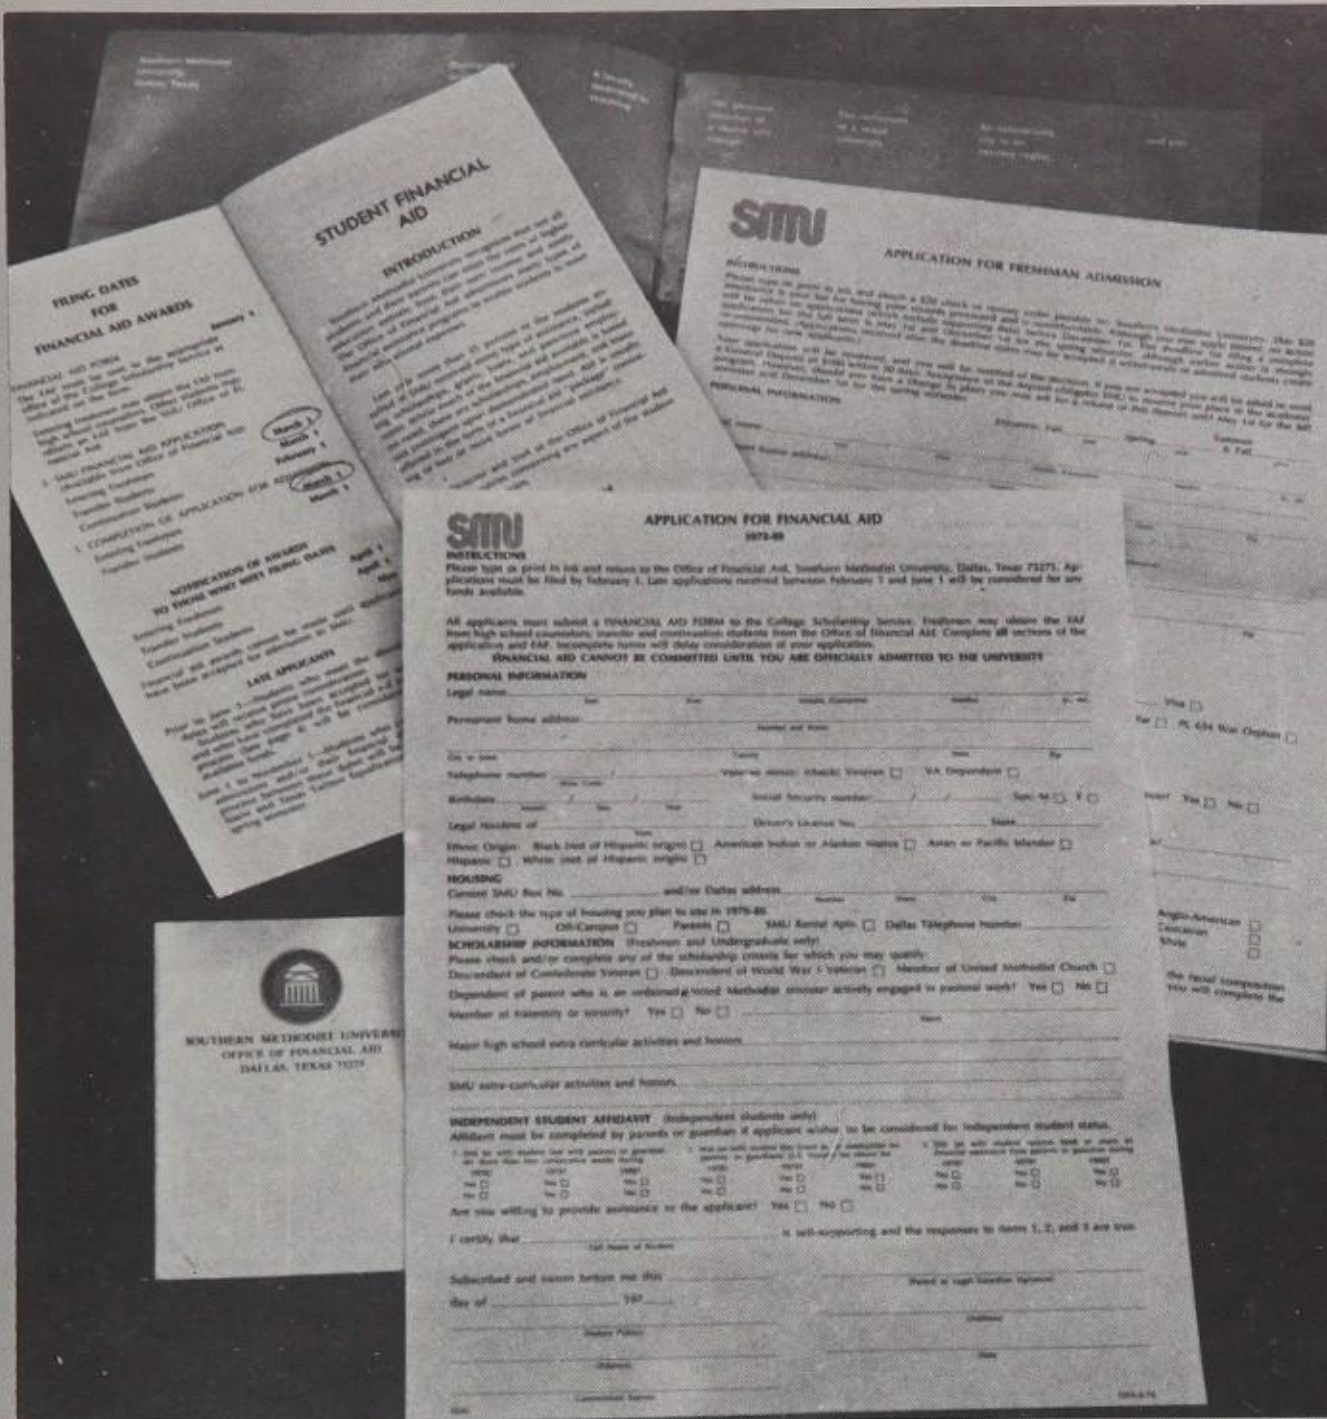

In preparation for the upcoming yearbook assembly the 19 Who's Who certificates must be signed.

Spring brings long awaited rewards

The final quarter brought momentous events of consequence. NHS members were inducted in March, Pride and Unity Awards given in April, senior assemblies, Who's Who awards and finally graduation followed in May. While all of these rewards for hard work came virtually at the same time, each was important to those who received them.

These forms seem familiar to well over half of the Skyline graduates preparing to go to college.

With only 500 students invited to the yearbook assembly, the invitations are prestigious to their possessors.

And finally, seniors receive the document that confirms the end of their high school days.

Senior gift, seniors' gifts

Seniors displayed their pride in Skyline through the gifts they gave, both to show their love for the school and in an effort to be remembered by those who followed them. Plaques seemed to have been a favorite for several years. Each gift, be it from student, faculty member or senior class was unique in its own way; yet they were all related in the effort to represent the pride they all felt in being a part of Skyline.

This plaque, mounted in the auditorium is the gift from the 1978 graduating class.

The 1977 graduating class left this Raider plaque which is mounted on the wall in the auditorium.

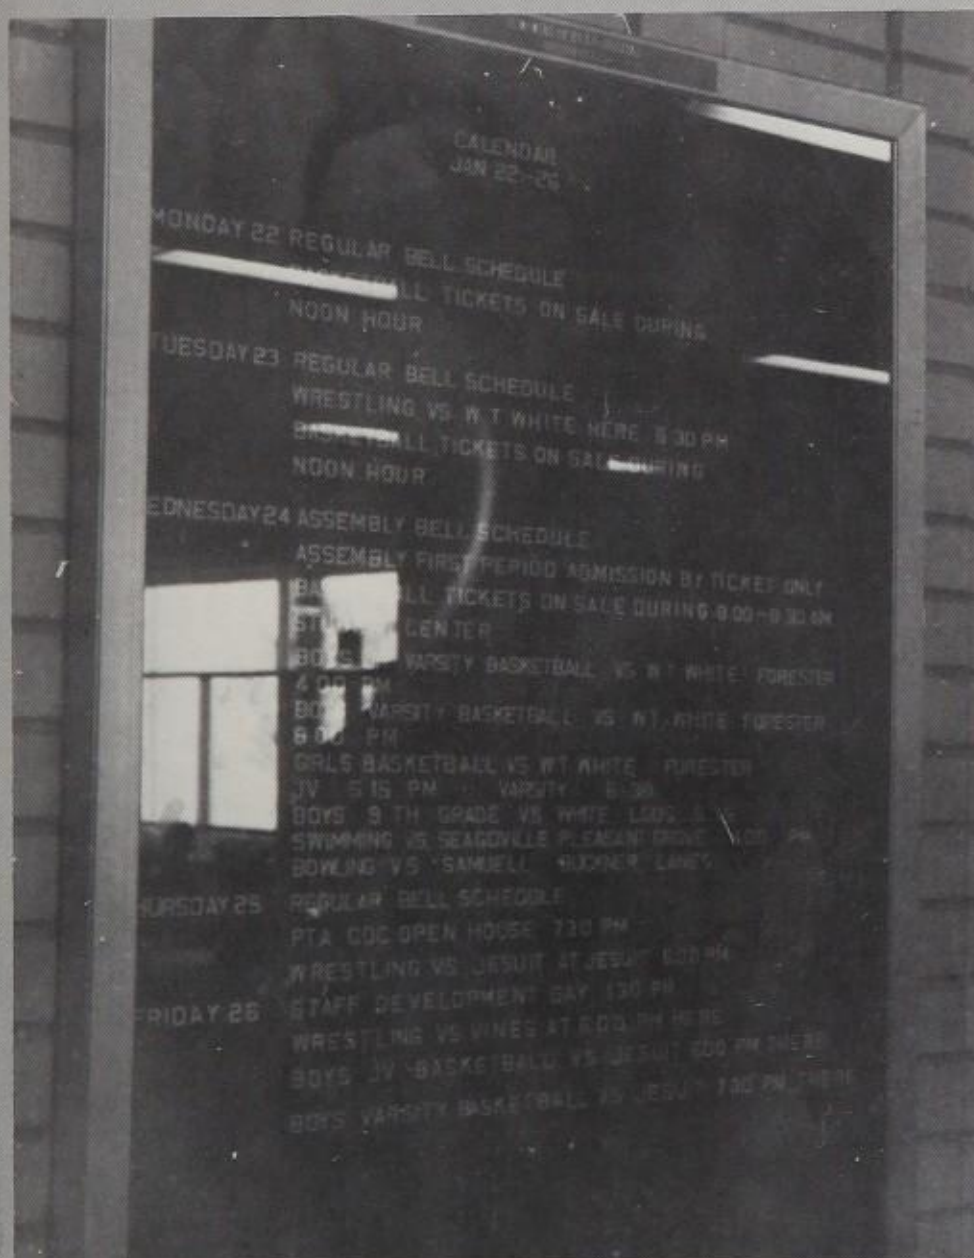

Skyline's second set of flagpoles came individually. They are gifts from classes '74 and '75.

The marquee in front of the school, donated by the 1977 class, informs students and visitors of upcoming events.

The glass bulletin board mounted on the wall at the east end of the student center posts the weekly schedule. This gift was given by Key club members.

The Skyline PTA offered parents an opportunity to give seniors a remembrance of their years at Skyline.

Summer leaves Skyline empty but not emptied of memories

As the halls and classrooms emptied on the last day of school, each student anticipated the events of the summer and coming years. Seniors looked toward college and careers, juniors looked forward to their senior year, and sophomores and freshmen looked toward two or three more years on the Skyline scene.

Administrators, teachers and students closed the doors on Skyline, some for the last time.

One last glance backward helped to refresh and keep in mind the memories made there during the 1978-79 school year, and of Skyline, the biggest and the best.

Students walk the lonely halls of Skyline before the doors close for the summer.
